WILSON CARRIED 39 STATES, 413 ELECTORAL VOTES

His Popular Vote 6,191,866, Roosevelt's 4,193,580, Taft, 3,536,529.

CONGRESS ALONG WITH HIM

Democrats Have 297 in House, Republicans 122, Progressives 16—Senate in Line.

TAFT GOT ONLY 3 STATES

BIG GAIN FOR SOCIALISTS

Roosevelt Got Michigan, Pennsylvania, Washington, South Dakota, and Possibly Illinois.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS WIN

Their Influence Large in the Election—Gain Right to Vote in Four More States, Making Ten in All.

Wilson, 413; Roosevelt, 106; Taft, 12.

That's the way the Electoral vote looks now, and the President has carried only the insignificant—from a political standpoint—States of Idaho, Utah, and Vermont. Utah and Idaho are the States where the Mormon Church is strong, and Vermont stands alone with them.

Wilson's majority is the most tremendous ever cast in the political history of America. Wilson's victory over Roosevelt was as great as Grant's over Greeley, with the difference that Greeley really did represent a great and long-established National party—and, for that matter, two parties—and that Roosevelt represented only a hastily got together party, called into existence after both the old conventions were over.

Last night the people had given such a verdict against this party that it seemed even doubtful if the Colonel would have Illinois, the greatest State, except Pennsylvania, that is supposed to have cast her votes for him. Illinois is still officially in the Progressive column, but the late returns are such as to indicate that she is in doubt and may change over to Wilson.

Thirty-nine States have voted for Wilson, including such great States as New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and California. Six States have voted for Roosevelt, almost all of them great States, such as Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Michigan.

The States given to Roosevelt—Illinois, with 29 votes; Pennsylvania, with 38 votes; Michigan, with 15; Minnesota, with 12; Washington, with 7, and South Dakota, with 5—do not greatly diminish the extent of Wilson's triumph. The popular vote as distinguished from the Electoral vote shows that he had an enormous plurality on the popular vote as well as on the Electoral vote.

Roosevelt, however, led Taft on the popular vote the same as he did on the electoral vote. This was somewhat surprising to a good many old political observers, who, while conceding that Roosevelt would get more electoral votes than Taft, believed that the sentiment of party loyalty would get Taft so many ballots in the States where he was defeated that he would still lead Roosevelt on the popular vote. The latest returns, however, show that Wilson got 6,191,866 votes, Roosevelt 4,193,580, and Taft 3,536,529, so that Roosevelt defeated Taft on both counts, electoral and popular.

48 Democrats in the Senate.

President Wilson will not be handicapped by an opposition majority in Congress. In the Senate the Democrats will have 52 votes, the Republicans 35, the Progressives 6, with three seats unfilled. In the House there will be 297 Democrats, 122 Republicans, and 16 Progressives. If Wilson fails to put through the progressive legislation he desires it will be only because his party refuses to stand by him; he surely has the votes.

In this State he got one of those record pluralities which began with the Folger campaign and to which McKinley, Roosevelt, and Taft have accustomed us. He got 196,000, and the combined vote of Taft and Roosevelt fell to 36,000 behind Taft's vote in 1908.

This election has put women tremendously to the front as a political influence. There are now ten States instead of six where they can vote—Michigan, Kansas, Arizona, and Oregon having adopted

WAGER TANGLES IN WALL ST.

$100,000 Will Change Hands When Involved Bets Are Straightened Out.

Wall Street's unofficial betting commissioners began yesterday to straighten out their accounts with the men who had been willing to back their forecasts on the election with money. There was less betting in this campaign than has been the case for many years, but it is estimated that fully $250,000 was held by the stakeholders, and upward of $100,000 will change hands as a result of the Democratic landslide, a large amount having been wagered on Wilson at big odds.

Where bets had been placed on Wilson being elected, they were determined by the early returns yesterday and paid off, but most of the wagers were so involved that they cannot be settled until the full vote is in. Differences as to the size of the votes received by the three candidates, the number of States carried by Roosevelt, and the number of votes which each will have in the Electoral College were not decided by yesterday's returns.

One broker in the financial district, who favored Taft's re-election, expects to collect a comparatively large sum of money as the result of a number of wagers which he placed at even money on the proposition that the Bull Moose candidate would not carry seven States. He had expected Taft to take more States, but as most of those lost by the President were captured by Wilson, his bets looked safe yesterday.

An out-of-town visitor who reached New York on Monday full of Progressive enthusiasm, owes the retention of $2,000, which he tried to lose, to the fairmindedness of a broker on the Stock Exchange. The visitor was sure that Roosevelt would be elected, but he had heard that the odds were against it, and he left $2,000 with a broker to be placed on the Bull Moose Party against $3,500. The broker called up a friend on the Stock Exchange floor, and was told that the $2,000 would cover $0,000 of Wilson money instead of $3,500. When he learned the odds, the stranger decided that something was wrong with his own information, and withdrew his money.

BOMB FROM ELEVATED TRAIN

Lands in Third Avenue as Thrower Rides On and Escapes Pursuit.

J. Hannino, who owns a green grocery at 1,307 Third Avenue, was standing in front of his shop reading a paper last night at seven o'clock as a northbound Third Avenue elevated train went by. As the last car passed, he looked up in time to see a bomb drop from a window of the train and strike the sidewalk about ten feet from him in front of the drug store of Thomas Latham, at 1,309 Third Avenue. As it struck the sidewalk there was an explosion that was heard for blocks, and the two buildings were enveloped in thick, yellow smoke.

Policeman Berry ran from his post at Seventy-fifth Street and Third Avenue, but before the smoke had cleared away the elevated train had made its stop at the Seventy-sixth Street station, and by the time the policeman knew where the bomb had come from it was too late for pursuit.

The windows and doors of the drug store were cracked by the explosion. Nothing remained of the bomb. It had evidently been wrapped in thin copper sheeting, which was blown to bits too small to be found. Only one person besides Hannino was near enough when it exploded to be jarred. This man was walking along the sidewalk in front of the drug store, but was not injured, and left without giving his name to the police.

Robert Mirsky, a clerk, and several customers were in the drug store, and also were unhurt.

The police think the bomb was meant for Hannino, but he denies that he has enemies or has ever received threatening letters.

EXPECT NEW MAJOR GENERAL.

Gov. Dix May Appoint Brigadier General Eddy or Col. Appleton.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 6.—A new Major General to succeed Gen. John F. O'Ryan of New York as head of the National Guard field forces of the State will be named within a week by Gov. Dix, according to reports circulated at the Capitol to-day. The Governor does not want, it is said, to leave the Guard without a Major General until next January, as Adj. Gen. Verbeck will retire on that date, and the Guard would thus be left without a head.

Two men are under consideration, Brig-Gen. John G. Eddy of Brooklyn, senior Brigadier of the Guard, and Col. Daniel Appleton, commanding officer of the Seventh Regiment, New York. Gen. Eddy is now temporarily acting as Major General, and his appointment would meet with general approval, it is believed. Col. Appleton is much attached to his regiment. He has refused the appointment of Brigadier General, but he would accept the more important office of Major General, his friends declare.

Both these officers would be able to serve only three or four years because of the 64-year-old retirement law passed two years ago.

Surprise was expressed at the Capitol to-day, at Gen. Verbeck's announcement on Monday night that he intended to "commit hari-kari and retire with his emperor, Gov. Dix," as one man expressed it. The one man, who said he was not surprised, was the Governor. It appears that Gen. Samuel M. Welch of Buffalo is a candidate to succeed Gen. Verbeck.

HELD ON ACTRESS'S CHARGE.

Miss Pease Said Hebron Took $100, but Didn't Give Her a Part.

James Hebron of 151 West Sixty-third Street was arrested last night on the complaint of Miss Adele Pease of 324 West Fifty-third Street. Miss Pease charged that Hebron told her he was an actor-manager. He accepted $100 from her, she declared, in return for giving her a star part in a musical comedy which she said he told her he was going to produce. The part was never given to her, Miss Pease declared. Miss Pease said she was from the South, but she declined to give her address, because, she alleged, she was trying to go on the stage against her father's wish, and she did not want him to know of her trouble.

Hebron, who refused to discuss the charge against him, will be arraigned to-day in the West Side Court.

GLYCERINE FACTORY AFIRE.

Loss to the amount of $25,000 was caused by fire late last night in the glycerine factory of Marx & Rawolle at Van Brunt and Irving Streets, Brooklyn. The fire was brought under control after half an hour of fierce fighting, but not until large quantities of crude and refined glycerine had been destroyed.

EX-FARMER HAUNTS CARNEGIE'S HOUSE

Scales High Gate in Attempt to Have Talk with Ironmaster.

SEEKS LETTER'S CONTENTS

Note Carnegie Wrote Him Went Astray, He Says—Has Kept Vigil Since Oct. 19.

Since Andrew Carnegie returned from Europe on Oct. 19 on the Baltic a tall, swarthy man with a sweeping black mustache, who says he is William A. Hartley, an ex-Minnesota farmer, has been haunting almost daily Carnegie's residence, at Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, and making desperate efforts to see him. He first attempted to see Mr. Carnegie at the pier, and only last Monday he succeeded in scaling a ten-foot iron gate and gaining access to the grounds btfore he was captured by a private watchman and ejected. In the hope of seeing Mr. Carnegie he stationed himself opposite the house again late yesterday afternoon and remained there until a policeman ordered him away.

The police declared yesterday the man was a crank. At the East Eighty-eighth Street station it was said that Mr. Carnegie had made no complaint against the man, but it was intimated that if he continued to annoy Mr. Carnegie he would be arrested. At Mr. Carnegie's residence, it was said, the man was a harmless crank, and the case was trivial.

When seen last night by reporters Hartley, who says he is 40 years old, was clad in a light gray suit. He wore a cap and a flaring purple tie which overran his collar. He said that four years ago he owned an eighty-acre farm in Bemidji, Beltrami County, Minn.

Carnegie Letter Went Astray.

He sold his farm four years ago and came East. Soon after coming East, he said, Mr. Carnegie wrote him a letter, but as it was addressed to Bemidji he never received it. The letter, he declared, he learned a year ago from friends had fallen into the hands of a neighbor who opened it, and used it to kindle a fire with.

He wanted to see Mr. Carnegie, he explained, to learn the contents of the letter. "I do not want money from Mr. Carnegie," he said, "I do not know him, but I am anxious to learn what he wrote to me for. He is a benefactor of mankind, and perhaps he wants to do something for me."

He declared he had invented a turpentine cure for tuberculosis, and also an alcohol cure for cancer. He said he at one time suffered severely from chilblains and sore throat, and had cured himself with his tuberculosis preparation. He thought that possibly Mr. Carnegie had heard about his preparations, and wanted to discuss them with him. He had read, he declared, of Mr. Carnegie's benefactions in the magazines, so when he learned about the letter he decided to see Mr. Carnegie. Since leaving Minnesota he has made his home with his father in Baker, N. Y., and with relatives in Canandaigua, N. Y. He arrived in the city on Sept. 30, and when he failed to meet Mr. Carnegie on the arrival of the Baltic he went that night to Mr. Carnegie's residence, but had no better success in seeing him.

Sees Carnegie in the Garden.

It was shortly after 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon that Hartley appeared at Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street. There was no policeman there at the time, as the patrolmen were changing post. Hartley, looking through the iron pickets, observed Mr. Carnegie walking in the garden. He said he peered through the pickets, and tried to attract Mr. Carnegie's attention, but in this he did not succeed. There was nothing on this side of the fence by which he could get a foothold, so he walked around to the front of the house looking for a vantage point. In Ninety-first Street he met the watchman. He was told as usual that he could not see Mr. Carnegie, and the watchman told him to go along like a good fellow.

The watchman started toward Fifth Avenue, and Hartley toward Madison Avenue, but when the watchman's back was turned Hartley ran back and began to scale the gate to the premises. He dropped safely into Mr. Carnegie's garden, and then raced south toward a tall pergola which separated him from the part of the grounds in which he had caught a glimpse of Mr. Carengie. He placed a ladder he found against the wall of the pergola, and scrambled up it. In the meantime, the watchman, happening to look back, saw Hartley disappearing over the gate. He hastened after him up the ladder of the pergola wall, and caught Hartley as he was about to drop into the coveted garden.

Hartley declared that as he scrambled upon the wall of the pergola he caught a glimpse of a gray head which he believed to be that of Mr. Carnegie. He declared he could hear the voices of servants raised in excitement, and that someone shouted, "He might shoot."

When the watchman overtook him Hartley offered no resistance. He was taken into the office of James Bertram, Mr. Carnegie's private secretary. Mr. Bertram assured him that Mr. Carnegie had never written him a letter, and did not wish to see him. When it was found that there were no weapons on Hartley he was permitted to go.

Hartley declared afterward that since coming to the city he had written two letters to Mr. Carnegie without receiving a reply. On coming here he said he first made his home at the Hotel Taft in West Thirty-eighth Street, but was now stopping at a hotel at Thirty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue. He did not know whether he would attempt to see Mr. Carnegie to-day or not.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. HAYWARD.

Ex-Secretary of Republican National Committee Accused of Cruelty.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 6.—William H. Hayward, formerly secretary of the Republican National Committee, was yesterday made defendant in a suit for divorce, filed in Omaha by his wife, Mrs. Sarah C. Hayward. Although Mr. Hayward now lives in New York, his wife has maintained her residence in Omaha, where she lived before her husband moved to New York.

The divorce is asked on the ground of extreme cruelty, which, it is alleged, in the last six years has caused her great mental anguish and permanently injuring her health. No detailed instances of cruelty are mentioned and Mrs. Hayward refuses to discuss the suit in any way.

Will Hayward was one of the best known men in Nebraska, his father having been United States Senator. He was defeated for Congress and then he started with his wife on a trip around the world. On landing at New York, Mr. Hayward remained there, announcing he would make it his home. The wife came on to Nebraska and has remained here since. Her maiden name was Sarah Ireland. The case will be heard in December.

EXTRA SESSION CALL IS FULLY EXPECTED

Wilson Likely to Summon Congress for Tariff Revision Soon After March 4.

THREE BILLS AWAIT ACTION

Chairman Underwood to Prepare Measures So That They Will Pass with Little Discussion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Almost the first duty that President Wilson will perform will be to issue a call for an extraordinary session of Congress to revise the tariff, according to the prevailing opinion here. Three tariff bills, passed by Congress and vetoed by President Taft, need only to be passed again to get the signature of the Democratic President. It is also held that the Democratic platform pledges Gov. Wilson to issue the call.

What the Democratic platform does declare for is the "immediate downward revision" of the tariff, and this expression, since the campaign of 1908, has been held to mean revision at an extra session. Gov. Wilson himself made no direct statement on the subject, though when President Taft warned the country that the Democratic candidate was pledged to a revision of the tariff at an extra session Mr. Wilson smiled in a way that seemed to indicate his willingness to accept the indictment.

The Democratic leaders in Congress confidently expect an extra session, and they look forward to it eagerly as an opportunity for at last passing bills which for the past two years have lacked only the President's signature to become law. Undoubtedly with a Democratic Senate—if the upper House does prove to be Democratic—those bills will be modified and the La Follette amendments will probably be discarded. But it can be confidently stated that the bills that Mr. Wilson will be asked to sign will not be far different in principle from the measures which Mr. Taft vetoed.

In the bills which passed one house, but not the other, changes of a more sweeping character will be made at the next Congress. Some of these measures were hurriedly drafted, and obviously for political effect.

The opinion here is that the extra session will be called shortly after inauguration day, and that it will last well into the Summer. The measures already passed can be adapted to present conditions by Chairman Oscar W. Underwood in short order, and they will pass with only perfunctory debate. But after them will come other measures on which the Ways and Means Committee will begin work as soon as Congress reconvenes in December.

Chairman Underwood will be almost undisputed leader of his party. He holds that position in fact, and in title, in the House, and Democratic Senators have shown no disposition to embarrass him at their end of the Capitol.

Gov. Wilson has already shown a disposition to consult with Mr. Underwood on tariff matters, and is not expected to oppose his programme.

STOVE COAL AT $8 A TON.

Declared to be Scarce in Brooklyn Even at That Price.

In some sections of Brooklyn $8 a ton was asked for stove coal yesterday, the highest price since the coal strike of 1902. The small dealers are finding it difficult to get coal at any price, the large concerns which supply schools, hospitals, orphan asylums, and other institutions being supplied first.

A representative of the coal trade said that if coal were distributed properly among the dealers there would be no scarcity.

"It may be interesting for people who talk of coal being scarce to know that the total shipments of anthracite in October of this year exceeded the October shipments of last year by more than 200,000 tons," he said.

The New York Merchants' Association's special committee on the coal supply of the city is making an inquiry into operations in the anthracite coal region and the supplies on hand.

Inquiry also will be made as to what proportion of the recent production has been shipped to the West. It is said that the largest proportion of the recent shipments has been sent to the West, thereby causing the existing shortage in the New York market. It is explained that it is necessary that the entire Western supply be forwarded before the close of navigation.

If Western demands have been cared for, the merchants say most of the supply will be available now for the New York demand, and if the mines are operated to a maximum an ample quantity to meet New York's needs should soon be available.

TWICE WED, TWICE DIVORCED.

Mrs. Hilker Wins Second Suit Against Husband She Remarried.

After marrying the same man twice Mrs. Elizabeth Hilker applied yesterday to the Supreme Court in Brooklyn for a second divorce from him. She got it. Justice Blackmar, after listening to testimony about the defendant, who is Herman Hilker, a Manhattan dry goods merchant, granted his wife an interlocutory decree and $150 a month alimony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilker formerly lived at 184 Winthrop Street, Brooklyn. They were first married on Nov. 16, 1892, and were divorced on Feb. 23, 1901. Less than a month later they became reconciled and remarried. Hilker's attentions to other women, according to his wife, caused them to separate again.

ROYAL GEORGE RUNS ASHORE NEAR QUEBEC

Fast Great Northern Steamship Grounds in a Fog Off Point St. Laurent.

400 PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF

Tugs Go to Her Rescue—Bad Pilot System Makes the St. Lawrence Route Perilous.

QUEBEC, Nov. 6.—The Canadian Northern Royal Mail steamer Royal George, with 901 passengers on board, grounded on rocks during a fog in the St. Lawrence River early to-night. She is reported to be in a serious plight.

The passengers and crew are all safe. Four hundred passengers were taken off at a late hour and are on the way here.

The vessel went ashore one mile east of Point St. Laurent, Island of Orleans, ten miles below Quebec. The wrecking steamer Lord Strathcona and two tugs have been sent to her aid. The rocks on which the steamer struck lie on the north side of the south channel.

The Royal George left Grosse Isle Quarantine Station for Quebec shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon. She was said to be going at full speed at the time she met with the accident. She was on her way from Avonmouth, England, and was due in Montreal to-morrow.

The grounded steamer is in a position difficult of access, and news of the developments is slow in reaching shore.

The steamship officials are arranging for the reception of the passengers, if they are brought here. Food is in preparation and instructions have been given to all employes in the service to remain on duty all night, if necessary. Several more tugs have been sent out to the stranded vessel's aid.

The Royal George was on her last trip to the St. Lawrence this season.

The Royal George was a triple screw turbine steamship, built in 1907 by the Fairfield Company of Glasgow for the Egyptian Express Steamship Company of London, to run between Marseilles and Alexandria. She was named the Héliopolis, and was sister ship to the Cairo, now the Royal Edward. The Egyptian Express Company failed in 1909, and the two steamships were purchased by the Canadian Northern Steamship Company to run between Liverpool and the Canadian ports, reducing the passage to five days.

The Royal George's dimensions are: Length, 525 feet 8 inches; beam, 60 feet 2 inches, and depth of hold, 27 feet. She measures about 12,000 gross tonnage.

The River and Gulf of St. Lawrence are recognized in shipping circles as the graveyard of ocean steamers. Their danger is attributed chiefly to the ignorance and incompetence of the French Canadian pilots, who are farmers during the long Winter months, and take no pains to discover the changes made in the channels of the river from time to time.

Last Spring the Allan, Canadian Pacific, and White Star Lines held a conference to see what steps could be taken to compel the Canadian Government to do away with the old pilot system and appoint a new Pilot Board, composed of intelligent men who would know how to handle a ship properly. The strength of the present pilot system lies in the political influence it can wield locally.

DRIVER KILLED BY A CAR.

Two Others Hurt in Series of Crashes in 125th Street.

Albert Rennard, a driver, was so badly injured that he died a few hours later in the Harlem Hospital when an eastbound Amsterdam Avenue car collided on 125th Street with another car that was standing on the same track. The force of the collision sent the car ahead down a steep incline, and it crashed into a wagon half a block away, threw the driver to the street on top of a small boy, and injured both.

The conductor of the first car was caught between the cars and received serious internal injuries.

Those injured were seven-year-old John Donahue of 501 West 125th Street, who received contusions of the back and concussion of the brain; Michael Lavender, 38 years old, a conductor, of 154 West Ninetieth Street, internal injuries and fracture of the right leg.

Dr. Beck attended the Donahue boy and took the lad to his home. Dr. McNeil removed Rennard and Lavender to Harlem Hospital.

When the police of the West 125th Street Station were notified of the death detectives were assigned to investigate and look for the motormen of both cars, whose identity the police were unable to learn at the time of the accident.

TARKINGTON MARRIES AGAIN.

Indiana Author Weds Mrs. Temple Robinson, a Widow of Dayton.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 6—Booth Tarkington, the Indiana author, was to-day married to Mrs. Temple Robinson, widow of Temple Robinson, a newspaper man. The wedding took place this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, F. P. Kiefer. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Campbell, pastor of the Third Street Presbyterian Church.

The couple left for Chicago on a motor trip. They will make their home in Indianapolis.

The bride of "The Gentleman from Indiana" is a society woman of this city and a member of one of Dayton's oldest families. They met while at a club function in this city several years ago. Since then Tarkington has been a frequent visitor at the Kiefer home here.

Tarkington was divorced from his first wife, who was Laurel Louise Fletcher, the daughter of an Indianapolis banker, less than a year ago. He has a six-year-old daughter in Indianapolis. The keeping of the child was awarded to the mother at the time the divorce was granted, with the privilige that the father have its custody one month in a year.

GAS OVERCOMES TRAIN CREW.

Stalled in Tunnel, Fumes from Engine Kill Conductor.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Conductor Leonard Hallet lost his life in Stampede tunnel on the Northern Pacific Railway to-day when a freight train broke in two in the big bore and the crew were overcome by gas.

Rescuers also suffered from fumes escaping from the engine, but succeeded in taking the train crew to the open air, where Hallet died.

TELLS OF PHTHISIS CURE.

German Doctor Asserts He Has Successfully Treated 682 Cases.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—At a meeting of the Berlin Medical Society to-day, Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann announced the discovery of what he believed to be a practical cure for every form of tuberculosis. He exhibited cured patients, and declared that he had treated 682 cases by his method with invariable improvement and almost invariably complete cures. Prominent physicians testified to successes by this method in their own practice.

Dr. Friedman injected living tubercle bacilli which had been rendered benevolent.

MRS. HARRIMAN STOPS SUIT.

McKeen-Hull Divorce Action Dismissed at Her Request.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—On request of Mrs. E. H. Harriman, the McKeen-Hull lawsuit, involving alimony of $90,000 and the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Hull, was to-day brought to a close by the dismissal of the action. According to reports, Mrs. Harriman was displeased at the notoriety incurred by McKeen, who is President of the McKeen Motor Car Company, a Union Pacific sub-company.

When the Hulls were divorced, Mrs. Hull received $90,000 alimony. Shortly afterward Mrs. Hull married W. R. McKeen, Jr. Then Hull brought suit to annul the divorce, and to be relieved of the alimony. The case has been in court for a year.

ELECTIONS CRAZE WOMAN.

If Roosevelt Were Defeated, She Would Die, She Told the Police.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 6.—A young woman who gave her name as Clara Keuther, aged 21, was taken in custody today by the police, suffering from mental aberration caused by excitement over the election returns. She talked incessantly of Theodore Roosevelt, and requested the police to send a message to him.

"I'll die if he doesn't win," she explained, as she fingered a card bearing a picture of the crucifixion. "God will take my life if Teddy is not elected."

The young woman insisted on shaking hands with every one who passed her, and at the police station told the matron that she would be married if Roosevelt were victorious. She was taken to the county jail.

TWO KILLED IN AEROPLANE.

German Lieutenant and His Passenger Fall from Height of 60 Feet.

HALBERSTADT, Germany, Nov. 6.—A double air fatality occurred here to-day Lieut. Altrichter was making a flight in a biplane in which he carried an engineer named Meyer as a passenger, when the motor suddenly stopped and the aeroplane plunged to the ground from a height of sixty feet.

The two men were found dead in the shattered machine.

The two fatalities yesterday bring the list of aviation victims up to 210,. Three men have been killed this month.

QUAKE AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Shock Made Buildings Shake—Laid to Lower Strata Settling.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 6.—What is thought to have been an earthquake was felt here between 3:30 and 4 o'clock to-day. The shock was of such severity as to rattle windows and shake buildings. Residents of the city and guests at the hotels were thoroughly alarmed by the disturbance which seemed to be more pronounced in that section of the city lying between Kentucky Avenue and the southern extremity of the island.

There is no seismograph here, and therefore there is no way definitely to determine whether the resort really experienced an earthquake. Director Judkins of the United States Weather Bureau believes the settling of the lower strata of the island caused the tremor.

There was no explosion in the vicinity and no damage resulted from the shock.

STAFFORD HOUSE NOT SOLD.

Lease of Sutherland Mansion Only Taken Over by Sir W. H. Lever.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Pall Mall Gazette printed yesterday a report that Stafford House, the town seat of the Duke of Sutherland, which had long been in the market, had at last found a purchaser. It may be supposed that some enterprising newspapers adapted the report to sensational needs and gave the names of certain Americans whom rumor for a long time had connected with negotiations for the sale of the property.

The facts are that Sir William Hesketh Lever, the well-known soap manufacturer, acquired the remainder of the lease, of which a period of twenty-eight years is unexpired, from the Duke. At the end of that time the property reverts to the Crown.

TWO FOR SENATE CHANGE.

Thirty-four Other States Must Approve Direct Election of Senators.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Only two States, Massachusetts and Minnesota, have so far acted upon the constitutional amendment submitted to them by Congress, proposing the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people instead of by the State Legislatures.

The failure of more States to act is due to the fact that very few legislators have had sessions since the joint resolution proposing this amendment was passed last May by Congress and certified by Secretary of State Knox to the Governors of the States. The day after this proclamation was received in Massachusetts the lower branch of its Legislature ratified the amendment and it was at once unanimously adopted by the Senate. Thirty-nine State Legislatures will meet in January and this will afford them a chance to act. Most of them are expected to ratify the amendment. Thirty-six States must assent to the change to make it a valid part of the Constitution, so that if six of the States whose Legislatures meet next year fail or refuse to ratify it its adoption would be thrown over until 1914.

NEW COMPARTMENT CAR SERVICE TO JACKSONVILLE VIA SEABOARD AIR LINE RY. will be inaugurated Nov. 11th on the Florida-Cuba Special in addition to present Tampa and Miami cars. Inq. 1,184 B'dway.—Adv.

"News has just reached here that a terribly costly battle has been fought on the Sarai-Istrandja-Tchorlu line.

"For hours the verdict hung in the balance, the fortunes of the day continually wavering.

"At times the position was hazardous for our troops, but eventually the Bulgarians were triumphant, the Turks were driven back, and the victorious column is now devoting its energies to an attack on Tchatalja.

"The battle was even more desperately fought and the losses were heavier than at Lule-Burgas.

"The Bulgarian division taking part in the Macedonian campaign is now at a point about eighteen miles from Salonika, awaiting a junction with its Greek and Servian allies before making a triumphant entry into the Turkish stronghold."

A unique race by sea and land, with Constantinople as the goal, is now in progress. Twenty warships of great European powers are steaming at full speed in the hope of reaching the city before the rabble of the defeated Turkish Army, which is now near it.

Close behind the Turks is the Bulgarian Army, the thunder of whose guns is probably audible in the terrified city.

Late last night news arrived that the Bulgarians were well in touch with Tchatalja. At best the Turkish resistance cannot be long prolonged, and Constantinople will lie at Gen. Savoff's mercy.

Curiously enough, reports are becoming current at this eleventh hour that the Allies are hesitating about actually entering Constantinople, considering that, though the triumph would be unparalleled, it might bring grave dangers in its train.

The position in the Turkish capital, according to various correspondents, could hardly be more critical, and symptoms of panic are becoming apparent. The Government itself, either through motives of policy or because it is really struck with fear, is talking of the flight of the Padishah to Brusa, Asia Minor, and those conversant with Ottoman methods believe that the Sultan will fly rather than remain in his capital if it is in peril of being entered by the triumphant foe.

Goal of Many Ambitions.

For 2,000 years the City on the Golden Horn has been the goal of the ambitions of world conquerors. Xenophon, Alexander, Constantine, Dandolo, Wallenstein, Napoleon, and the Czars ever since Peter the Great coveted this key to three continents, and now a young nation, whose children in other days, trained into Janissaries, helped to conserve the Turkish Dominion, is about to wrest it out of the hands of those who have held it for the past five centuries.

Lieut. Wagner's dispatch, cabled on Tuesday to THE NEW YORK TIMES, prepared the world for the struggle which is now in progress for the possession of the city which has been called the "Glory of the World." The Bulgarian plan outlined by Lieut. Wagner is apparently being carried out successfully, though possibly not as easily as Gen. Savoff may have expected.

The retiring Turkish forces have been forced into battle in a district between Sarai and Tchorlu. For two days all the units of his command which Nazim Pasha could collect have been making a stubborn fight on their way to the Tchatalja lines.

Sofia dispatches admit that the losses in these encounters have been greater than in the Battle of Lule-Burgas, and for a time victory hung in the balance.

When one remembers the adverse conditions under which the Turks have been making this stand one cannot but feel high admiration for the splendid fighting material wasted by official neglect.

Ultimately the Bulgarians triumphed in the unequal contest, and time will soon show whether they have been able to carry out Gen. Savoff's plan in its entirety and make good their entry within the Tchatalja lines before fresh resistance can be organized.

Great International Fleet.

The fleet which the European nations are assembling in Turkish waters will comprise fourteen battleships, twenty-two cruisers, fifteen destroyers, and auxiliaries.

Admiral Sir Archibald Berkeley Milne, Commander in Chief of the British Mediterranean Squadron, will be the senior officer of this international fleet, and will, it is expected, take command should concerted operations become necessary.

The British Government a month ago ordered a strong squadron for a cruise in the Mediterranean. Hence Admiral Milne will go into Turkish waters with the most powerful battle force which has ever flown the British flag east of Gibraltar.

Turks' Losses Enormous.

SOFIA, Nov. 6.—The Turkish Army commanded by Nazim Pasha was completely crushed in the great battle of the last two days on the Sarai-Tchorlu line.

According to the semi-official Mir, the Turks lost in killed and wounded more than double the losses at Lule-Burgas.

The Bulgarians are now pursuing the defeated enemy.

The sanguinary character of the recent engagements, which, it is reported, involved losses to the Turks of 40,000 men, was due to the extraordinary energy of the Bulgarian attack. The view of the Bulgarian Staff is that the Turks are so demoralized that frontal attacks may be undertaken even against the strongest positions without superior forces, and the Turkish shortage of artillery and ammunition has contributed to the success of these tactics.

The Bulgarian vanguard, it is said, has reached Lake Derkas, one detachment passing between the lake and the sea.

Another line of the Bulgarian advance is reported to be attacking the forts in front of the town of Tchatalja, while still another column, which marched down the main road from Tchorlu to Silivri, is now advancing to Bogados for the purpose of forcing a passage along the coast of the Sea of Marmora.

These, however, are only flying columns. The main body has not yet commenced the attack on the Tchatalja fortifications.

In the five days' fighting in the vicinity of Lule-Burgas and Bunar-Hissar the Bulgarian troops captured thirty-seven batteries of quick-firing guns and took 2,000 prisoners. They also seized four locomotives and 243 railroad cars.

Regular communication has been restored between Lule-Burgas and Kirk-Kilisseh by railroad.

The Bulgarian Army in Macedonia is advancing rapidly down the valley of the Struma. The troops have occupied the Rupel Pass and are continuing their march upon the town of Serres.

According to statements made by prominent public men in Sofia, Bulgaria will reject mediation until Tchatalja has been captured and Adrianople has fallen, and, although it is said that an entry into Constantinople is no part of the allies' plan, Bulgaria will not listen to the suggestion of peace negotiations unless Turkey gives an undertaking to bring no more reinforcements from Asia.

Gen. Savoff, the Bulgarian Commander in Chief, reports that after the battle of Kirk-Kilisseh a Turkish officer was captured bearing a letter from his Commander, Mahmud Mukhtar, to his father, then the Grand Vizier, advising him to resign in favor of Kiamil Pasha and to conclude peace, as the condition of the army was so desperate that it was useless to continue the war.

Fall of Monastir Reported.

ROME, Nov. 6.—The Turkish stronghold of Monastir surrendered at 2 o'clock this afternoon to the Servian troops, according to a dispatch from Belgrade to the Tribuna.

The whole of the sixth Turkish Army Corps, commanded by Fethi Pasha, was stationed at Monastir, and many Turkish troops fleeing from other posts in the province had taken refuge there since the beginning of hostilities. The dispatch does not say whether this great Turkish army surrendered to the invaders.

Monastir has been the scene of many massacres. Half of its population of 40,000 professes the Christian faith.

ATHENS, Nov. 6.—The Greek troops to-day began the passage of the Vardar River, only a few miles from Salonika. The Crown Prince telegraphs from headquarters that the Turks are retreating toward Salonika after destroying the bridges over the Vardar. Large quantities of war material abandoned by the Turks have been found between Yenidje and the river.

The Crown Prince Constantine has wired from Gida asking that disinfectants be sent immediately to Salonika to cleanse the Turkish barracks. It is deduced from this that the occupation of Salonika is imminent.

Steamship passengers who arrived to-day from Salonika describe the Turkish troops there as destitute. They were in rags and were selling even their arms to obtain bread. Many of the soldiers had been shot for insubordination. Mutineers seized two guns and threatened to fire on the loyal troops unless the town surrendered. They were overpowered.

Negotiations for the surrender of Salonika were opened last Friday between the foreign consuls and the military authorities, but the Turkish commander demanded that his troops be allowed to march out with their arms and with all the honors of war, so that the negotiations fell through. The civil Governor is said to have committed suicide.

Greek volunteers recently captured the village of Bourli, near Metsovo, on the western frontier, after a stiff engagement and heavy losses.

A Greek naval squadron to-day occupied the Turkish island of Tenedos, near the entrance to the Dardanelles.

A decree has been issued calling to the colors Greek reservists of the 1898 class.

The Greek papers in discussing the proposed armistice say it can be accepted only on condition that the Turkish throne be transferred to Asia Minor, and that reforms for the benefit of the Christian population there must also be introduced.

Servians Capture Krushevo.

BELGRADE, Nov. 6.—The town of Krushevo, twenty miles north of Monastir, has been captured by the Servians after a short resistance.

Novovarosh, the last Turkish position in the district of Novi-Bazar, has surrendered to the Servian troops without resistance. Six Turkish officers and 225 men were taken prisoners, and 250 rifles were handed over to the Servians.

The town of Perlepe, on the way to Monastir, which surrendered yesterday to the Servians, offered a stubborn resistance and both armies suffered heavily.

A number of correspondents have returned from headquarters, as no further important war operations in Macedonia are expected.

USKUB, Nov. 6.—The Turkish Army defeated by the Servians at Kumanova and Kuprili, took up positions in the mountainous districts between Kuprili and Perlepe, where the roads are practically impassable.

As the Servian artillery was unable to follow the Turks, the infantry was ordered to advance, and, in spite of a murderous artillery fire from the Turks, took position after position. The last positions were carried at the point of the bayonet.

The Servian troops have occupied Demerkapu Pass, to the southeast of Istib, where they found the big railway bridge intact.

The Montenegrin and Servian armies have joined hands at Ipek.

RIEKA, Montenegro, Nov. 6.—The Turkish garrison of Scutari fired on a steamer on Lake Scutari on board of which the Austrian Military Attaché and a delegation of Montenegrins were conveying a demand for the surrender of the town. The steamer was flying the white flag at the time.

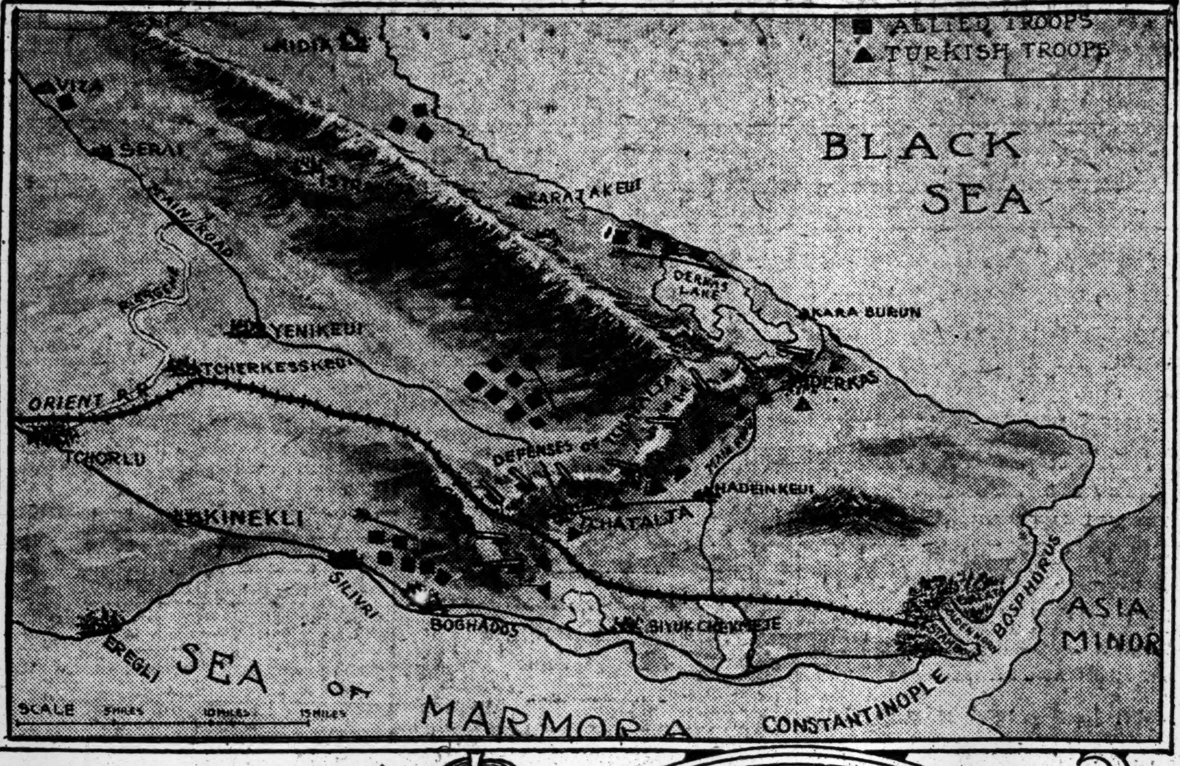
The commandant of Scutari has since apologized for the firing by his troops, declaring that their action was attributable to over-excitement.

The Turkish Commandant refuses to believe the news of the Bulgarian victories in the Eastern zone of the war, while he ridicules also the report of the Servian troops into Uskub.

In reply to the Montenegrin demand for the surrender of Scutari, he declared that he was fully prepared to defend the city, which could withstand a three months' siege.

Sharp fighting is going on to the south of Scutari near the Busate Mountains. The result is not yet known.

Advance of Victorious Bulgars on Constantinople.



Final Battle May Begin To-day.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—Bulgaria is giving the broken Turkish Army no time to recuperate. In accordance with the tactics adopted throughout the war, the Bulgarians are following up the defeated Turks with extraordinary energy. Flying columns are pushing along the sea coast toward the Tchatalja lines, and it is believed that the main attack will be delivered to-day or to-morrow.

Since they advanced through Thrace three weeks ago, confident in their ability to face and drive back the hosts of Bulgarian invaders, the Turks have been chased from position after position, until they have now reached the final line of defenses before the capital.

The Commissariat Department of the Turkish Army, to which the blame for the series of frightful defeats can be largely laid, has at last realized that even Turkish soldiers cannot fight on empty stomachs. It is hurrying bread to the works and trenches across the narrow peninsula as the one means left of stemming the stampede and keeping the soldiers in the forts and trenches, thus preventing them from overrunning Constantinople.

The Porte shows no disposition as yet to treat for peace directly with the allies, and until the big Tchatalja battle has been fought the diplomatic situation is not likely to be changed.

Albania forms the crux of the position. It is stated that any attempt by Servia to encroach on Albania will be regarded by Austria as a casus belli. On the other hand, Servia declares that a port on the Adriatic is a matter of life and death for her, and she fails to see why her presence there should be detrimental to the interests of any other power. Further, Servia argues that she would only be regaining possession of what belonged to her before the downfall of the Servian Empire, when Adriatic seaports were flourishing Servian towns.

The Turkish Ambassador to Great Britain had another long conference with Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, yesterday.

Nothing is yet known publicly of Roumania's position in the new deal. The British Minister at Bucharest had a three hours' conference with the Russian Minister yesterday on the subject.

The report of the fall of Monastir is not confirmed, but is considered not improbable. The Greeks are crossing the Vardar River, and the fall of Salonika is reported to be imminent.

War vessels belonging to most of the powers are on their way to Constantinople. Great Britain now has the whole of her Mediterranean battleship fleet, together with nine powerful cruisers and a flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers, either in Near Eastern waters or in the vicinity. The third British battleship squadron, comprising eight battleships and six cruisers with auxiliaries, and part of the Home Fleet, based at Gibraltar, are also proceeding Eastward. The vessels are all prepared to land men for the protection of the Christians.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 6.—The desire for peace on the part of the Austro-Hungarian Government was voiced to-day by Emperor Francis Joseph in replying as King of Hungary to the addresses of the Presidents of the Delegations. After thanking them for the assurances they had given of their loyal devotion his Majesty said:

"Since the meeting of the last Delegations, grave warlike complications have broken out in the Balkan Peninsula, which demand increased vigilance, in view of the fact that important interests of the Monarchy are affected by the conflict.

"An early return of settled political and commercial conditions in the Near East appears urgently desirable.

"My Government will be ready, in agreement with the allied cabinets and at the proper moment, to participate in any action of the great powers having as its aim the restoration of peace.

"During the last session of the delegations extraordinary credits for the army and navy were voted with praiseworthy self-abnegation. Through these credits the efficiency of our defensive forces has been strengthened in a gratifying manner."

VIENNA, Nov. 6.—King Nicholas of Montenegro discussed the intentions of the Balkan allies to-day in the course of an interview with a correspondent of The Vienna Tagblatt. He said:

"While the Balkan Nations will settle their affairs for themselves, their victories have not made them so daring as to forget to accommodate their wishes to the general situation in Europe."

ODESSA, Nov. 6.—The Russian cruiser Saratoff sailed to-day for Constantinople. She carries provisions for 2,500 persons for one month.

BRITAIN HURRIES WARSHIPS.

Indications That Strong Forces of Bluejackets Are to be Landed.

MALTA, Nov. 6.—The British cruisers Good Hope and Dartmouth left here today for Turkish ports in order to embark refugees.

Four battleships of the British Mediterranean Squadron, the King Edward, the Zealandia, the Hindustan, and the Africa, also passed here this morning on their way to the Levant. They were steaming at a speed of 18 knots an hour. Admiral Sir A. Berkeley Milne, Commander in Chief of the Mediterranean Squadron, went out in a dispatch boat and joined them.

Arrangements are being made to coal four other battleships of the Mediterranean Squadron which are expected here to-morrow, although no orders have yet been received to send them to Turkish waters.

A flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers is also coaling, and all the colliers have been ordered to the Levant.

The landing gear of all the warships leaving here for the Near East was prepared before their departure. This is regarded as an indication that strong forces of bluejackets and marines are to be landed at Constantinople and other points to protect the population.

Large quantities of ammunition were embarked on the cruisers Good Hope and Dartmouth.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 6.—The British Admiralty has canceled the order given to the cruiser Black Prince to proceed to Portsmouth. She is to sail for the Levant on Friday.

BULGARIANS' GREAT ORGANIZING POWER

ABLE TO REPAIR RAILWAY

Victors Had Made Preparation to Follow Up Their Successes—Captured Supplies Also Helped.

By FREDERICK PALMER,
Special Correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

STARA ZAGORA, Bulgaria, Nov. 6.—I have been stopped here en route to Mustapha Pasha in order to show the regular correspondent's credentials to the chief censor before proceeding.

The lack of confusion on the single-track railway that is bringing in the wounded and dispatching supplies is remarkable.

At Philippopolis I talked with Count Jean de Castellane, who is in charge of the French Red Cross mission at work there. He said the simple fortitude of the wounded was like that described in classic stories of the ancients. He added that recoveries from wounds were extremely rapid, due to the healthy, vigorous, outdoor lives of the soldiers. He had seen wives begging husbands who had been slightly wounded to hurry and get well so as to return to the front.

Undoubtedly the supplies captured from the Turks have been invaluable in feeding the Bulgarian Army. They included much grain and flour and many flocks of sheep.

The preparation of the Bulgars in all departments to follow up victory was shown by the promptness with which they repaired the railroad from Kirk-Killisseh to Lule-Burgas, which is now in operation with captured cars and engines.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The operation of the railroad to which Frederick Palmer calls attention in his dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES is an extremely important feature of the Bulgarian programme. How the provisioning and ammunitioning of an army so far from its base could be carried on has been a mystery that has puzzled European experts.

A pair of horses or oxen cannot draw a cart more than an average of 15 miles a day in that country, and had the railway not been available the problem would become daily more difficult the further south the Bulgars advanced.

Fortunately for the Bulgarians the Turks appear to have neglected to wreck the railroad from Kirk-Kilisseh to Baba-Eski so badly that the Bulgars have not already been able to repair it.

It is assumed also that, although direct communication by the main railroad to Constantinople is cut at Adrianople, some portions of it are available.

GOING TO LAW

THERE is an old saying "The time to go to law is before you buy your land and not after."

This means that if your title is well searched, the troubles will be found in advance—perhaps!

You can cover the "perhaps" by having us guarantee your title. Then the last drawback to owning land is overcome so far as you are concerned.

SULTAN READY TO FLEE.

Turks Do Not Think They Can Save Capital—Fears for Nazim Pasha.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 6.—It is reported that preparations have been made for the Sultan to proceed to Brusa, Asia Minor, if the Bulgarians capture the Tchatalja lines.

A persistent rumor is current that the Turkish Commander, Nazim Pasha, is missing, and it is feared that he has been killed or made a prisoner.

It is reported that the Cabinet has decided to prosecute the war after making a change in a number of important commands in the Eastern Army. Gen. Mahmud Mukhtar, who arrived from army headquarters to-day, told Kiamil Pasha, the Grand Vizier, that the Porte's request for mediation had produced the worst possible effect in the army.

The blockade of the Bulgarian coast will be abandoned, as the ships are needed for the defense of Constantinople.

The threat of the Turks to abandon Constantinople entirely, which was made by the Ottoman Foreign Minister to an Ambassador yesterday, is believed to have been intended to stimulate the action of the powers in the matter of intervention between the belligerents.

In the opinion of close observers, the military position of the Turks does not warrant a belief in their ability to stop the Bulgarian advance toward the capital if King Ferdinand really aspires to the conquest of the city.

The Turkish headquarters staff has decided to take up its position immediately behind the town of Tchatalja and to await there the coming fight with the Bulgarian troops.

The left wing and centre of the retreating Turkish Army are said to have made their retirement in good order, but the troops forming the right wing were in a state of panic and demoralization. They achieved considerable success in the fighting, but, finding themselves without food, fled to the south, abandoning everything.

The medical authorities of the city have been notified to prepare to receive 20,000 wounded from Lule-Burgas and Visa. It is officially stated that these are in addition to the 15,000 wounded men already in the city. All the hospitals, including those of the foreign colonies, are crowded, and most of the schools and university buildings in Stambul have been converted into hospitals.

The installations, however, are imperfect. Beds, blankets, and linen are lacking, and the sanitary arrangements are inadequate.

It is hoped by the Turkish staff that the flight of the fugitives will be stopped at Tchatalja, to which place many trainloads of bread have been dispatched since Sunday. Should the fleeing troops be allowed to reach Constantinople the consequences, it is thought, would be disastrous, as they might spread the panic among the troops who have thus far remained steady.

The Turkish soldiers place much of the blame for their non-success on the use of searchlights by the Bulgarians, who were thus enabled to carry out night attacks. The soldiers learned during the fighting to dread the rays of the searchlight.

Five transports conveying Turkish troops which were sent to Midia last week were unable to land, owing to the rough sea. They returned here yesterday, and the men were disembarked and sent to the Tchatalja forts.

More troops have been sent to guard all the approaches to Constantinople, so as to prevent the ingress of fugitives.

Notwithstanding these measures and the arrival of the foreign war vessels, the public is still unsettled, and numerous families continue to leave here for abroad, while many of those residing in the suburbs are coming into the inner city.

The public are astonished and dumfounded at the repeated Turkish reverses. It is now recognized on all sides that the end has come.

The Mussulman population of the towns along the Dardanelles, although depressed, maintains calm. Some anti-Greek incidents of small importance are reported to have occurred in outlying villages.

The Government appears at present to be able to control the local situation. Vigorous measures for the preservation of order have been taken by the authorities. The patrols in the streets have been strengthened by the arrival of a large number of military police from the cities of Ismid and Brusa, Asia Minor, about fifty miles from the capital. These are helping to keep the people in check.

A meeting of Kurds was held yesterday at St. Sophia, at which various questions connected with the war were discussed. It was suggested that a brigade of volunteers should be formed. After the meeting the Military Governor of Constantinople summoned the leaders of the Kurds and warned them that they would be held responsible if any of their followers were in any way concerned in starting [illegible] the capital.

SILENT WAR BROODS OVER ADRIANOPLE

A War Correspondent Pictures Graphically the Fearful Peace Around the Besieged City.

ALL QUIET IN TRENCHES

But Bulgarians Yearn to Let Loose Their Artillery—Wounded Linger for Days Beyond Reach of Aid.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The best picture of the siege of Adrianople, so far received, comes from Luagi Barsini, the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who, in a dispatch, dated Mustafa Pasha last Sunday, says:

"Since yesterday the Turkish forts have resumed their cannonade at intervals, and the boom of their shots reaches like the rumble of distant thunder. The Bulgarian artillery, both large and small, remains silent and will only reveal itself at the opportune moment, which is approaching. A continuous fine, frozen rain, which is snow on the mountains, falls upon the besieged town, which appears in glistening confusion beneath the twilight sky.

"It seems to be asleep and not a sign of life is to be perceived outside its walls. It is wrapped in an immense silence, in profound peace, in funereal immobility. It might be said that Adrianople was deserted, if every now and again a dull roar of artillery did not echo in the valley, followed by the formidable bursting of the shell, with a white cloud of smoke above one of the forts, spreading itself lazily in strange, changeful forms.

"The Sultanschi Mosque towers spectrally above the mist, with four snowy minarets surrounded by a confusion of domes in the midst of the gray of the old town.

"On the top of these wonderful slender columns the Turks have established posts of observation, from which they direct the fire of their artillery. They endeavor by long shots from their big batteries to discover the invisible encampments of the enemy, hidden behind the hills and within the valley, but nearly always the shells fall in the solitudes, raising great clouds of yellow earth.

"Some fires are still languishing in the villages close to the town, which have been reduced to masses of black, smoking ruins. Marasch township, on the extreme point of the little peninsula, formed by the confluence of the Maritza with the Arda, was burned yesterday by the Turks. From their commanding positions the Bulgarians saw patrols of the enemy going about between the houses, piling up straw close to the wretched wooden buildings, and then applying fire.

"All this takes place within rifle shot, but the Bulgarians only fire in order to repel attack, the strictest orders having been given that no fighting is to be engaged in until the appointed hour has arrived. The silence in the entrenchments is so complete that one has to enter them in order to perceive that they are occupied. Behind the trenches, in the approaches and bivouacs, there is a perfect tumult of life, but at the battle-front all this agitation is extinguished and one falls into the midst of a taciturn mob of motionless troops, crouching deep in the trenches with rifles ready to fire.

"The gunners polish their weapons, which are placed in hidden positions, caress them and try the working of every part. Each gun has a name, and in the imagination of the soldiers it becomes a living sentient being, terribly impatient for battle. I heard one man say to his gun: 'Are you hungry, old man? Wait a bit and you shall eat a wagonload of fire.'"

"In some suburbs of Adrianople and also near Karagach Station, where the new white city extends, some fires are burning. Now and again cavalry pass at a gallop along the bank of the Maritza and over the desolate plain.

"A few rifle shots crackle here and there close to the Turkish advanced positions, around which troops are working every night, strengthening and adding to the auxiliary defenses.

"On some declivities the poles of the wire entanglements resemble plantations and have the appearance of vineyards despoiled by Winter. Between the two lines of advanced posts the fields show no trace of labor. Trees have been cut down, hedges demolished, and houses burned. Land trodden by the foot of war again becomes wild; death has passed over it.

"The Bulgarians, who from the parapets of their trenches look toward Marasch and Jurush, where the last combat raged, see the slopes strewn with the muddy corpses of Turks amid a confusion of objects that have been thrown away, and among the bodies are wounded, whom nobody can succor, and who have been in agony for the last four days. Men of the Bulgarian Red Cross are fired at every time they attempt to rescue these unfortunate sufferers, and a well-known doctor of Sofia, a Director of a sanitarium, was killed while assisting a wounded Turk.

"Not a day passes without Turkish reconnaissance causing skirmishes at various points of the long battle-front, and frequently in consequence of these encounters little bodies of prisoners pass through the Bulgarian encampments to headquarters. Every morning groups of Turkish soldiers, guarded by sentries, are lined up in the courtyard of Konak, but after their two gallant attempts at a sortie the Turks seem to have given up the offensive and retired behind their defenses.

"The rain, which has transformed the roads into torrents and turned Mustafa Pasha into a village of mud, must certainly create difficulties for the movements of the allied forces, which are preparing for the last phase of the investment of Adrianople, but the movement continues without repose."

300 Servians Sail to Fight.

Three hundred Servians sailed yesterday on the Austro-American steamship Alice for Triest to fight for their country against the Turks. They arrived here from San Francisco under the leadership of Bozo M. Gopesvic, a retired San Francisco newspaper man, who said that 4,500 more recruits would sail next week for Servia on the Laura of the Austro-American Line. He added that many of the party had been mining in Alaska, and gave up valuable claims to take part in the war.

FEAR OF MASSACRE STRONG IN CAPITAL

Christians Tremble at Prospect of Outbreak Such as Occurred at Rodosto.

COWARDLY TURKISH OFFICERS

Three Shot by Nazim Pasha Himself—Others Hiding in Constantinople and Condemned to Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—A Constantinople dispatch to The Chronicle, dated Nov. 6, says:

"The shadow of war hangs like a heavy thundercloud over this doomed city. At any moment the storm may break and involve us in the red ruins of massacre and outrage. We have had a foretaste of what is to come in the news from Rodosto.

"Thither came the bands of Nizams driven from Lule-Burgas by the victorious Bulgars. In their terror-stricken flight they abandoned everything and arrived at Rodosto famished and weary, but full of furious hate against the infidel. The thin veneer of European civilization vanished like the mist in the morning sunlight.

"A scene of horror followed. The town was given up to massacre, outrage, and pillage. It was set on fire in seven places and the children hurled into the raging flames. In their agony of fear many took to boats and tried to get to the open sea, anywhere away from these human wolves. In some cases the boatmen were massacred and in others those who trusted to the sea found another, yet more merciful, death beneath the waves.

"Nor does Rodosto stand alone in its baptism of fire and blood. The victorious march of the Bulgarian Army produces similar scenes wherever the Turks anticipate the coming of the enemy. In Constantinople the dread of a coming massacre almost paralyzes the population.

"Nor are the apprehensions of trouble confined to Europe. From Syria comes the news that the consuls of the European powers are urging the necessity of protection for their subjects against outrages by the Turk and Arab. Roman Catholics seem to suffer most. The French Consul at Beirut reports the pillage of monasteries there. There is disquieting news from Smyrna, where the Governor seems totally unable to keep the Moslems in check. Here the Greeks are suffering most.

"Nazim Pasha has sent report to the Ministry of War which throws a flood of light upon the history of the war. The Turkish Commander describes the condition of the broken remainder of his army as being desperate. The discipline, says Nazim, is abominable. Fifty officers have been condemned to be shot for various offenses. The Commander himself admits that he shot three with his own revolver in an outburst of rage at their cowardice. Many positions, he says, were abandoned without the slightest resistance. Artillery and stores were left to be seized by the enemy. Many officers show the greatest reluctance to go to the front and are hiding themselves in Constantinople. An energetic search is being made for them everywhere, and the Minister of War has issued a warning, pointing out that they are liable to be condemned to death for such conduct, and stating that the death penalty will certainly be inflicted if they continue to skulk. A number of officers have already been condemned to death by default.

"Another ground of uneasiness has been provided in the fear that the enemy will cut off the chief water supply at Derkos. This is the main source of supply for the European quarter of the city. It is situated in the picturesque forest of Belgrade just beyond the Summer residential quarter of Bouyoukdere on the Upper Bosphorus.

"Many households in Pera offer a strange appearance. Vessels of all kinds, buckets, cans, ewers, and basins filled with water are found in every room, together with the food stores which have been laid in in view of possible emergencies. Food prices are rising enormously."

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily News sends the following under date of Nov. 5:

"Last night was an unforgettable night of terror. The arrival of famishing parties of defeated troops, filled with the conviction that the defeat was due to the presence of Christians in the army, created a panic and nameless fear among the foreign residents.

"To show how easily disaster might arrive, an incident occurred to-night near Galata Bridge. A Greek in a sailboat was congratulating his companions on the Bulgarian victory. Suddenly a caique slid alongside and a Turk swung himself aboard the Greek boat. A knife gleamed and the Greek fell overboard, dead. Then a revolver cracked and the Turk and his companions fell.

"Immediately there was firing in all directions, and thirty-six Greeks and Turks were killed or wounded before a police boat arrived and quelled the disturbance.

"I believe that foreigners are safe, but no Government measures will suffice to protect Christian Ottomans in the event of an outbreak of rioting."

SALONIKA READY TO YIELD.

Turkish Commander Kills Himself When His Terms Are Rejected.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The Daily Mail correspondent in Athens says that steamship passengers from Salonika report that terms of capitulation of the city were about to be signed when Mandar Pasha, the Turkish Commander, insisted on the withdrawal of the Turkish troops with their arms. This proposal was rejected, and forty-eight hours were given by the Greeks for capitulation, which is imminent.

On the rejection of his terms Mandar Pasha committed suicide.

BULGARIANS READY FOR LAST BATTLE

Will Attack the Town of Tchatalja from Two Points, Says Lieut. Wagner.

TURKISH ARTILLERY POOR

Its Failure to Cover Retreats Helped to Make Them Routs—Four Adrianople Sorties Have Failed.

By LIEUT. WAGNER,
The Only Correspondent at the Front on the Bulgarian Side.

By arrangement with The Vienna Reichspost. Copyright, 1912, by THE NEW YORK TIMES Company.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE BULGARIAN ARMY, Nov. 6.—After heavy fighting the Bulgarian left wing has occupied the heights east of Istranja and has driven the Turkish right wing into the forest region west of Lake Derkos, which lies at the northern end of the Tchatalja lines.

The Bulgarians are bringing up forces from Istranja and Yenikeui in order to deliver an attack on the Tchatalja position south of Lake Derkos.

The centre and right wing of the Bulgarians are energetically forcing the defeated Turkish rear guard back along a line through Tchanta, about sixteen miles east of Tchorlu, and will execute an attack on the Turkish positions on both sides of the Village of Tchalja.

In the fighting the Turkish artillery has hitherto supported its infantry very indifferently and very seldom has held out till the last moment.

The poor practice and premature retirement of the Turkish artillery left the retreating Turkish infantry quite exposed to the attacks of the pursuing Bulgarians. As a result, the retreat of the Turks almost invariably degenerated into a regular flight.

Before Adrianople the Turks are vainly trying to break through the Bulgarian ring. Despite the Turkish searchlight, the Bulgarians frequently make night assaults.

Fighting is also taking place almost daily at Karagar, on the right bank of the Maritza River.

The failure of the last sortie from Adrianople, the fourth since the investment, which was executed by about two Turkish divisions, with strong artillery and numerous machine guns, appears almost to have broken the garrison's powers of resistance.

The fall of the fortress is expected here immediately.

Francis McCullagh Safe.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The Daily News has received a dispatch from its Constantinople correspondent to the effect that Francis McCullagh is safe. Mr. McCullagh is one of The Daily News's war correspondents, and fears that he had been killed had been entertained as a result of rumors that reached New York and London.

ELECTED BY OVER THIRTY MILLION

Big majorities are significant. What most of the people decide upon, is usually best for most of the people—sound doctrine in a democracy.

To govern their lives, over thirty million people have put their trust in the Ingersoll watch.

More people choose it every day than all other watches together.

Ingersoll

Ulysses S. Grant to Woodrow Wilson

¶ The political status of all parties is now established for four years at least.

¶ And the New Yorker who has during the past few weeks survived the baseball series and the red rhetoric of political pulpiteers, may now turn his attention to his personal affairs.

¶ The question now before you is, Clothes and Where to Get Them.

¶ And we who have been answering that question during all of ten Presidential terms, are now ready to answer it again.

¶ From Ulysses S. Grant to Woodrow Wilson, we have been making clothes.

¶ And in seeking the support of all parties upon this our nomination for an eleventh term, we once more reiterate our resolve to maintain the integrity of Saks clothes and uphold the traditions of Saks styles.

¶ This year's collection of Saks overcoats, greatcoats and snappy English topcoats is a neverending variety of fabric and color, and the list of models is as long as a state ticket.

¶ In suits the fabrics are a kaleidoscope of design and color, and the models, though they conform to masculine modes, have a mode all their own in doing it.

¶ And Saks prices, though elastic enough to embrace all sorts and conditions of pockets, are standpatters on the question of Style.

DEMOCRATS STILL HOPE FOR ILLINOIS

Believe Delayed Returns Will Swing State Into Line for Wilson.

LEGISLATURE IN THE BALANCE

Neither of Old Parties Has Majority and Progressives Will Claim a Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Despite a plurality of 38,257 for Roosevelt in Cook County, Illinois to-night remains in the doubtful column on the Presidential issue.

Returns from the down-State counties continue to come in slowly, but each adds to the Wilson vote, and the Democratic leaders claim the State.

The Roosevelt forces, enthusiastic over their strength on the first returns, and over their showing in Cook County, seem confident.

The hopes of the Wilson forces lie in the fact that with only 1,371 precincts out of 2,788 in the down-State counties so far reported, Wilson has a lead over Roosevelt of 22,492. They insist that when the other 1,517 precincts appear they will show a similar increase, which will be more than enough to wipe out the Cook County Roosevelt plurality.

Combining the Cook County vote with the down-State votes that had reported earlier in the evening gave a total for the State of 3,200 precincts, including the 1,498 in Cook County, and a vote of Roosevelt, 330,446; Wilson, 305,169; Taft, 185,582.

As the later returns from the counties came in, however, there were indications that the full measure of the Wilson landslide in the down-State counties had not been appraised.

Total returns from Madison County gave Wilson a plurality in that county of 4,022 over Roosevelt. Saline County added a plurality of 1,157; Menard, 631; Marion, 1,420; Greene, 1,969; Cass, 1,101; Hamilton, 1,253; Christian, 2,278; Scott, 960; Wayne, 960, and so on down the list.

The Bull Moose forces have won the balance of power in the new General Assembly, and will be in a position to dictate the naming of the new United States Senators. Medill McCormick, the Roosevelt manager, will be put forth as the Progressive candidate for one of the places.

Belated returns from outlying districts show that the Progressives have elected twenty-three members to the lower house, with the possibility of a further gain of two when the official count is made.

As the returns stand the Republicans have twenty-seven in the Senate, one more than a majority, but the secret defections will wipe out this apparent control. In fact the Republicans have lost control of both branches of the Assembly.

In the House the Republicans have elected only sixty-two members, which is fifteen short of the majority.

Meanwhile the Democrats have landed only sixty-seven members in the lower house, or ten less than the majority.

The Progressives hold the balance of power safely in their hands, and are in a position to deadlock all legislative wheels.

John Dailey of Peoria, the dean of the Senate, is defeated on the face of the unofficial returns by Jefferson Boulware, Democrat, by seven votes. There will be a contest in this case, and if the Bull Moosers can hold the balance of power they will vote to oust Dailey. The next Assembly will stand as follows on joint ballot on the face of the unofficial returns:

	Senate.	House.	Total.
Republicans	27	62	89
Democrats	23	67	90
Progressives	1	23	24
Independent	0	1	1
Total	51	153	204

Constitutional majority, 103.
Necessary to elect United States Senator, 103.

Because of the muddled conditions that will prevail in the next Assembly Gov. Deneen has been prevailed upon to call the present Legislature in extraordinary session to reapportion the Congressional districts of the State in accordance with the new census and also to ask for the election of a United States Senator to fill the Lorimer vacancy.

Gov. Deneen apparently is relegated to third place in the contest for the Governorship. Edward F. Dunne, the Democratic candidate, apparently has his victory safe. Frank S. Funk, the Progressive candidate, with two-thirds of the State yet to report, was 4,000 ahead for second place.

Complete returns for this city give Roosevelt 154,174; Wilson, 127,697; Taft, 72,605; Debs, 54,677; Chafin, 2,895.

Bay State's Electoral Turnover.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Wilson's vote in Massachusetts is 174,057, Taft's 156,018, Roosevelt's 141,925; Wilson's plurality being 18,039. David L. Walsh, who will succeed to the Governor's chair if Gov. Foss enters the Wilson Cabinet, received 39,500 votes more than his Republican opponent, Lieut. Gov. Bates. Foss's plurality is 49,316.

Rhode Island Breaks Her Record.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 6.—Rhode Island gave Woodrow Wilson a plurality of 2,544 votes, as indicated by the complete returns. It was the first time since the organization of the Republican Party in 1854 that a Democratic National candidate has carried the State.

Vermont's Big Vote for Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 6.—Complete returns from yesterday's Presidential election in Vermont give the total vote as 62,506, the largest cast in a Presidential election in a quarter of a century, with the exception of 1896, when McKinley was elected. Wilson's vote was the largest received by any Democrat for President since the days of Cleveland, who received 16,000 twice and 17,000 once.

Bull Moose Third in Ohio.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Theodore Roosevelt will run third in the Presidential contest in Ohio. Robert B. Brown runs second and Arthur L. Garford third in the Gubernatorial fight. Returns from nearly two-thirds of the precincts of the State indicate that Wilson's majority will reach 100,000 and Cox's majority will be 150,000.

The Republicans have saved from defeat for certain three men on the Congressional ticket. They are Nicholas Longworth, First District; Frank P. Willis, Eighth District, and Robert M. Switzer, Tenth District. R. M. Hughey, Republican, may have defeated J. D. Post, Democrat, in the Seventh District, and there is a possibility that John I. Whitacre, Democrat, may be defeated by Roscoe C. McCullough, Republican, in the Eighteenth District.

S. D. Fess, Republican, is thought to have defeated D. K. Hempstead, Democrat, in the Sixth District, but the vote is so close the official count will be required.

The Progressives elected one Congressman—William E. Pilcer—in the Tenth District.

The Democrats elected twenty-two out of thirty-three members of the State Senate, and ninety-six out of 119 members of the House of Representatives. Herbert L. Bigelow, President of the recent Constitutional Convention, and Democratic candidate for Representative in Hamilton County, is elected with other Democratic Legislative candidates in his county.

Very Close in Minnesota.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 6.—Returns from country districts at midnight swelled the figures of Col. Roosevelt and gave him a lead over Wilson. Earlier returns had indicated that Wilson had carried the State. One thousand eight hundred and [illegible] complete out of a total of 3,968 in the State gave Roosevelt 91,985, Wilson 84,117, and Taft, 50,799.

Late returns increased Gov. Eberhart's lead for re-election over his Democratic opponent Rigdahl.

Wilson Gets Lead in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—Wilson had a lead of 4,172 votes over Roosevelt in Kansas to-night when incomplete returns from 43 of the 105 counties of the State had been received. At Democratic headquarters it was claimed that the Democratic National ticket would carry the State by 15,000 plurality.

Republican leaders stated that Wilson would win by probably 10,000, but the Progressive leaders said the total vote would give the State to Roosevelt. An estimate of the total vote cannot be made from the scattering returns received.

Gov. W. R. Stubbs to-night admitted that he had been defeated by William H. Thompson (Dem.) for the United States Senate.

Arthur Capper, (Rep.,) candidate for Governor, said to-night he would defeat George H. H. Hodges (Dem.) by from 3,000 to 5,000 plurality. Capper was leading Hodges by a very narrow margin and the Democrats are claiming Hodges's election.

Wilson's Big Vote in Indiana.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—The second day's returns, although still incomplete, can in no measure materially change the sweeping Democratic victory. They show that Wilson's plurality will run close to, if not exceed 100,000 votes.

With the complete returns in from two-thirds of the 3,172 precincts, and incomplete returns from several hundred precincts, the indications are that Roosevelt will run second to Wilson, with a lead of approximately 13,000 votes.

The latest estimate of the Indiana standing is as follows: Wilson, 307,190; Roosevelt, 192,195; Taft, 179,029.

Small Margin in California.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Woodrow Wilson's apparent plurality of 12,000 in California dwindled down rapidly as belated returns came in from the Progressive strongholds in the southern part of the State. With about 800 precincts yet to hear from, Wilson's plurality over Roosevelt is 5,392. This takes in all but fifty precincts of Los Angeles County, the great Roosevelt stronghold.

The vote for Debs, Socialist candidate, got well above the 60,000 mark with to-night's returns. The Prohibitionists also made a good showing, 7,229 votes for Chafin being so far recorded.

Michigan for Roosevelt.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Only a little more than a third of the election districts in Michigan have reported on the Presidential vote. The totals received up to 6 o'clock are:

Wilson, 79,653; Taft, 76,487; Roosevelt, 100,507. Judging from these, the total vote of the State will be about 590,000 divided as follows: Roosevelt, 230,000; Wilson, 190,000; Taft, 170,000.

Iowa Governor a Democrat.

DES MOINES, Nov. 6.—With almost complete returns from 73 out of the total of 99 counties in the State, Wilson continues to maintain his early lead over Roosevelt, with the majority for the counties indicated of more than 13,000.

For fifty-three of the counties the vote is complete and in the remainder nearly so; the count includes twenty precincts estimated, and stands as follows: Taft, 82,471; Wilson, 128,617; Roosevelt, 115,139.

A remarkable result of the election in this State is the apparent victory of E. G. Dunn, Democratic candidate for Governor, over his Republican opponent, George W. Clarke.

Progressives Hopeful in Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 6.—The Progressive State Chairman said to-day that Roosevelt might carry Idaho. This seems improbable from the returns so far tabulated from 166 precincts in all parts of the State, which give Taft 13,720, Wilson 11,762, and Roosevelt, 6,532.

Debs had a large vote in some sections and carried several precincts in the North.

The Governorship is debatable. Hawley, Democrat, for re-election, has 11,595 on the face of the returns, and Haines, Republican, 13,388. Martin, Progressive, was third, with 4,905.

Republican legislative candidates ran ahead of their tickets in many counties.

McGovern Holds Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—It is generally accepted that Gov. Wilson has carried Wisconsin, but Gov. Francis E. McGovern, Republican, according to to-night's figures, will retain office for a second term. Wilson's plurality is variously estimated at from 15,000 to 30,000 over Taft.

Chairman George E. Scott of the Republican State Central Committee declared this evening that he had received reports from sixty-three of the seventy-one counties, and claimed the State for McGovern by at least 5,000. Others place the figures at 2,000. McGovern's victory means the election of the rest of the Republican State ticket.

McGovern will have with him a Republican Legislature made up of approximately fifty-four Republicans, twenty-seven Democrats, six Socialists, and thirteen members elected as non-partisans. Some of the non-partisans will affiliate with the Republicans and others with the Democrats.

The Senate will be made up of twenty-three Republicans, six Democrats, one Social Democrat, and three non-partisans.

Roosevelt Stronger in Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6. — Returns from more than five-sixths of all the election districts in Pennsylvania give Theodore Roosevelt 28,073 plurality over Woodrow Wilson. The missing districts are expected to slightly increase his plurality. The vote of the three leading candidates as computed from the returns received was: Roosevelt, 384,384; Wilson, 356,311; Taft, 255,831.

President Taft carried Philadelphia by 10,575 over Col. Roosevelt but in the State outside of Philadelphia Wilson ran second and Mr. Taft was more than 100,000 behind the President-elect. The Socialist vote showed a large increase, but the approximate figures were not obtainable because many of the counties had not completed the count of Tuesday's vote.

Robert K. Young, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer, and A. W. Powell, Rejpublican candidate for Auditor General, were elected, as were also the four Republican candidates for Congressman-at-Large, according to the returns.

Among the missing districts are more than 200 in Allegheny County, which are expected to increase the Roosevelt plurality.

Referendum for Washington.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 6.—The Progressives have carried four amendments to the State Constitution. One removes the prohibition against county officers other than Treasurer serving more than two terms. The second amendment provides for the recall and discharge of any elective State or county officers other than Judges. All Superior and Supreme Court Judges are elected on non-partisan tickets. They are not subject to this recall.

The third amendment provides for the initative and referendum in State legislation. The fourth amendment relates to the time when new laws shall take effect. Business men voted against these amendments.

Roosevelt electors include one woman, Mrs. Scott of Tacoma. The Progressives selected Mrs. Jolldon Croake of Tacoma to the Legislature, over J. H. Davis, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the last Legislature.

Popular Vote for President

Below are estimates of the total popular vote cast for the Electors on the various Presidential tickets, based on late returns. In some of the Southern States the returns are late, but the general drift is evident. There is every indication that Roosevelt will lead Taft by a considerable figure when the totals are all in.

West Virginia Overwhelmingly Dry.

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 6.—The prohibition amendment to the State Constitution has been ratified by a majority which will certainly reach 60,000 and may exceed 75,000. The hope of the "wets," based upon early and favorable returns from the cities, vanished to-day when the interior counties began reporting, one after another showing a majority for ratification. In some counties the "dry" vote was 200 to 1. Not a half-dozen counties in the State voted against ratification.

Women took an active part in the campaign, and on Election Day held prayer meetings and worked at the polls. The amendment prohibits the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages and is effective after Jan. 1, 1914.

Wilson Ties Bryan in Tennessee.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Wilson, 133,000; Taft, 60,000, and Roosevelt, 45,600, is the way that the Presidential contest is figured out from the returns from about one-third of the State safely estimated on the vote of 1908.

Wilson is receiving almost the identical vote of Bryan that was polled four years ago. The plurality that Wilson is expected to receive is at least 26,000, and this will be a gain of 10,000 over Bryan. The majority over Taft, who is in second place, is 72,000.

In view of the probable defeat of Benton McMillin by Gov. Hooper, the former is being mentioned for election to the United States Senate by the anti-Patterson Legislature which has been elected.

Nutmeg Legislature Republican.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—The Democratic sweep in Connecticut was almost complete, the only thing the Republicans retained being a slight plurality in the House of Representatives.

South Dakota Won by 5,000.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 6.—With returns in from approximately half of the counties in the State, indications are that Roosevelt carried South Dakota by about 5,000 votes. Partial and complete returns from 28 out of 61 counties of the State to-night give Roosevelt 24,908, and Wilson 21,267. It is estimated that the Progressive candidate will receive about 40,000 votes and the Democratic 35,000.

The results of the Gubernatorial race probably will not be known for several days, and it may take an official count to settle the election.

Modified Referendum in Nebraska.

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 6.—All the constitutional amendments voted on at this election were carried. Straight votes for all parties were counted for the amendments, and because of this rule the vote for the amendments is heavy. It has not been compiled, but returns at hand indicate that all amendments have carried by big majorities. One of these amendments provides for initiative and referendum legislation generally, and has been forced to the front during recent years by Prohibition workers. The recall is not provided for generally, although an amendment providing that cities may make their own charters permits the incorporation of the recall feature in municipalities where the home rule charter privilege is accepted by cities. Its acceptance by the cities is optional.

HASBROUCK WINS BY 6,800.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck of Ulster was elected Supreme Court Justice in the Third Judicial District over John J. Linson (Dem.) by a majority of 6,800. Mr. Hasbrouck secured the Republican nomination, and, there being no nomination for the office made by the Progressives, he was nominated by petition as that party's choice. The Progressive vote in the district was close to 14,000.

The election of William H. Cuddeback and John W. Hogan as Associate Judges of the Court of Appeals, to succeed Judges Irving G. Vann and Albert Haight, who are to retire at the end of the year, does not necessarily mean that Judges Emory A. Chase and Frank H. Hiscock, the Republican candidates, will retire from the court. The terms of Judges Chase and Hiscock as Supreme Court Justices do not expire until Dec. 31, 1924.

They were designated in 1906 by Gov. Higgins, and redesignated by Gov. Dix to serve on the court by reason of the accumulation of cases, and are to continue on the bench until the number of appeals undisposed of is reduced to 200. There are more than 600 cases now pending.

equal suffrage on Tuesday, and only Wisconsin turned it down.

Oregon has twice defeated woman suffrage, but on Tuesday she changed her mind. It is worthy of note that two of these States voted for Roosevelt, and it is beyond question that the Progressive campaign for woman suffrage had some influence with the voters in those two States. On the other hand, it is curious to note that of the States which now have woman suffrage only one, Washington, voted for the Bull Moose ticket.

Sulzer ran about 10,000 ahead of Wilson in New York. He got a majority of more than 206,000, while Wilson's majority was a little short of Cleveland's majority over Folger—196,000.

The Legislature, despite what was supposed to be the dissatisfaction with the record made in the last two years by the Democrats, is overwhelmingly Democratic. It is Democratic by two-thirds. There are 104 Democrats in the Assembly, forty-two Republicans, and four Progressives, and three of the Progressives were elected in Tammany districts on the lower East side. The fourth came from Chautauqua County, which went heavily for Roosevelt.

In the Senate there will be thirty-three Democrats, seven Republicans, and one Progressive.

Socialist Vote Increased.

Despite the predictions that Roosevelt's candidacy would hold the Socialist vote down to normal, it increased about 30 per cent. There were slashing increases in the West, where the Socialists made almost incredible gains. In Indiana they nearly doubled their vote of four years ago, and in California they trebled it. Nearly every State showed an increase of from 10 to 50 per cent.

Naturally the returns on Socialist votes are slower in coming in than returns on those of the larger parties, but in the eleven States of which the complete returns are at hand the Socialist vote increased on the average 60 per cent. It is estimated that Debs got 672,000 votes in the country this year, as against 420,793 last time.

The staid old State of Virginia went over to the idea of the commission form of government, advocated by all the radical parties, and Arizona decided in favor of the recall of Judges. It will be remembered that President Taft vetoed the bill admitting Arizona to the Union because it had the recall of Judges in its Constitution, and in order to get into the Union the State had to drop that clause. Now that she is a State and Mr. Taft cannot veto her legislation, she has defiantly reinserted that provision in her organic law.

On the other hand, Louisiana came valiantly to the rescue and defeated the recall proposal. She also defeated the amendment giving women the right to serve as Charities and Educational Commissioners.

THE BRONX IS A COUNTY.

It Will Set Up Independent Rule on Jan. 1, 1914.

The Bronx has broken away from New York and set up as a county on its own account. This was apparent from the incomplete returns of Tuesday night, but when all the ayes and noes had been counted yesterday, it was found that more than 10,000 voters favored the proposal over and above the number of those who were sufficiently opposed to go to the polls and vote against it. Here is the way it stood:

A. D.	Yes.	No.
32	13,168	7,656
33	5,773	3,637
34	10,988	7,904
Total	38,872	28,274

The Bronx will not enter upon its independence until Jan. 1, 1914. Its officials will be elected next November.

Saks Motor Styles

for the whole family

We offer the luxury of smart auto styles without the too usual extravagance of cost

¶ Our Motor Wear Department sprang into prominence at its inception some ten years ago, because from the magnitude of our stocks, the authenticity of our styles, and the economy of our prices, it was apparent to everybody that here at last was a motor wear shop which treated motoring not as a fad, but as the recognized recreation of prosperous American citizenship.

¶ And as the auto has come to play a greater part in our national life, so we have aligned ourselves with the increasing demand for motor apparel, until today our supremacy in auto wear is established as firmly as the self-starter over the "giddaps" of the equine past.

¶ In submitting a few of our hundreds of ideas for Winter motoring, we wish to draw your attention particularly to the high quality of workmanship and finish, and to the distinctive character of the styles. Whatever you get from Saks for motor wear will never be confounded with the vulgar average. Yet Saks prices range no higher than those charged by stores for motor styles of a nondescript character. Entire Sixth floor

WILSON IN NEW YORK GETS 647,994 VOTES

SULZER'S COUNT IS 650,734

His Plurality 206,543—New Governor's Plurality Over Straus, 255,622—Hedges Led Straus by 49,079.

Revised returns from all the counties in the State give Wilson a total vote of 647,994 and a plurality of 196,568 over Taft. The Taft vote was 451,426, and the Roosevelt vote 382,672. The combined vote of President Taft and Col. Roosevelt, which was 834,098, fell 36,000 short of the vote polled by Mr. Taft in 1908. The Wilson vote fell short by 20,000 of the Bryan vote in 1908.

In most of the up State counties the Taft and Roosevelt votes together fell short of the vote cast for the Republican candidate four years ago. The returns indicated that in many of the Republican strongholds up the State many voters stayed away from the polls.

With complete returns from nearly all the counties, Sulzer's plurality for Governor is 206,543. The total vote in the State was: Sulzer, 650,734; Hedges, 444,191; Straus, 395,112. Sulzer's plurality over Straus was 255,622, and Hedges led Straus by 49,079.

In New York City Sulzer's plurality over Straus was 110,169. He beat Hedges by 191,791. Straus led Hedges by 81,622.

Above the Bronx Sulzer beat Hedges by 14,752 and Straus by 145,453. Hedges led Straus by 130,701.

NEW GOVERNORS ELECTED.

Some Republicans Win Where Wilson Takes Electors.

In some of the State elections, a Republican Governor was able to gain office in spite of the Democratic landslide. A. J. Pothier of Rhode Island has been re-elected, although the State will give its Electoral vote to Wilson. In North Dakota, which Wilson is expected to carry by a small majority, Congressman Hanna, Republican, has apparently been able to pull through. In Wisconsin the same condition seems to have been brought about despite the ill-feeling between Senator La Follette and Gov. McGovern.

In the case of the first four Republican Governors in the following list, they all stand to lose when the final count of the votes is taken, but they were in the lead at last accounts this morning. Pothier, Foss, Blease, Hooper, Colquitt, Spry, and McGovern are re-elected.

ROOSEVELT AT WORK THE SAME AS BEFORE

Two Conferences and Correspondence Occupy His Whole Day After Election.

HE WILL HAVE A SAY SOON

Won't Tell What He Thinks of It Until He Gets All the Facts and Figures, but Third Party Will Stay.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Armageddon, Sagamore Hill, day after election. This afternoon and evening Col. Roosevelt held a series of conferences with various Progressive leaders who journeyed to Oyster Bay to discuss the election results and to consult as to ways and means of making the National organization of the third party permanent. Early in the afternoon Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California arrived at Sagamore Hill, accompanied by Amos and Gifford Pinchot. Col. Roosevelt greeted the California Executive warmly and ushered his visitors into the "north room" adjoining the library, where they remained together for more than an hour. None of the visitors would reveal what was discussed. When Gov. Johnson was asked what were his plans for the immediate future, he remarked: "I am going back to California and get into harness."

George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey, and Henry L. Stoddard appeared at Sagamore Hill to-night and held a similar conference with Col. Roosevelt, but were as reticent as the afternoon visitors had been. It was noticeable, however, that all were in good spirits and appeared like men who had won a victory rather than the Lieutenants of a lost cause.

When the newspaper correspondents waited upon Col. Roosevelt to-night they were assured that a detailed statement would be forthcoming within the next few days, but that for the present he had absolutely nothing to say.

"I prefer to wait until all the facts and figures are at my disposal," he observed. "The Democrats claim Minnesota for Mr. Wilson, but I am advised by Progressive leaders in that State that our ticket has been successful there, and that I will receive the Electoral vote. Until all doubts are removed I must decline to discuss the significance of the returns for publication."

The Colonel made it quite clear, however, that the Progressives would maintain their National organization as a third party and would also seek to strengthen their fences in Southern and Eastern States in preparation for the Congressional and Gubernatorial elections two years hence. So far as his routine may be taken as an indication of his position, Col. Roosevelt is not inclined to allow the result of the election to interfere with his pre-arranged plans. His work today was as persistent as though it was the day before rather than the day after election. He arose early, and after eating a hearty breakfast, plunged at once into his correspondence. He was confronted with the necessity of sorting and reading a mass of letters which had been delivered in the first mail, and to the most pressing of these he dictated immediate replies. An hour before dinner he had completed his labor and started for a short stroll, returning in time for the conferences, which occupied the afternoon and evening.

STOCK EXCHANGE LIVELIER.

Renewed Confidence in Buoyant Prices and a Million-Share Day.

On the Stock Exchange yesterday dealings expanded to more than one million shares for the first time since last Spring and prices rose buoyantly. Gains of from one to four points or more in all the leading issues gave the market greater strength than any which it had experienced since the close of September, when European selling began to depress prices of American securities, though the losses here were much less than those which the outbreak of the Balkan war brought to the issues whose home market is on the Continental Bourses.

Misgivings regarding the possible effect of tariff revision, which is brought actively to the fore through the election of a party committed to the removal of present excessive import duties, were done away with yesterday in the face of the great strength displayed on the Stock Exchange. A more hopeful view of the European situation played its part in putting stocks up, but the removal of restraint caused by previous uncertainty regarding the outcome of the election was a more important factor. The high and low prices of the day, with the net gain, compared with the closing quotations of Monday, sufficiently indicate the scope of the market improvement. Here are the figures:

	High.	Low.	Net Gain.
Amalgamated Copper	86⅝	83½	3
Canadian Pacific	267	262	4¾
Chicago, Mil. & St. Paul	114⅞	111¼	3½
Great Northern pf.	141⅛	138⅝	2⅛
Lehigh Valley	176¾	173½	1⅞
Northern Pacific	127⅞	124⅛	2½
Reading	174⅝	169⅝	3⅝
Union Pacific	174⅝	170⅛	4¾
United States Steel	78½	75	2⅜

The sales amounted to 1,012,327 shares, the biggest day's trading since March 19.

THE IMPORTANT STEP

The most important step in ensuring good work in building is to exercise the utmost vigilance in examining samples of materials, especially in mechanical lines, which are submitted for inspection and approval.

We exercise extreme care in this respect, and have inspectors do this work who are familiar with standard qualities and capable of appraising the relative merit of competitive lines.

Thus is obviated the possibility of any material being approved which is not absolutely up to the requisite standard.

DEMOCRATS HAVE BIG CONGRESS MAJORITY

Next House Will Consist of 297 Democrats, 122 Republicans, and 16 Progressives.

ELIMINATION OF CANNON

Republican Leaders McKinley, Roddenberg, Crumpacker, and Hill Also Defeated with "Uncle Joe."

Practically complete returns of the general Congressional elections held on Tuesday show that the political classification of the next House of Representatives will be: Democrats, 297; Republicans, 122; Progressives, 16.

This gives the Democrats a majority of 159 over Republicans and Progressives combined, and a plurality over the Republicans of 175. During the Congress session which ended in August the Democrats had a majority of 66 over the Republicans.

Many notable changes in the personnel of the House of Representatives will result from Tuesday's Congressional landslide. The most conspicuous figure that will disappear from public life in consequence of the great Democratic victory is ex-Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, familiarly known as "Uncle Joe," who has been defeated for re-election from the Eighteenth District of Illinois by F. J. O'Hair. Until last evening the result in Mr. Cannon's district was in doubt, but the completed count shows that Mr. Cannon has lost by a narrow majority.

This is Mr. Cannon's second defeat for Congress. He was out of the House of Representatives for one term, having been defeated for election in 1890. He was even then a veteran member of the House. Since 1892 "Uncle Joe" has been sent back regularly to Washington and for many years was the dominating figure in the lower branch of Congress.

James R. Mann, the Republican floor leader in the House, has been re-elected from the Chicago district which he has represented for many terms. But other Republican House leaders from Illinois shared the fate of Mr. Cannon. Representative William B. McKinley, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee and President Taft's manager in the pre-convention campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, shared the fate of many of his Republican associates in the House. Another Republican House leader from Illinois who suffered defeat is Representative William J. Roddenberg, one of ex-Speaker Cannon's lieutenants. Still another prominent House Republican to be buried under the Democratic victory is J. H. Davidson of the Sixth Wisconsin District. He has been a conspicuous member of the House for many years, but has shown decided Progressive leanings for several terms.

The Democrats made a clean sweep of the Indiana Congressional districts and retired the veteran Crumpacker, who had been foremost in the Republican ranks in the House. Representative Edwin Ebenezer Hill of Connecticut suffered defeat also. His State, like Indiana, is sending a solid Democratic delegation to Congress, which politically is a remarkable overturn in a State that is strongly devoted to the protection policy.

Representative Sereno E. Payne, who was floor leader of the Republicans in the House during Mr. Cannon's incumbency of the Speakership, was returned from New York. Joseph W. Fordney, another of Mr. Cannon's lieutenants and firm friends, was re-elected from the Michigan district that has sent him back to Congress time and again. Representative Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of Col. Roosevelt, narrowly escaped defeat in the First Ohio District, which is located in the City of Cincinnati. Mr. Longworth ran as a regular Republican, and his strength in the district was weakened by the fact that he was opposed by a candidate of his father-in-law's new third party.

Another conspicuous member of the House who was rejected by the voters of his district is Representative Cyrus Sulloway of New Hampshire. Sulloway is a giant in size and always attracted much attention from the galleries when the House was in session. The defeat of the two Republican candidates for Congress from his State was one of the great surprises of the election, as New Hampshire was regarded as strongly Republican in spite of the active Progressive movement there led by Gov. Bass.

All the Democratic House leaders, including Speaker Champ Clark and Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means and Democratic floor leader, were returned.

WILSON GETS SENATE, TOO.

52 Democrats, 35 Republicans, and 6 Progressives in Upper House.

With the election results practically complete it is certain that the Democrats will control the United States Senate in the Sixty-third Congress. With the success of the Democratic Legislative ticket in Nevada they will have at least 52 members of the Senate. The Republicans probably will have 35 and the Progressives, 6, with the political classification of three seats in doubt.

The Democratic total of 51 does not include a Democrat from West Virginia to succeed Watson, Democrat, whose term will expire next March, and the Republicans are given the benefit of the doubt in New Hampshire, where the Legislature elected on Tuesday will choose a successor to Burnham, Republican. The political control of the New Hampshire Legislature is uncertain. Latest returns indicate that the West Virginia Legislature is Republican by a small margin.

The Democratic total likewise does not include Senators of that party who may be elected from Tennessee and Illinois.

In classifying the next Senate the progressives get one Senator from Illinois, whose Legislature will elect two Senators to succeed the venerable Shelby M. Cullom, Republican, and William Lorimer, whom the Senate refused to seat on the ground that fraud had been used in obtaining his election. Apparently no political party will have a majority in the Illinois Legislature, but the Progressives will have the balance of power there, and in order to obtain the election of a Senator of their own party the Democratic or the Republican legislators will be obliged to form a coalition.

The indications are also that the Michigan Legislature will be Republican on joint ballot. This will insure the return to the Senate of William Alden Smith, Republican, whose present term will expire in March.

Tennessee, which will send two Senators to Washington, has elected a Fusion Legislature, which is regarded as making certain that ex-Gov. Patterson, Democratic candidate for the Senate, will not be re-elected. Idaho will be safely Republican in the Legislature, and will send back to the Senate William E. Borah, Republican, and will give him a Republican colleague in place of the late Senator W. B. Heyburn, Republican.

According to the returns of legislative contests in the twenty-seven States that will elect United States Senators, the next Senate will be composed in political detail as follows:

Democrats—Alabama, 2; Arizona, 2; Arkansas, 2; Colorado, 2; Delaware, 1; Florida, 2; Georgia, 2; Indiana, 2; Kansas, 1; Kentucky, 1; Louisiana, 2; Maine, 1; Maryland, 2; Massachusetts, 1; Mississippi, 2; Missouri, 2; Montana, 2; Nebraska, 1; Nevada, 2; New York, 1; New Jersey, 2; New Mexico, 1; North Carolina, 2; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 2; Oregon, 2; South Carolina, 2; South Dakota, 1; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 2; Virginia, 2; West Virginia, 1. Total 52.

Republicans: California, 2; Connecticut, 2; Diaware, 1; Idaho, 2; Iowa, 2; Kentucky, 1; Maine, 1; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 2; Minnesota, 1; New York, 1; New Hampshire, 2; New Mexico, 1; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 1; Pennsylvania, 2; Rhode Island, 2; South Dakota, 1; Utah, 2; Vermont, 2; Washington, 1; Wisconsin, 2; Wyoming, 2. Total, 35.

Progressives: Illinois, 1; Kansas, 1; Minnesota, 1; Nebraska, 1; North Dakota, 1; Washington, 1. Total 6.

Political classification uncertain: 1 from Tennessee, who probably will be members of the Fusion Party in that State composed of Republicans and insurgent Democrats; 1 from Illinois. Total 3.

In all the many contests for seats in the United States Senate that centred in the effort to control States Legislatures or to obtain the popular vote under the Oregon system the Republicans won in none that will give them an additional Senator, excepts perhaps in West Virginia, where the result is in doubt. The Democrats gained seats now held by Republican Senators in Oregon, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Kansas, Montana, Colorado, Delaware, and probably in Tennessee.

Two of the Republicans who will be succeeded by Democrats are Jonathan Bourne, Jr., of Oregon and Joseph M. Dixon of Montana, who joined the new third party. Senator Bourne joined the Progressives through public announcement within a day or two after the publication of a letter from Col. Roosevelt to Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, Chairman of the Senate committee investigating political campaign funds, in which the Colonel told of Senator Bourne's activity in attempting to arrange interviews between Col. Roosevelt, when he was President of the United States, and John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Company. Senator Dixon is Chairman of the Progressive National Committee, and was manager for Roosevelt and Johnson in the campaign just ended.

Exclusive of the Progressive who may be elected to the Senate from Illinois, and Morris of Nebraska, chosen in the direct preference election in that State on Tuesday, the Progressive contingent in the next Senate will consist of Bristow of Kansas, Clapp of Minnesota, Gronna of North Dakota, and Poindexter of Washington, all elected to the Senate originally as Republicans. All of them are members of the present Senate and will hold over after March 4, 1913.

Through obtaining control of the Maine Legislature in the elections held in that State in September the Republicans will gain one Senate seat in the next Congress and return it in the two subsequent Congresses, displacing a Democral. The Republican to be sent to the Senate by Maine is ex-Representative Edwin C. Burleigh, who was defeated for re-election to the House of Representatives two years ago. The Democrat to be displaced is Senator Obadiah Gardner.

FILL VACANCIES IN CONGRESS.

Elections held on Tuesday to fill six vacancies in the present United States House of Representatives resulted as follows:

Old Twenty-sixth District, New York—Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., Republican, to succeed George R. Malby, Republican, deceased.

New Twenty-sixth District, New York—Edmund Platt, Republican, to succeed Richard R. Connell, Democrat, deceased.

Thirteenth District, Ohio—John A. Key, Democrat, to succeed C. C. Anderson, Democrat, deceased.

Sixth District, Louisiana—Lewis L. Morgan, Democrat, to succeed Robert C. Wickliffe, Democrat, deceased.

Second District, Rhode Island—Peter Goelet Gerry, Democrat, to succeed George H. Utter, Republican, deceased.

Old Sixth District, New Jersey—E. J. Hanvey, Democrat, to succeed William Hughes, Democrat, resigned to enter contest for Senator.

The terms of these six Representatives will expire March 4, 1913. They will take their seats when Congress meets in December.

LARGE DEMOCRATIC GAIN IN LEGISLATURE

Party Elects 33 of 51 Senators and 104 of 150 Members of the Assembly.

MOOSE HAS FIVE MEMBERS

Four of These Are in Lower House and One in the Upper—A. E. Smith of Manhattan May Be Speaker.

Complete and corrected returns from the Senate and Assembly elections in the State give the Democrats an even heavier majority in both branches of the Legislature than was indicated in the early returns received on election night.

From the latest returns it appears that 33 of the 51 seats in the Senate will be filled by Democrats, an increase of 4 over the party's representation in the present Senate. This will give the Democrats an ample working majority of 7—the number necessary to pass a bill being 26. The Republicans elected 17 Senators. A lone Progressive, the Rev. Dr. A. J. Palmer of Ulster County, who ran in the Twenty-seventh District with Republican indorsement, was elected.

In the Assembly the Democrats will have a bigger majority than the Republicans in their palmiest days of power. Not only did New York City send a practically solid Democratic delegation to the law-making body, but district upon district in ordinarily strong Republican territory up-State reversed its political complexion as a result of the inroads made on the Republican strength by the Progressives.

The Democrats, according to the latest returns, will have 104 out of the 150 seats in the lower house. Republicans will fill 42 seats, while 4 will be occupied by Progressives. Of the latter, 3 were elected from Manhattan and 1 from the First Assembly District in the ordinarily safely Republican County of Chautauqua. Of the New York Progressives, 2 were chosen from the lower east side, 1 from the Eighth Assembly District and the other from the Tenth. The third was elected from the Thirty-first Assembly District, where Oscar S. Straus, the Bull Moose candidate for Governor, resides.

In some of the up-State districts the election is very close. In the Second District of Ulster, in Delaware County, and in several other localities pluralities of the successful candidates are so small that only the official canvass can conclusively determine the result. Contests may follow in some of the close districts, and these, with the Democratic majority in the Legislature, would be decided in favor of the Democratic candidates.

The somewhat unexpected election of Elon R. Brown, the Republican candidate for Senate from the Jefferson-Oswego District, makes it practically certain that he will be leader of the Senate minority, as he is virtually the only Republican elected of experience and calibre to fit him for the place. Robert F. Wagner of the Sixteenth Senatorial District will be President pro tem., a post he has filled with ability.

Alfred E. Smith, the young Assemblyman from the Second Assembly District in Manhattan, in all probability will be the next Speaker of the Assembly. Assemblyman Harold J. Hinman, from the First Albany District, is being discussed for minority leader of the lower house.

HOW TO HELP FLAT FEET.

Rules for Footwear, Standing and Walking, and Exercises.

Dr. P. B. Roth describes in The Lancet of London, England, a treatment which he says is suitable for all cases of flat foot. It has much to do with proper footwear and exercise. This summary of his article appears in the Journal of the American Medical Association:

"A treatment suitable, with but slight modification, for all cases of static foot trouble, (flat foot,) from the early cases which are often described as 'weak ankles' to the most severe cases, where there is old standing structural change, is what Roth claims for his method. The treatment consists of (1) attention to footwear; (2) attention to position in standing and walking; (3) regular daily exercises. Whether boots or shoes are worn, whether they button or lace, they must be the shape of the feet. The inner side of the boot, where the big toe lies, is kept straight, so that the end of the boot is opposite the big toe, and not opposite the second or third toe. This is to insure that the big toe is not pushed out against the other toes and has plenty of room in which to act. The soles should be a sixth to a fourth of an inch thick, the heels broad, an inch or less in height."

The article to the left is a reprint from yesterday's Times. Dr. Roth is correct in some of his statements, wrong in others. Our Shoe man has studied dressing the feet of American women for years and found, contrary to Dr. Roth's statement, that low heels are not suitable for the great majority of American women, who have high arched feet—to put low heels on all shoes would result in physical injury, as high arched feet require support.

"Wichert" $5.00 Shoes, if properly fitted—and Mahlers have the salespeople who know how to fit them—will keep your feet in perfect condition, besides smartly shod.

VOTE OF SOCIALISTS VASTLY INCREASED

Early Estimates Show 672,000 Votes as Against 420,793 Cast in 1908.

GAIN OF SIXTY PER CENT.

California Leads in Growth of the Party, with Indiana Second, Wisconsin Third.

Although the Socialist vote of the country fell below the 1,000,000 mark which had been set as a goal by Socialists all over the United States immediately after the 1908 election, the increase in the number of votes in almost every State of the Union was astonishing, running all the way from 10 to 300 per cent. A conservative estimate of the total vote cast, based on the meagre returns received from sixteen States, is 672,000, as compared with 420,793 in 1908; hence an increase throughout the country of approximately 60 per cent.

In several States, including Idaho and Wyoming, there was a slight falling off in the Socialist vote, but this was easily made up in other sections. California, which has witnessed many labor disturbances since the last Election, increased its Socialist vote from 28,659 to an estimated poll of 83,770 and leads in the percentage increase column. Next comes Indiana, according to the returns received up to midnight last night, with an increase from 13.476 to 21.088.

Wisconsin polled approximately 40,000 Socialist votes, as against 28.170 in 1908, and the increase, it is interesting to note, did not come from Milwaukee County, which, as a matter of fact, polled eight votes less this year than in 1908. Ohio showed an increase from 33,795 to over 46,000, and Oklahoma an increase from 21,734 to approximately 50,000. There was a considerable falling off in the State of Washington.

Just as the Prohibition candidate for President ran ahead of Taft, the lowest man on the ticket in California, so Debs ran ahead of Taft in Nevada, the Debs vote being 4,195 as against Taft's 3,705. Arizona, which was not a State in 1908, gave the Socialists, according to the latest estimates, about 2,000 votes.

From Paris Modistes And the Gimbel Atelier

Millinery for the Horse Show

A superb display in which we shall take pleasure in presenting the new modes in Fur and Fur-trimmed Millinery—the latest dictate of Paris.

The draped chapeau of skunk and ermine is the most luxurious, because the rare Velvet bird's plumage crowns its beauty.

Exquisite ermine and a wonderful specimen of white Bird of Paradise compose another charming Hat.

Bands of skunk adorn the Hats whose brims are appliqued with silk roses, and also edge the moire ribbon bows of other smart chapeaux.

The Picture Hat of black velvet whose brim is moulded to form a decided point in the front, is just off the steamer. But, of course, there are many other afternoon and evening hats that are laden with exquisite plumages.

Chic little Hats of moleskin, others of plush or velvet trimmed with civet cat and raccoon are for morning wear at the Show.

Just as the Paris modistes make elaborate preparations for the Races at Longchamps and Auteuil, so have we for this social event of the New York season.

Prices are from $15 to $250. French Salon, Third Floor

Corsage Bouquets

The Callot Rose—a delightful confection of mousseline de soie and chiffon taffeta—has just arrived from Paris. In the new Bernard, sulphur, gold, pink and rose, $1.75. And you may select from at least five hundred Corsage Bouquets for afternoon and evening gowns, besides Nosegays to wear with tailored suits. 50c to $8.50.

Coiffure Adornments

Grecian, Venetian, Bulgarian, Egyptian, Moorish and other fascinating styles of bandeaux, cabochons and barrettes—encrusted with rhinestones, crystals, pearls, colored jewels and jet, besides antique gold and silver. Paradise, ostrich and goura plumages also adorn some of them. $1.50 to $50.

Third Floor

Apropos of the Horse Show—

A Display of Distinctive Modes

The House of Fashions has assembled such a magnificent collection of new Gowns, Suits and Wraps that it will be possible for the New York Horse Show to quite rival in a fashionable way the Paris racing events at Longchamps and Auteuil.

Smart Velour de Laine Suits, $29.50 to $135.

Fur-trimmed Suits—Matelasse, chiffon velvet, broadcloth, corduroy and Velour de Laine, $37.50 to $195.

Fur-trimmed Afternoon Gowns—chiffon velvet, silk brocade and crepe meteor, $45 to $175.

Evening Gowns—imported, $35 to $300. Reproductions of imported models, $25 to $165.

Fur-trimmed Topcoats—smart woolens, corduroy, brocades, Velour du Nord and Velour de Laine, $25 to $150.

Evening Wraps—imported, $35 to $295. Reproductions of imported models, $25 to $95.

Riding Suits and Habits

"The Piping Rock" Suit—with knickerbockers and long coat; Oxford habit cloth or tan covert cloth, $55.

"The Meadowbrook" Habit—Oxford or black habit cloth. $45 and $50.

Women's Riding Habits, with Norfolk or jaunty box coats; cheviot, covert or habit cloth, $37.50.

WINNERS AND MOOSE TO KEEP ON WORKING

To Maintain Permanent National Headquarters, Open Daily Until 1916.

McCOMBS TO TAKE HOLIDAY

Progressives Now Official Minority Party, Says Dixon—To Battle for House Control in 1914.

Although the campaign is over, both the Democratic and Progressive National Committees are preparing to maintain permanent National headquarters to be open every day in the week throughout the next four years.

William F. McCombs, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is considering just now whether to maintain the permanent headquarters of the committee in this city or in Washington. Under the tentative plan worked out by Mr. McCombs and his friends, the departments at headquarters which will remain are the Bureau on Organization, the Publicity Bureau, and the Chairman's office under the supervision of an assistant to the Chairman.

About a score of employes at the Democratic National headquarters will remain at work for a few days winding up the affairs of the campaign. Most of the elaborate office suite in the Fifth Avenue Building will be surrendered immediately.

Chairman McCombs went to Princeton to call on Gov. Wilson yesterday, together with Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee; Rolla Wells, Treasurer of the campaign; United States Senator O'Gorman, Abram I. Elkus, and some of the other leaders who have been active at National headquarters in the campaign. Mr. McCombs is planning to take a rest, but has not decided where to spend his holiday.

In the absence of Mr. McCombs hundreds of telegrams reached headquarters congratulating him on the great victory he had been instrumental in achieving. Among those who wired congratulations was William J. Bryan. An interesting missive was sent from Hamburg, Ark., where Mr. McCombs was born. It was signed by practically every resident of the town.

Sulzer's Busy Day.

William Sulzer, Governor-elect, was a very busy man yesterday. At his office, 118 Broadway, he was hard at work answering hundreds of letters and telegrams from well-wishers. These included missives from Woodrow Wilson, Thomas R. Marshall, William J. Bryan, Champ Clark, Oscar S. Straus, Jacob H. Schiff, Perry Belmont, Frederick Townsend Martin, and the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst.

"I appreciate more than words can tell," said the Governor-elect, "the vote of confidence reposed in me by the people. In the future as in the past I shall do everything in my power to deserve this popular commendation."

At both the State and National headquarters of the National Progressive Party employes were busy dismantling part of the elaborate plant used during the campaign. Both the State and the National Committee will continue in operation and maintain headquarters in this city, though on a less elaborate scale than during the campaign. George W. Perkins, executive head of the National organization; Gov. Johnson of California, United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon, the National Chairman, and State Chairman William H. Hotchkiss, together with some other Bull Moose leaders, went to Sagamore Hill yesterday to confer with Col. Roosevelt regarding the future of the party. Senator Dixon has summoned the Bull Moose National Committee to meet in Chicago on Dec. 10.

Senator Dixon believes that the party in the midst of defeat has won one of the greatest political victories ever won by a party.

"This morning the National Progressive Party takes its official place as a dominant opposition to the Democratic Party," said Senator Dixon. "As a result of the balloting yesterday the Progressive Party takes either first or second place in all but five States.

Official Minority Party.

"From now on it takes its place, in every State in the Union except those five, as the official minority party in all bi-partisan State boards and boards of control. In every State also except those five the Progressive Party jointly with the Democrats will control the election machinery. The old Republican organization has become the third party throughout the United States. I doubt if it can ever again muster strength to nominate a candidate for President of the United States."

"The remarkable thing about the election yesterday is the striking similarity in percentages of the votes cast between the three parties yesterday and in 1856.

"Yesterday Wilson did not receive so large a proportion of the popular vote as did Buchanan in 1856. In 1856 Buchanan received about 46 per cent. of the total vote cast for President.

"Yesterday Wilson received about 6,650,000 votes, or only 42 per cent. of the total vote cast. Yesterday Wilson received about 2,700,000 less votes than a majority. In 1856 the candidate for the newly organized Republican Party received about 33 per cent. of the total vote. Fillmore, that year, representing the old Whig Party, received about 22 per cent.

"Roosevelt received about 4,750,000 votes, or 30 per cent. of the total vote.

"Taft received about 3,700,000, or about 23 per cent. of the total vote.

"In 1856 the newly organized party gathered new inspiration and hope from the remarkable showing made by them in their first entry into National politics. Two years later, in 1858, they carried the House in the Congressional election, and four years later, in 1860, they elected Lincoln President and took control of both the House and the Senate.

"Two years from this time the Progressive Party will, I believe, elect a majority of the House, and follow it up by a sweeping victory in the Presidential election four years from this time."

Statement from Perkins.

Mr. Perkins issued the following statement last night:

"The enormous vote polled by the ninety-day-old Progressive Party is conclusive proof that the standards set up in the party's platform are to be this country's standards in the future.

"This will give the people renewed hope and courage, for they see tangible evidence of better things ahead, of an actual way out, of a method of solving many problems that have sorely perplexed us for many years, and which were rapidly approaching a crisis that threatened serious trouble.

"After all, four years is but a short time in the life of a great nation, and the Progressive Party, now absolutely confident of the success of the principles for which it stands, will lose no time in continuing the fight until the victory shall have been completely won."

State Chairman Hotchkiss scouted the idea that the Progressives and Republicans might get together again.

"The Progressives stand for principles for which the Republican Party will never stand," said Mr. Hotchkiss. "The Progressive Party is now the principal party in opposition to the Administration. Our fight begins anew to-day, and will continue until the principles we advocate shall have been incorporated in our Constitution and in our statutes. Telegrams from Progressive leaders throughout the State received to-day, assure me that they are in this fight to the end."

Mr. Hotchkiss declared that the Progressives were glad that Roosevelt had not been elected President, because had he been he would have had a hostile House and Senate with him.

"When we sweep the country in 1916," he said, "we will carry into office Progressive Senators and Congressmen, so that the President will be backed up."

He announced later that he had called a meeting of the State Committee and of the county Chairmen to be held in New York the week after next, the date to be determined a little later.

Republican National headquarters in the Times Building showed little activity yesterday except that incidental to clearing out desks and leavetaking by employes whose work came to an end with the campaign. Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the committee was not in evidence about headquarters.

GOOD WISHES SENT WILSON.

Straus, Perkins, and Hearst Among 4,000 Offering Congratulations.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—No definite count was kept of the telegrams of congratulation which were received by Gov. Wilson since his election was assured, but the number was considerably more than 4,000 to-night. In fact, at the telegraph office it was said that this estimate was a low one. Ten extra operators were at work, and messenger boys were carrying the messages to the Wilson cottage in batches of fifty or more at a time. Letters were pouring into the Post Office, too.

The telegrams came from all parts of the country and from men in all walks of life. This morning the Governor received the messages sent by President Taft and Col. Roosevelt, congratulating him upon his victory.

To President Taft Gov. Wilson sent this reply:

> I warmly appreciate your kind message, and wish to express my sincere personal regard.

This is the Governor's telegram to Col. Roosevelt:

> My sincerest thanks for your kind message. Pray accept my cordial good wishes.

One of the telegrams received by the Governor was from Gov. John A. Dix of New York. Another was from President Araugo of San Salvador.

Gov. Wilson tried to read all of them and answer all of them, but he soon found that to be a hopeless task, and gave it up for the time.

The Governor was deeply touched by the many messages of good-will.

Here are some of the hundreds of telegrams received by Gov. Wilson to-day:

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.—I am glad to report that you have carried my State, city of Lincoln, and my precinct. Your success here adds to my enjoyment of your National victory.

NEWTON D. BAKER, Mayor of Cleveland.—The victory is largely an expression of confidence in you personally. Surely my own satisfaction is unbounded, as I know how well justified the public confidence is.

OSCAR S. STRAUS.—I congratulate you upon your election, and wish you the fullest measure of success throughout your Adistration.

THOMAS P. GORE, Senator from Oklahoma.—I congratulate you, and I congratulate the country. We must prove that the Democracy deserves this vote of confidence, this splendid triumph.

SENATOR LUKE LEA of Nashville, Tenn.—Accept my heartiest congratulations upon the practical manner of expressing confidence in you by the American people.

EX-JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER.—The people are to be congratulated on the opportunity given you to serve them and nearly all, whether voting for you or not, feel this to be true, now that a calm survey of the result yesterday has been taken. Be so good as to accept my congratulations and best wishes.

SENOR OSMENA, Speaker of the Assembly of the Philippine Islands.—I sincerely hope that the Democratic Administration will redeem the pledges of the American people to recognize Philippine independence.

He added that the Assembly had passed a resolution of congratulation.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, (from Madrid.)—Congratulations both on your personal victory and on the fact that you will have a Democratic House and Senate to support the policies of your Administration.

GEORGE W. PERKINS, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Progressive Party.—You have won a great victory. Permit me to congratulate you very heartily.

J. FRANKLIN FORT, ex-Governor of New Jersey, and Progressive Party Leader.—No more sincere and hearty congratulations on your election can be sent to you than those which I now convey. I know you will make a great President.

CHAMP CLARK, Speaker of the House.—'Twas a great victory. Congratulations to you and the country.

GOV. JUDSON HARMON of Ohio.—My heartiest wishes for a pleasant and successful Administration to crown your great victory at the polls.

OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD, Majority Leader of the House of Representatives.—You have won a wonderful victory for the Democratic Party. I congratulate you on the result, and you have my sincere, best wishes for a successful Administration of the affairs of our Government.

EUGENE N. FOSS, Governor of Massachusetts.—Hearty congratulations on your vote. It is the most remarkable tribute ever paid to an American public official, while it is also an indorsement of the Democratic platform. Its magnitude shows unmistakably that the people of the entire country believe in you and look for constructive statesmanship.

CARTER H. HARRISON, Mayor of Chicago.—I congratulate you upon the Democrats' great victory. Progressive policies under a united leadership won the day. The signal confidence placed in you by the people must be a source of great personal pride.

MAY IRWIN, the Actress.—God bless you. We have needed you for a long time.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, the Mining Engineer.—My wife and I send you cordial congratulations on the great honor paid you by the American people.

Others who sent telegrams were Gov. Frederick W. Plaisted of Maine, George B. McClellan, ex-Mayor of New York; Perry Belmont, Ollie James, Senator-elect from Kentucky; Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, Bishop McFaul of Trenton, Molly McIntyre, the actress; Joaquin Mendez, Minister to the United States from Guatemala; Samuel Untermyer, and Howland B. Howe of Vermont.

MARSHALL AT HIS DESK AGAIN

Vice President-elect Attends to His Duties as Governor.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 6.—Vice President-elect Thomas R. Marshall was to-day at his office in the State House attending to his duties as Governor of Indiana, as usual. His term expires next January and he will remain in office until then.

Scores of telegrams of congratulations were received by the Governor, including one from President-elect Woodrow Wilson, replying to the message sent him by Gov. Marshall. There was also a message for Mrs. Marshall from Mrs. Thomas P. Gore, wife of the Oklahoma Senator.

O'GORMAN AND WILEY MAY BE IN CABINET

Washington Speculates on Men President Wilson Will Select as His Advisers.

DISCREDIT BRYAN RUMORS

He Would Not Fit In as a Cabinet Officer, It Is Held—McCombs, Rayner, and Palmer Also Mentioned.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—No sooner was the result of yesterday's election certain than politicians began to direct their attention to the Cabinet with which President Wilson will surround himself. In the day's discussion there are two points of general agreement. One is that Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York will probably enter the new Cabinet, either as Secretary of State or as Attorney General. The other is that the most plausible suggestion so far made for Secretary of Agriculture is Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of Indiana, until recently Chief Chemist of the Department of Agriculture.

The way for Mr. O'Gorman's entrance into the Cabinet was smoothed by the election yesterday of a New York State Legislature that will be overwhelmingly Democratic. That will guarantee the election of a Democrat to succeed Mr. O'Gorman in the Senate, and will allow him to resign without injury to his party. In the Senate Mr. O'Gorman holds an unusually high position, considering his brief service. He is a member of the important Judiciary Committee, and, contrary to precedent, is also assigned to two other "working committees"—that on interoceanic canals and immigration.

Mr. O'Gorman's work on the Judiciary Committee has been recognized among his associates, and, combined with his record on the New York bench, entitles him to consideration as Attorney General. His duties on the other two committees have both brought him in touch with foreign affairs, and in debates on the Panama Canal and the abrogation of the Russian treaty he was active on the floor. It is on the strength of his work on those two subjects that he is now mentioned as a possible head of the Department of State.

Politically, Mr. O'Gorman's appointment for either post would have much to recommend it. It is almost a certainty that New York will have at least one Cabinet place, and he to-day is the most prominent Democrat from that State. He is one of the original Wilson men, and in spite of his Tammany affiliations he was, with Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, among Gov. Wilson's most prominent supporters at Baltimore. Since then he has followed Gov. Wilson's lead, even in New York State politics, when his allegiance seemed to threaten an open break with Tammany.

Little credence is given here to the revived report that William Jennings Bryan will be Mr. Wilson's Secretary of State, or that Mr. Bryan will hold any post in the new Administration. That Mr. Bryan would want any post at Mr. Wilson's disposal is extremely unlikely, while politicians agree that it is almost inconceivable that Mr. Wilson should want Mr. Bryan. The political friendship of the two men is not called openly in question, but it is suggested that Mr. Bryan's presence in the Wilson Cabinet would be almost as embarrassing as the presence of ex-President Roosevelt would have been in the Cabinet of his successor.

From the point of view of politics it is thought that Gov. Wilson could hardly make a more popular appointment than of Dr. Wiley to be Secretary of Agriculture. He would succeed the aged Secretary James Wilson, with whom he was in perpetual friction, and his appointment would be received throughout the country as an announcement of the new Administration's purpose to enforce the pure food law rigorously.

On the assumption that Mr. O'Gorman becomes Secretary of State instead of Attorney General, prominent mention is given here of Senator Isidor Rayner of Maryland for the latter post. Mr. Rayner, while an extremist in many of his views, is recognized as a Constitutional lawyer of ability, and he has long been mentioned as having ambition in either the direction of the Supreme Court or the Cabinet. Aside from Mr. Bailey of Texas, who is retiring, the only other prominent Democratic lawyer in the Senate is Le Roy Percy of Mississippi, who yields his seat to James K. Vardaman on March 4.

Another of the names to be mentioned for the new Cabinet is that of William McCombs, Democratic National Chairman and personal manager of Gov. Wilson's campaign before the Baltimore Convention. Though he has recently lived in New York, he comes originally from Arkansas, so that his appointment would not conflict with that of Senator O'Gorman. His political associations mark him for the Postmaster Generalship, and that is the only suggestion heard in regard to him.

The prominent part assumed by Representative A. Mitchell Palmer in the Wilson campaign brings his name forward for several Cabinet positions. His membership in the important House Committee on Appropriations gives no direction to this talk, but it seems to be supposed that he would be considered either for the War or Navy Department. In some quarters his connections as Director in the Scranton Trust Company, the Stroudsburg National Bank, and other financial institutions have caused him to be mentioned for Secretary of the Treasury, but the prevailing opinion is that a better-known man will administer the finances of the country.

Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, the first strong candidate for the Democratic nomination to withdraw and permit the nomination of Gov. Wilson, was at first put down almost positively as an appointee to the Secretaryship of the Treasury. His service as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee gives him the needed experience, but it can be stated that Mr. Underwood's ambition is to continue at the head of his committee and direct the tariff policy of his victorious party for the next four years. He made that announcement openly when Representative Martin Littleton, during the deadlock at the Democratic Convention, came to Washington and urged Mr. Underwood to accept the Vice Presidential nomination and so break the deadlock.

Others in Congress to be mentioned are Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who was Secretary of the Interior under President Cleveland, and Representative Burleson of Texas, who is mentioned for head either of the Department of Commerce and Labor or of the Interior. Mr. Smith was an Underwood delegate at Baltimore, but that might not count against him, while it is considered essential that in a Democratic Administration the South should have good representation.

These names about exhaust the strictly political list of availables. But politicians realize that many of the appointments—especially in departments largely of a technical or scientific nature—will go to college men and scientists whose names are scarcely known in Washington. Of these men there is no definite discussion, but it is assumed that at least two or three of them will be known here before March 4.

RESULT WILL HELP BUSINESS.

Bankers and Railroad Men Predict a Safe and Sane Administration.

Bankers, railroad executives, and other financiers who were found at their offices in the Wall Street district yesterday agreed, almost without exception, that the coming change in the political party in power in the Federal and many of the State governments need not upset business again, and there was a general disposition to believe that Gov. Wilson would prove an able and fair-minded President. Among a number of interviews printed by the financial news agencies there was hardly one admitting the likelihood of any serious disturbance in connection with the Democratic revision of the tariff.

H. C. Frick said: "I was particularly well pleased with Mr. Wilson's able and sensible conduct throughout the campaign. I believe he will give the country a good, safe and sane administration, and that the business interests have nothing to fear."

James J. Hill, who recently resigned the Chairmanship of the Great Northern Railway, declared that the success of the Democratic Party would not have an adverse effect upon business. He said: "I feel better over the general outlook than I did before Election. An attempt was made to bring about a political revolution; but the American people, while desiring a change, showed their good sense by repudiating the revolutionary doctrines offered them and sticking to sound principles and established methods of bringing about their wishes." Mr. Hill is a Democrat.

W. E. Corey, former President of the Steel Corporation, said: "I am convinced that Mr. Wilson will make an able and conservative business President, and that the business of the country, as a whole, will reap great benefits during his administration. That he will handle the tariff and other problems ably and conservatively, there seems to be no question. All indications point to a continuation of the prosperity the country is now enjoying, and business should be given a still further impetus by the outcome of the election."

George J. Gould is well pleased with the result of the election, and expects a Democratic administration to have little or no effect on business. "The tariff adjustment," he said, "cannot be made in a day, a month, or a year, and any changes will be so gradual that business will readily adjust itself to the new conditions."

B. F. Yoakum, Chairman of the board of the 'Frisco lines, said: "I am very much pleased with the election of Gov. Wilson. I am entirely confident he will carry out all the policies he has promised during the campaign. The Democratic victory does not by any means settle all the big economic questions of the day. In meeting these the Democratic Party is on probation. The entire country looks to it for results during the next four years."

Col. Samuel P. Colt, President of the United States Rubber Company, said: "Although a lifelong and ardent Republican, I am glad that the election is over and that the results were so decisive. Although my party was defeated, I am not predicting a period of calamity and disaster, because there is to be a change in the administration. I believe that we are to have good times."

REVISED JERSEY RETURNS.

Wilson's Plurality About 40,000—Legislature Democratic by 49.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 6.—With Colonel Roosevelt victorious only in Essex, Cumberland, and Passaic Counties, Gov. Wilson has a plurality in New Jersey on practically complete returns of 39,911. The vote stood Wilson, 179,472; Roosevelt, 139,561; Taft, 86,780. The Democrats gained eleven of the twelve Congressmen elected, William J. Browning in the First District being the only successful Republican.

Control of the Legislature was also obtained by the Democrats, who will have a majority on joint ballot of forty-nine. This insures not only the selection of Judge William Hughes of Passaic as successor to United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, Republican, but also means that State Senator James Fielder of Hudson County will be Senate President and Acting Governor when Gov. Wilson resigns to go to Washington. All appointments to be made this Winter will go to the Democrats, and State Treasurer Voorhees will be replaced, possibly, by State Controller Edward I. Edwards. John W. Wesman, the State House custodian, will also have to go, and the State House Commission become Democratic.

In the Mayoralty contest in Newark Mayor Haussling, Democrat, was re-elected over his Republican opponent, Louis V. Aronson, by a probable plurality of 6,300, with two districts missing.

Essex Democrats elected a full county ticket. The successful candidates are Edward Schickhaus, re-elected County Supervisor; Joseph McDonough, County Clerk; Emmet J. Quinn, Frederick C. Steck, and John H. Waters, for the small Board of Freeholders.

The successful Democratic candidates for the Newark Board of Works are Albert Biertuempfel and Charles Gillen, giving a majority in that body. By electing twelve Aldermen the Democrats will probably control the Common Council until 1914.

TARIFF ISSUE WON—DIX.

Result Shows People Most Interested in That, Says Governor.

ALBANY, Nov. 6.—"The Democratic party," said Gov. Dix to-day, "has now won three victories on the tariff issue, two with Cleveland and again with Wilson, which is the greatest of all. This to my mind shows conclusively that the tariff is the issue in which the people are most interested."

The Governor sent congratulatory telegrams to Gov. Wilson and Representative Sulzer.

TAFT PLANS TO KEEP THE OLD PARTY ALIVE

Cheerful in Face of Defeat, President Hopes to Pull Republicans Together.

PROPOSES A NATIONAL CLUB

Would Keep Loyalty Alive by General Organization Outside of National Committee—Panama Visit Off.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Defeated, but far from discouraged, President Taft already has formed plans for holding together and strengthening the Republican Party. He declared to-night to friends who accompanied him north from Cincinnati that the party will continue to exist; that it will be as active as in the past, and that there is no reason to believe that its chances of future success are not excellent.

So far as the President's plan is concerned, he hopes to see organized a "National Republican Club" entirely apart from the Republican National Committee, which shall cherish the principles of the party and be a source of political activity not only during election years, but at all times. The President spoke of the Republican Club of New York, the Hamilton Club of Chicago, and other organizations similar in character, and expressed the belief that through these clubs interest and loyalty could be kept alive.

To a suggestion that he might be the Republican Party's nominee in 1916, the President smiled but made no comment. He laughingly repeated his intention of returning to Cincinnati and the practice of law.

The President is convinced that the task of President-elect Wilson will not be easy. He said to-night that he earnestly hoped Mr. Wilson would not call an extra session of Congress to revise the tariff. He wished, he said, to see the present prosperity continue as long as possible.

Mr. Taft declared that Mr. Wilson would face a Congress made up to a large extent of untried men who have come to believe in "histrionic publicity," and who believe that to show their faith with the people they must at times be "insurgents" and oppose the programme of the leaders.

The President was particularly interested in any tariff revision programme, and laughed when he said he was eagerly awaiting the Democratic efforts to reduce the schedules of that "iniquitous Payne-Aldrich law."

Asked if he did not consider Mr. Wilson more conservative than radical, the President told the following story about Señor Zias, head of the Radical Party in Cuba:

"Zias was campaigning once," he said, "and was accused of being a Conservative.

"'I am not a Conservative,' said Zias, 'I am a Radical. I must speak as a Radical on the platform to keep my followers, but in office I am not a Radical.'"

The President left Columbus at 5.40 for Washington. He announced to-day that he will not visit the Panama Canal during the Christmas holidays, as he had planned, and authorized Congressman Cherley of Kentucky, who is en route to Panama, to give Col. Goethals his "kind regards."

Richard L. Jervis, one of the Secret Service men who has guarded President Taft since he was elected four years ago, was to-day notified to proceed to Princeton. He will be joined by other Secret Service men later.

"Jimmie" Sloan, who has been head of the White House Secret Service force for seven years, and "Jack" Wheeler, his principal assistant, who has laid out the Taft trips, will stay with the President.

Even when it was apparent yesterday that Gov. Wilson was going to sweep the country, President Taft did not forget his philosophy and good humor.

"We've got to find some comfort in this," the President is reported to have said. "I'll be very glad to ride down Pennsylvania Avenue with Gov. Wilson. It wouldn't have been so easy if things had been different, but I would have taken the ride just the same."

The President was up early to-day. He took breakfast at the home of his brother, and shortly before 10 o'clock started for the Cincinnati Country Club to play golf.

Among friends of the President here today it was said that Chairman Hilles of the Republican National Committee would shortly return to the White House as Mr. Taft's secretary, a position he gave up to become National Chairman. Carmi A. Thompson of Ohio, the present secretary, will probably be given some other office.

"REVENGE OF ROOSEVELT."

Barnes's Newspaper Believes Republican Party Will Survive.

ALBANY, Nov. 6.—Chairman William Barnes, Jr., in the leading editorial in his newspaper, The Evening Journal, under the caption "Defeated, but Not Destroyed," says in part:

"To this extent, that the Republican Party has suffered defeat, Theodore Roosevelt has the revenge which he planned when he failed in his attempt to extort the nomination from the Republican Convention at Chicago.

"Revenge is all that he has.

"The so-called Progressive Party will die as quickly as it came to life. The personality of a leader whose motive first was the gratification of perverted ambition, and latterly only revenge upon the party to which he owes his position in public life, who is now defeated, cannot longer hold from their allegiance to the Republican Party those whose minds he temporarily possessed and so controlled that they accepted his misrepresentation of facts, his representation of things that are not. There never was, there never will be, a permanent party created through a bolt from an established party under mental bewilderment and emotional excitement caused by the harangues of an utterly selfish demagogue.

"Severe as is the defeat, the Republican Party will recover its strength just as it did after its defeat twenty years ago, more crushing than this because it was inflicted by the one party that is always opposed to Republicanism. At this time it had to meet not only its natural enemy, but also the insurrectionary movement.

"The Republican Party has nothing to regret, nothing for which to reproach itself. It stood and fought for the maintenance of the principles which it holds to be right, which have proved to be right."

LONDON WELCOMES WILSON VICTORY

Doubly So Because of Its Decisiveness, Says Bank of England Governor.

SWEEP CAUSES AMAZEMENT

American People Ripe for New Men and Measures, Says One Paper—Wilson as a "Philosopher King."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—"The City is very satisfied," said F. Huth Jackson, Governor of the Bank of England, when asked by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent this afternoon what the feeling was in financial circles regarding Gov. Wilson's election as American President.

"I don't want to discuss the result," added Mr. Jackson, "further than to say that it is doubly welcome by its decisiveness."

This eminent view was echoed generally throughout the City. Another well-known banker, after agreeing with Mr. Jackson's statement, said: "You must also add that the result is welcomed by its decisiveness against Col. Roosevelt because it removes from the horizon one of the important uncertainties that has held business in check for months past. With the Balkan trouble settled, there is absolutely nothing in the way to prevent an improvement during the coming year that has never been seen before, especially in American securities.

"Gov. Wilson is a man of very high character and sound statesmanship, a man on whom Europe can rely, from the investor's point of view."

Although several Stock Exchange houses dealing in Americans began business at 8 o'clock this morning, practically no business was done. In fact, not a thousand shares changed hands in the open market before 10 o'clock. The market opened strong, nevertheless, remaining so until the New York opening, with the Continent buying considerably.

When the strength of the Wilson victory became known, it created something like amazement among Americans here. Practically every one was prepared for a Democratic victory, but few anticipated such a wholesale sweep. Many expressions of sympathy were heard for Taft on what was generally called his "humiliating defeat," and an object of much interest was a flaming placard of an evening paper reading, "Poor old Taft," which some one stuck up in the smoking room of the Savoy. Everywhere one heard the result being discussed from all points of view, one of the most popular being that Col. Roosevelt had accomplished his heartfelt desire in beating Taft.

In the course of the day many Americans visited THE NEW YORK TIMES's Pall Mall office and manifested great interest in the bulletins displayed.

"The American people," says The Westminster Gazette, "are clearly ripe for new men and new measures. Tired of their professional politicians, they decided to give a new man a trial, and so a learned historian, professor, and ex-college Principal walks into the White House. Most heartily we wish success to this experiment of a philosopher King, made in the most unlikely quarter of the world. From our own experience of university men in politics we are encouraged to hope that he will prove as shrewd and practical as any old stagers of American politics."

The Pall Mall Gazette sees in the promotion of Gov. Wilson to the Democratic leadership and the evolution of Col. Roosevelt as head of a new party two symptoms of the same force as an intense wish of the better elements in America for the blessings of an honest government.

"It is a sign of health that the real contest for the Presidency should have laid between two men so much superior in character and outlook to the common political level," the paper says. "But it is useless for the American people to choose a Hercules and leave him to clean their stables alone. No single man or group of men can constitute a guarantee for political purity. Self-government can only be a reality when the whole mass of the community is sufficiently intelligent, unselfish, public-spirited, and tenacious to keep an unflinching watch upon affairs of the State. The American people must submit to the rule of the bosses until they are willing to spare a tribute of time and attention from the business of each to the business of all."

The Daily News, in commenting on the election, says: "It is the greatest blow which has fallen upon protection in our time. Everywhere it has been assailed by those who have suffered under it. If, therefore, as there is the best of reason to expect, Gov. Wilson and his party prove true to their faith, this election will be of moment to the world at large, as well as to the United States. War against protection is to the common interest of all peoples, and the world has long been denied that inspiration and that leading which we have a right to expect from the greatest of all republics."

In the course of a speech delivered at Taunton, the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Acland, in alluding to the result of the Presidential election, said that, however it might be interpreted or misinterpreted, every one must acknowledge that the victory of Gov. Wilson was a victory for one cause pre-eminently, and that was for the reduction of the terrible burden of the American tariff.

"I think," said Mr. Acland, "that a message of godspeed may well go out from this meeting of Liberals to the new President in the task that lies before him of getting tariffs reduced and trusts brought to their proper positions.

"It is not a time when the democracy of this country should turn its back upon a policy which the democracies of all other countries are trying to establish. Short of revolution, it is almost impossible to disestablish trusts, and the only thing to do is to keep clear of them from the beginning."

The Times says: "The success of the new President will largely depend upon his skill in inducing the more conservative wing of his followers to move fast enough, and the ultimate prospects of Col. Roosevelt upon his ability to keep the demands of the Progressive extremists within bounds. It is the will of the American people which must decide between them, and we confidently trust that in the future, as in the past, it will be determined by the strong common sense which has marked their action in all the crises of their history."

GERMANY'S EYE ON TARIFF.

Sees in Wilson's Election a Revision That Will Aid Her Trade with Us.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Gov. Wilson's victory, though generally anticipated, monopolizes public attention in Germany. Its unprecedented stupendous character makes a deep impression and causes commentators to observe that yesterday's election is destined to have an epoch-making influence on the course of American politics.

One feature of the result which creates special satisfaction in the Fatherland is the capture of both houses of Congress by the Democrats—the view being that the change insures a revision of the tariff on a basis which will redound to the immediate substantial benefit of German trade with the United States. That is the note most strongly emphasized in all the comment on the Democratic landslide.

Little sympathy is wasted on the defeat of Col. Roosevelt and the humiliation of Mr. Taft. Die Post picturesquely ascribes the President's downfall to his inability "to play on the instrument of the American popular soul."

I am permitted to state that the Kaiser's Government is viewing Gov. Wilson's election with the "utmost sympathy." His personality and attainments are thoroughly well known and unqualifiedly esteemed, says a Berlin official. The confident hope is expressed that the already excellent relations between Germany and the United States will not only be perpetuated but even strengthened under his régime.

Herr Stresemann, a prominent German politician and commercial leader, now touring the United States, declares in a message that the German vote was largely given to Gov. Wilson because of "the more tolerant attitude of the Democratic Party toward personal liberty."

The Liberal Vossische Zeitung says: "In Gov. Wilson America gets a President who, everywhere, commands the greatest confidence, perhaps, for the future development of the Republic. It is not unimportant and is of advantage that he is a man who, while taking his stand on practical issues, is also essentially an idealist, and will direct the force of his whole personality against mere money getting as the country's chief aim."

The Radical Berliner Tageblatt says: "After more than half a century the Democratic Party returns to full power with the best man at the head, and has at its disposal a programme adhering to the best Democratic traditions. It may safely be asserted that the confidence of the overwhelming majority of the American people in believing that the Wilson era will be a period of genuine progress is shared abroad."

The organ of the military, naval, and Pan-German party, the Taegliche Rundschau, says: "The Democrats may be expected to pursue a strong National, if not exactly an imperialistic, policy, and concede to other nations only what is absolutely necessary. The ruthlessness which has hitherto characterized American foreign policy, however, will probably be somewhat modified. This change we Germans will greet with the liveliest satisfaction."

The Conservative Post says: "Let us wait and see if Gov. Wilson, after all, can annihilate the hitherto omnipotent sway of the Dollar Trust magnates, whom Col. Roosevelt's ferocious jaw was unable to crush. They will, we fear, eventually prove to be a tougher mouthful than Gov. Wilson can masticate."

WILSON ENDS TALKS; TAKES TIME TO THINK

No More Statements from Him, He Says, One Issued Earlier Being His Last.

GOING AWAY TO BE ALONE

His Ambition Is to Bring All Free Forces of the Nation Into Co-operation—Takes a Five-Mile Walk.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—"I'm not going to give out any more statements. The time has come now to do a lot of thinking."

That was President-elect Wilson's reply to-night when he was asked for his point of view after a day to think things over. He had issued a brief statement earlier in the day. The Governor took a five-mile walk that kept him away from home for two hours in the afternoon. He received few visitors. To the newspaper correspondents the Governor talked freely about the election, but made joking remarks whenever he was asked about his future plans. As far as his Cabinet was concerned, the Governor said that there would not be anything from him for some time to come. He was told that several of the newspapers had already picked a Cabinet for him.

"Well, then, you will have to forbid me reading the newspapers," he said, "for they might prejudice me."

The Governor is planning now to get away on a vacation just as soon as he can, but he will remain in Princeton until the end of the week at least. Where he was going on the vacation he said he did not know himself and would not be ready to announce it until the day before he left here. It has been said that he would go to Bermuda for about three weeks.

"It will be a short vacation," he said and added that he would not resign as Governor of New Jersey before he left at any rate.

It seems certain, however, that he will continue as Governor at least until January when the State Senate will pass into the control of the Democrats. The President of the next Senate will serve out the unexpired term. If Gov. Wilson resigned now, Prof. John D. Prince, a Republican, would move into his offices at the State House, as the Republicans now have a majority in the Senate.

Gov. Wilson did not want to talk politics to-day except as politics might be associated with the result of the election yesterday and he told all his visitors so frankly.

The President-elect was up at 9 o'clock this morning, but even before that hour many neighbors had called to offer their congratulations.

"My election didn't give me insomnia," he explained. "I had to pull myself out of bed by the hair of my head," he remarked. Then he noticed that one of his visitors was glancing smilingly at the plaster which covered the shaved spot on his head, and he added:

"That was a cruel smile."

"I can hardly realize that it is true," he observed gravely.

"It has not quite dawned on me. I had been in an impersonal atmosphere for the last three months, reading about myself, reading that I was to be elected, and now I can hardly believe that it is true."

The Governor's Final Comment.

The first thing that the Governor wanted to know when he got up was not about his own success, but whether the victory had been pronounced enough to assure the control of the United States Senate by the Democratic Party. He was told that there seemed to be no question about that and he plainly showed his happiness. Later in the day National Chairman McCombs appeared to offer his congratulations and add his assurances.

It was after this conference with Mr. McCombs that Gov. Wilson dictated a short statement, the last of a formal nature that he expects to make for some time. It read:

> The result fills me with the hope that the thoughtful Progressive forces of the Nation may now at last unite to give the country freedom of enterprise and a Government released from all selfish and private influences, devoted to justice and progress.
>
> There is absolutely nothing for the honest and enlightened business men of the country to fear.
>
> No man whose business is conducted without violation of the rights of free competition and without such private understandings and secret alliances as violate the principle of our law and the policy of all wholesome commerce and enterprise need fear either interference or embarrassment from the Administration.
>
> Our hope and purpose is now to bring all the free forces of the Nation into active and intelligent co-operation and to give to our prosperity a freshness and spirit and a confidence such as it has not had in our time.
>
> The responsibilities of the task are tremendous, but they are common responsibilities which all leaders of action and opinion must share, and with the confidence of the people behind us everything that is right is possible.
> My own ambition will be more than satisfied if I may be permitted to be the frank spokesman of the Nation's thoughtful purpose in these great matters.

The Governor said that he felt in the best of health and spirits, but did want to get away by himself for a time. Chairman McCombs, he added, placing his hand on the shoulder of his friend, looked in pretty good shape, too. Some one suggested that the sweeping victory had been about the best tonic that McCombs could have had, and the Governor agreed that such was the case.

McCombs Has Money Left.

Mr. McCombs was asked what the campaign had cost.

"Oh, about a million," he said. "We expect to finish with money in the treasury."

When the camera men clustered about the front of his home the Governor was ready to pose for them, saying that he supposed he could not escape it. He led out Chairman McCombs for another picture.

At just 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon the Governor, accompanied by Capt. "Bill" McDonald, his bodyguard, started out for the five-mile tramp. Every minute or two some one hurried forward to congratulate him, and the Governor stood the assault well. One professor, whom he had known when he was President of Princeton University, spoke of his injury Sunday night, and the Governor removed his hat so that his friend might see where the hair had been shaved off and the pink plaster substituted.

Watches Football Practice.

The Governor and Capt. "Bill" stopped at the Princeton football field and sat down in a corner of the grandstand to watch the practice. Two or three of the graduate coaches were the first to see him, and ran over to shake hands. The football players kept at their scrimmage and kicking just as if the next President of the United States wasn't looking on.

After leaving the football field the Governor continued on toward Carnegie Lake. A great log obstructed the sidewalk a little further on, and the Governor and Capt. McDonald stopped to move it. It was about all they could do by pushing and shoving and kicking to get the log out of the way, but they worked until they had moved it to one side. Then the Governor knocked the dirt off his hands, smiled at Capt. "Bill" as if he had greatly enjoyed it all, and quickening his step set the pace to Carnegie Lake.

Halfway up a hill the Governor stopped abruptly and pointed with his cane to a grass snake about a foot long that was wriggling its way toward him. Capt. "Bill" grabbed the Governor's cane out of his hand and aimed a sturdy blow at the snake, hit a rock, and the cane snapped in two. The Governor couldn't help smiling as he saw the embarrassment of the ex-Texas Ranger.

The Governor did his best to console Capt. McDonald, saying he didn't like the cane, anyway, and had just been presented with a new hickory stick. He picked up the broken piece and fitted it on the steel bar which extended through the cane.

"See, it can be fixed all right," he said. The Captain wouldn't hear of that, and he solemnly insisted that he would send the Governor a new cane.

Talks of Paris Beauties When Asked About Wilson's Victory.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Thursday, Nov. 7.—In an interview on the Presidential election, which The Excelsior publishes this morning, Ambassador Herrick speaks diplomatically of the beauties of Paris and the friendship uniting the two republics in reply to a question as to what he thought of the Democratic victory. Mr. Herrick said:

"We must not exaggerate. Democrats are men like others, with the same qualities and the same thoughts.

"The change in the Presidency will have no effect on the foreign policy or the economic relations of America with France, which make of her almost a sister nation. The immense resources which France offers are encouraging American business men, in a still greater degree, to extend their commerce with her."

WILSON OF GREAT WORTH.

Temps Thus Calls Victor—See Less Latin-American Intervention.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The Paris newspapers comment in a friendly way on the election of Woodrow Wilson and predict a useful administration. Some of the papers, in an attempt to forecast the foreign policy of the United States, venture to believe that President Wilson will be less likely to intervene in the affairs of Central and South America than his two predecessors. This, it is remarked, will accord with the European ideas.

The Temps says: "We are sure that we are voicing the unanimous sentiments of France in extending our sincerest good wishes to the American people. Mr. Wilson, by a brilliant university career, the solid merits of his writings, and the probity of his politics as Governor of New Jersey, has won general esteem. A man of great worth has been elected to preside over the destinies of a great nation."

SUFFRAGISTS GAIN FOUR MORE STATES

Michigan, Kansas, Arizona, and Oregon Adopt Constitutional Amendments.

DEFEATED IN WISCONSIN

Recall of Judges Wins in Arizona—Commission Form of City Government for Virginia.

Woman suffrage is likely to become part of the organic law of four more States as one result of the election if present indications hold good when all the returns are in. Michigan, Kansas, Oregon, and Arizona have voted in favor of such an amendment, though in Oregon the vote is in doubt. Wisconsin defeated it decisively.

Suffragists exerted themselves to have the question submitted to the voters in as many States as possible. Substantial majorities for the amendment were returned in Arizona and Kansas. In Michigan indications are that the measure will be adopted by a substantial majority.

Michigan Women Win by 10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Only 400 Election Districts, or a little more than one-fifth of those in the State, have sent returns on the woman's suffrage amendment. The totals are: No, 52,153; yes, 51,916; majority against it, 247. These districts include 93 in Detroit, half the city, which give a majority of 4,000 against the amendment. The trend of returns from up-State indicates that the amendment has been carried by 10,000 majority. In the country districts the women had scarcely a reverse, and in the half of Detroit yet to be heard from the majority against it will not be as large as in the districts which reported early. The women are alleging fraud in the city districts, and they have some evidence to back up their statements. The other proposed Constitutional amendment allowing the revision of charters by piecemeal has probably received a fair-sized plurality.

Oregon Accepts Woman Suffrage.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 6.—Suffrage is running behind in the City of Portland, but very incomplete returns from the outside counties indicate that the women are in favor there, and that the amendment will receive good majorities. Complete returns from 28 scattering precincts in Multnomah County and Portland give a majority of 87 for the measure, the vote being 1,396 for and 1,309 against. Very meagre returns from 10 counties, including Benton, Clackamas, Columbia, Coos, Hood River, Jackson, Morrow, Umatilla, Union, and Washington, give 5,781 votes for the women and 4,905 against, a lead in their favor of 876 votes. If the final returns from all the outside counties keep up this ratio any majority against suffrage piled up in the city will probably be wiped out, and the amendment will pass.

An amendment to abolish hanging in this State seemingly has been defeated.

The single tax amendment was defeated.

Kansas Women Win; Men Apathetic.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—The Constitutional amendment giving women full suffrage was carried in Kansas by a majority of 50,000, according to scattering returns thus far received.

A comparison of ballots from a dozen precincts indicated that no more than two-thirds of the men took the trouble to mark the suffrage ballot.

Wisconsin Defeats Suffrage.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—Figures available to-night on the woman's suffrage referendum election indicate that last night's estimate of a sweeping defeat of the proposed Constitutional amendment was under rather than over the facts.

The amendment, it appears, was defeated by about 75,000 majority, the Teutonic and Scandinavian sections of the State standing most strongly against the intrusion of women into politics.

Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict, the former New York lawyer and State industrial investigator, who after her marriage to a Milwaukee broker took charge of the local suffrage campaign, declared to-night that the suffrage movement was not dead, and that its supporters would only move now for better organization for future success. She calls the West more conservative than the East in recognition of women's rights.

Arizona for Recall and Suffrage.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 6.—The Constitutional amendments providing for the recall of Judges and permitting the State to engage in industrial pursuits were carried by overwhelming majorities. Returns from all the large towns of the State showed substantial increases in favor of the Constitutional amendment granting equal suffrage. Practically every important precinct in the State voted to invest women with the franchise.

Virginia for Commission Government.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6.—Amendments to the State Constitution were overwhelmingly carried, the estimated vote being 75,000 for, 28,000 against. One of the amendments changes the Constitution so that the General Assembly may pass laws providing for the cities of the Commonwealth forms of government other than those now in vogue, and permits cities to change charters so as to adopt the commission form of government.

The cities of Roanoke, Lynchburg, and Norfolk will probably seek the commission form of government, while Richmond on the first of the year will have all of its business attended to by an administrative board, the members of which were elected yesterday, having been nominated in September.

City treasurers and city commissioners of the revenue, under the amendments carried yesterday, are permitted to succeed themselves in office indefinitely, instead of being limited to two-year terms.

Recall Loses in Idaho.

Special to The New York Times.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 6.—The vote on the initiative, referendum, and recall is so confused that no result can be announced until the official count is made. The consensus of opinion is that the amendment was defeated.

No Recall for Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—Returns from precincts which poll a third of the State's total vote indicate that the proposed Constitutional amendment providing for the recall of all State, parish, and municipal officials except members of the judiciary has been defeated.

The proposed amendment giving women the right to serve on educational boards and on boards of charity and correction was apparently defeated.

Mayor Martin Behrman, re-elected, will head the city's new commission Government.

Prohibition Loses in Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 6.—State-wide prohibition, voted upon as an initiated amendment to the Constitution, was defeated by a majority estimated at from 20,000 to 40,000. A referred measure to build a railway tunnel through the Rocky Mountains appears to have been carried.

UNEXPECTED EXPENSE

A prominent Charitable Institution reports:

"We were much disappointed to find it necessary to foreclose one of our mortgages. The result is that we not only lose the interest at the present time, but in meeting the expense of foreclosure, unpaid taxes, etc., have to pay out about $1,000 from current income."

If this Mortgage had been GUARANTEED by us there would have been no unexpected expense or risk.

ART SALES TO CLARK GAVE LARGE PROFITS

Expert Wins Suit Against Sir George Donaldson for His Commission on Picture Deals.

HIS MANNER "HIGHFALUTIN"

So Sir George Paid Him Only $10,000 Instead of $37,000 — Jury Awards Plaintiff the Balance with Interest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A lawsuit of much interest owing to the prominence of the principals in the art world was concluded to-day, when a jury before the Lord Chief Justice awarded to Alfred G. Temple, art adviser of the Corporation of London, the sum of $30,770 against Sir George Donaldson, the famous collector.

This was the balance of the commission due on extensive purchases of pictures by ex-Senator W. A. Clark, whom Mr. Temple introduced to Donaldson.

Sir George denied the agreement, asserting that the $10,000 he had paid to Mr. Temple ended his liability for a commission.

Interesting features in the case were the similarity in appearance of the plaintiff and defendant, who look like twin brothers, and the fact that the Lord Chief Justice has been the friend of both for years.

According to the testimony, Sir George Donaldson in 1904 was anxious to sell his collection of pictures and approached his old friend, Temple, who suggested ex-Senator Clark as a possible purchaser. Donaldson agreed, and Temple, eliciting the aid of the late Edwin Abbey, who was a great friend of Mr. Clark's, approached the ex-Senator with the ultimate result that the latter bought pictures of the value of $740,000 from Donaldson.

Temple contended that Donaldson promised him a commission of 5 per cent. on all business done with Mr. Clark, and alleged that Donaldson accounted to him for sales amounting to only $170,000, from which he received a commission of $10,000, $1,500 in excess of what was due, owing to Donaldson being pleased with the business done. Later Temple discovered that Donaldson had concealed certain transactions. Hence the suit to recover the balance of the commission, plus interest.

Giving evidence to-day, Sir George said that Temple tried for two years to get Mr. Clark interested in the pictures, but failed. Finally he (Donaldson) took the matter up with better results, but not before he had served notice on Temple that he was no longer prepared to pay him the commission at 5 per cent., but, said Donaldson, "I am ready to give you something for the introduction to Mr. Clark." Thereupon the matter was discussed between them, according to Sir George, and $10,000 was agreed on as a fair compromise.

The Lord Chief Justice during the hearing remarked:

"This is a painful case for me to try. I have two gentlemen before me, neither of whom I should suspect of telling what was not true."

Sir George was cross-examined by Sir Edward Carson, counsel for Temple.

"Had you ever had a letter from Mr. Clark previous to the plaintiff's introduction?" counsel asked.

"No," replied the defendant.

"Do you still say he did not introduce you?"

"He did introduce me, and yet it was at my instigation that the introduction came."

The witness explained that he had suggested to the plaintiff that the latter should write to four American millionaires, who were making collections of pictures. Mr. Clark was the only one who replied, and the plaintiff took precious good care to be at Mr. Clark's doorstep when the ex-Senator arrived. The witness declared he had good reason for reducing the commission.

"When you offered Mr. Temple only $10,000," asked Sir Edward Carson, "was it so that you might get another bit for yourself?"

"No, not at all. It was because I had discovered his incapacity and unworthiness."

"You may say all the hard things you can now," retorted Sir Edward, "but the fact remains that having discovered his incapacity and unworthiness, you still went on taking introductions from him for buying purposes."

"But not for selling," explained Sir George.

"Then his unworthiness did not affect him as a buyer?"

"No, I held and hold to-day the impression that his 'highfalutin' manner and habit of flattering people to the top of their bent has a disturbing effect and is not calculated to inspire a buyer to buy."

"But it is calculated to inspire a seller to sell?"

"Yes. Mr. Temple is a past master in that."

"At all events, after you found out his incapacity and unworthiness, I suppose also his untruthfulness and lack of principle, you went on buying from people whom he had introduced to you down to May, 1908?"

"Yes."

"You never, up to the time he made demand in this case, wrote to him to say he was untruthful?"

"I told him he was often enough," said the defendant.

Sir George also testified that he had made a large profit from Mr. Clark. He said he had bought a picture by Turner for $30,000 and had sold it to him for $75,000, and he had acquired a seascape by Jan Van Goyen for $2,000 and had sold it for $25,000.

In summing up the Lord Chief Justice said that the only question was whether the payment of $10,000 constituted a final settlement or not.

The jury returned a verdict in the plaintiff's favor for $27,000, the amount of commission claimed plus interest, which the court reckoned to be $3,750.

PURCHASE A CUBAN RAILWAY.

R. R. Conklin and J. M. Tarafa Buy Puerto Principe & Nuevitas Line.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Nov. 6.—The Puerto Principe & Nuevitas Railway was purchased to-day by Roland R. Conklin of New York and J. M. Tarafa of Havana. The line was built in 1835, is the oldest in Cuba, and one of the oldest in the Western Hemisphere. It was the first railroad ever built in the Spanish dominions, existing fifteen years before Canada had a mile of track.

This road, together with the Jucaro & Moronry, also controlled by the Conklin and Tarafa interests, will form a part of the National Railways system, including the North Coast Railway concession, which was recently granted by the Cuban Government, and which an American company will control, but it is stated that the bonds have been placed with British and French bankers.

LONDON SEES "INSTINCT."

Frohman's Production Makes a Strong Appeal to the Emotions.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Penrhyn Stanlaws's play "Instinct," adapted from the French of Henry Kistemaeckers, was produced by Charles Frohman at the Duke of York Theatre to-night. It is likely to achieve a success through its big appeal to the emotions and the admirable acting of Aubrey Smith and Lilian Braithwaite in the principle rôles, both of whom played with fine force and power.

The play itself is regarded as a well-constructed melodrama, and the audience was entirely favorable.

Great Diamond Is of Poor Quality.

JOHANNESBURG, Nov. 6.—The great diamond, the largest in the world, which has just been discovered in the Premier mine, may not prove to be so valuable as at first thought. It is now officially stated that the diamond, which weighs 1,649 carats, is of inferior quality.

WE STILL HOLD MENA.

Not Under Taft's Orders—Zone Court Defers Deciding on Release.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, Nov. 7.—The Zone Supreme Court this afternoon took the applications for the issue of habeas corpus writs for the release of the Nicaraguan rebel leader, Gen. Mena, and his son, Daniel, under advisement until Monday.

No charge against them was produced, but they are being held on the orders of President Taft.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Gen. Mena, the Nicaraguan who is under surveillance in the United States Hospital at Ancon, in the Panama Canal Zone, is chafing under the sense of restraint and desires to regain his liberty. Three weeks ago he made application for a writ of habeas corpus before the Canal Zone Court, and to-day, when the case came up for hearin, postponement was taken until Monday.

The case is a peculiar one, Mena having surrendered to Rear Admiral Southerland in Nicaragua while waging war against the Nicaraguan Government. Mena himself arranged the terms on which he gave himself up, and they were that he and his men should have the protection of the United States authorities, and that he should be taken to Panama for safety. The proposal was agreed to by Admiral Southerland, and Mena and his son were taken to Panama, the father to be put in hospital, while his son was to be set at liberty. Both, however, are still under surveillance.

DECIES LOSES SUIT; MUST PAY BUILDERS

Liable for Work at Country Seat Lady Decies and Mother Planned, Says Judge.

IS CHAGRINED AT RESULT

And Finds Court Seats Very Hard—Faces Heavy Bill and Costs of Trial.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Lord Decies lost the action against him in the high courts to-day.

The Judge ruled that he was responsible on the question of liability for building operations at Sefton Park, his Stoke Pogis seat. Lord Decies must pay, said the Judge; but the exact amount will have to be settled by arbitration. He ordered Lord Decies to pay the costs of the trial.

Lord Decies was chagrined at the Judge's decision. Yesterday he would not go into the witness box, and did not appear in court to-day. He complained of the character of the accommodation in court. "I haven't sat on such hard seats for years," he said, referring to the accommodation reserved for him at the solicitors' table.

It was indicated at to-day's hearing that while Lord Decies was in America Lady Decies and her mother decided upon a larger and more magnificent scheme of rebuilding and ornamentation at Sefton Park than Lord Decies had previously given instructions for. On returning from America Lord Decies therefore gave considerably extended instructions to the contractors for decorative work, chiefly in Lady Decies's boudoir.

In giving judgment Justice Bailhache said that this extra work was not contemplated in the original plans. The result is that Lord Decies is faced with a very heavy bill. Instead of coming to about £10,000, ($50,000,) as originally arranged, the bill will be nearly double that amount. Lord Decies is naturally very astonished at the total.

"I sympathize with Lord Decies in this respect," said the Judge, "but he is responsible notwithstanding."

DATE STEAMERS IN RACE.

Winner's Cargo Will Sell for an Extra Cent a Pound.

Two steamships are racing to this port laden with dates from Bussorah, in the Persian Gulf, and the Captain of the winner, which, it is expected, will be sighted to-day, will receive $1,000 from the consignees, while the crew will have a bonus of $1,500 to divide between them. The ships are the Turkistan, owned by James W. Elwell & Co., which sailed from Bussorah on Sept. 29 with 100,000 boxes of dates for Hills Brothers, and the Stanhope, which left on Oct. 2 with 90,000 boxes for William Hills, Jr.

The cargo which arrives first will fetch 4¾ cents per pound, which would make the Turkistan's dates worth $381,000 for 100,000 boxes, as there are eighty pounds of fruit in each box.

The loser of the race will receive 3¾ cents per pound, according to Elwell & Co., as the market will be well stocked.

Although the Stanhope left last, she passed out of the Suez Canal at Port Said on Oct. 16, two days ahead of the Turkistan, and had increased the lead to three days passing Gibraltar. This is the first race between date steamers from Persia in two years.

Alexander Robertson Resigns.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 6.—The resignation of Alexander Robertson as President of the Western Maryland Railroad was accepted at a meeting of the Board of Directors in New York to-day. Mr. Robertson has been in ill-health for some time.

CAMPAIGNS OF DYNAMITE.

Government Alleges a Systematic Plot to Destroy Contractors' Property

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—Specific accusations were made by the Government in the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today that in the Spring of 1910 Frank M. Ryan, President of the Ironworkers' Union, and members of the Ironworkers' Executive Board entered on a campaign to blow up systematically the property of certain iron and steel contractors, and that in furtherance of the plan President Ryan wrote a letter from New York assigning men to take charge of the explosions in different localities.

Twenty-five explosions in that year, including those at Los Angeles, were alleged by the Government to have been caused with the knowledge of most of the executive officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers.

District Attorney Charles W. Miller read a letter dated April 19, 1910, in which Ryan was purported to have directed J. J. McNamara to instruct union officials at Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Rochester, N. Y., Worcester, Mass., Jersey City, N. J., Detroit, Cincinnati, Peoria, Ill., Davenport, Iowa, and Mount Vernon, Ill., "to take care of jobs" in those districts.

Another letter was quoted as showing that McNamara wrote to members informing them of the "policy recently laid down by the board," and urging secrecy. Explosions later occurred in or near all those cities.

The Ryan letter was quoted as saying in part: "In regard to the McClintic-Marshall jobs, let Henry W. Legleitner attend to the jobs in the Pittsburgh district. Let J. T. Butler attend to the jobs at Buffalo and Rochester. Hockin will arrange for the Chicago, Detroit, and Cincinnati jobs. P. J. Morrin can attend to Mount Vernon."

Two explosions in a hotel under construction in Salt Lake City, Utah, the same year were preceded by an extensive correspondence between McNamara and J. E. Munsey, the business agent at Salt Lake City, and Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco, an Executive Board member, the Government charged.

The Government produced letters from Munsey to J. J. McNamara concerning the watchman employed on the Salt Lake City building. One letter said: "We tried to get him, but he won't venture out at night, and he always packs a big gun."

LOOK INTO NAVAL GRAFT.

Only Minor Peculation Suspected—All Stewards to be Investigated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The investigation of stewards on battleships is being prosecuted in all the fleets and commands. To-day Assistant Secretary Beekman Winthrop granted immunity to two enlisted men under charges of padding prices, who showed signs of being willing to make a clean breast of their wrongdoing.

The graft so far disclosed seems to be of a petty order, but in the aggregate would amount to a considerable sum. The navy regulations are strict in the prohibition of bill padding, but recently several cases of violations have been discovered.

COAL MARKET EASES OFF.

Direction of Prices Depends Now on Weather Conditions.

Reviewing the week in the local market The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day:

"Toward the end of last week the anthracite market began to feel the effects of the above-normal temperatures that prevailed throughout the month of October. Prices of individual coals eased off from 25 to 50 cents, both for tidewater and all-rail shipment. It is not yet clear whether the cold wave which marked the turn of the week will at once restore the market's strength, but there can be no doubt that if it continues for a few days longer it will have that result.

"The tidewater bituminous market eased off slightly last week from a cause that was not clearly apparent, since car supply and the labor situation had not changed. There is a disposition to attribute the slight softening of prices to the mild weather, and that explanation will have to be accepted in the absence of a better one. While consumption has not been curtailed, it is a fact that weather conditions have a certain sentimental effect on buyers."

TWO WOMEN CLAIM HIM.

J. K. Simmonds Held for Bigamy—Both Wives in Court.

When John Knapp Simmonds, 40 years old, an electrical Inspector, was brought before Magistrate Fitch in the Flushing Police Court yesterday he faced two women who contended that they had been married to him. Wife No. 1 told the court that she was married to Simmonds twelve years ago and had two children with her, a girl 7 years old, and a boy 10 years. The other, who had just passed her eighteenth birthday, was the one who caused Simmonds's arrest on a charge of bigamy. She was formerly Miss Bertha Zesch, and told the court that she lived with Simmonds for one month at 434 Dill Place, Glendale.

Simmonds waived examination and was held under $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury. Neither of the women recognized each other in court. Wife No. 1 appeared to be fond of her husband, and after he was led to the prisoners' pen she wept.

RUBBER AUCTION AT LONDON.

350 Tons Plantation Grades Sold Tuesday—Local Demand Light.

According to cable advices received in the local crude rubber market yesterday, 350 of the 750 tons of plantation rubber offered at the regular fortnightly auction in London were disposed of on Tuesday. First latex crepe commanded $1@1.01 at the sale, and the demand for the offerings was reported more active than usual.

Locally, the market did not show a great deal of activity yesterday. Upriver fine was quoted at $1.02 for spot and nearby delivery, and at $1 for delivery in January, February and March, 1913. The biggest part of the business now being done in this market is on the plantation grades, as they are regarded as the best value obtainable at present prices.

You can get more for your money in a Hackett-Carhart overcoat today —more by 100%—than in any other overcoat on sale in New York today.

And this is so simply because of the recent Hackett-Carhart Receivership.

As you may know, the creditors accepted 50 cents on the dollar. And this represents precisely your present saving at the Hackett-Carhart stores.

But, even without this splendid saving—even though you were to pay the full price for a Hackett-Carhart overcoat—you would still be getting more for your money than elsewhere.

You would be getting your choice of more complete assortments—of finer fabrics and tailoring, and of more advanced styles—than exist in any other New York store.

And this statement is borne out by the following fact alone:

There are at the Hackett-Carhart stores today some 15,000 overcoats—fresh from the tailors' hands—in over 60 models and more than 750 fabric designs.

The colorings embrace the richest, most fashionable shades and mixtures of the season. The sizes are for Men, Young Men and Boys—also many suitable for women.

And, no matter what price you pay—no matter how much in an overcoat you demand—you cannot help but average

BRITON DIDN'T ENJOY ELECTION JUBILATION

J. T. A. Walker Expected Wild Street Orgies, but Found an Ice-Water Crowd.

HORRIBLY SOBER AND PROPER

He Looked in Vain for Women in Evening Gowns Dancing in Broadway.

There was a tired look about the hotel lobbies yesterday morning, and the people you saw in them before noon were few. All the managers were saying what a great occasion election night supper had been for them, and you heard in many places that record business had been done. If you had spent much of the afternoon and evening before in some of them it was rather difficult to remember that "a steady stream of people began to pour into this place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and kept it up until away after midnight," as you were reminded; but then, many things were figurative Tuesday night.

Anyhow, glances into some of the most prominent restaurants after midnight yesterday morning revealed scenes of considerable gaiety, and many of them were crowded to capacity. Those that had given up the set supper at a set price and allowed patrons to drink cheaper things than champagne, all reported the biggest business they had ever done.

Nobody seemed to have heard much about election bets, although a rumor was persistent that some of the Bull Moose clerks had parted with portions of their wardrobe in backing their convictions. Of this there was no visible sign. One clerk at the Waldorf was reported to have made $25 on a bet that Roosevelt would carry more States than Taft, but he declined to confirm the story. A man at the Waldorf was said to have won $300 on a bet of 3 to 1 that Straus would not carry three counties. Another at the Breslin was much worried about a dollar bill. When the returns apparently put Pennsylvania into the Roosevelt column he had paid a bet that the Colonel would not carry that State. The dispatches of yesterday morning made the State look doubtful, and he was looking for the man to whom he had paid his money.

Some of the foreigners who witnessed the election night celebration had things to say about it, but no more caustic criticism was heard than that advanced by J. T. Ainslee Walker of London, who has been in the United States for several months. Mr. Walker is a bacteriologist by profession. With his friend, Capt. Franklin, he explored Broadway and the adjacent thoroughfares while the crowd was out with the noise. Purely as a bacteriologist Mr. Walker said yesterday at the Wolcott he had taken occasion to sample the kinds of beverages offered for sale at some of the places of refreshment on the route traveled, and as a bacteriologist he was constrained to say that the Scotch whisky dispensed to him and the Captain contained things not prescribed by the formula of any Scotch he had ever tasted at home.

But it was the behavior of the election crowds that Mr. Walker dilated upon. He expected, to judge by his comments, to see another Mafeking night, with drunkenness, general disorder, fighting, and women doing strange things in the abandon of the moment. Likewise he expected to hear quantities of repartee and badinage exchanged of the quality that London cab drivers used to hurl at one another in the days before the taxi sent the hansom cab to the South Kensington Museum. Instead, he found a noisy, but strangely sober populace. He evidently expected to find a lot of gentlemen in top hats and swallow tail coats dancing along the streets with ladies in low-necked frocks. He found men at the clubs receiving the election returns with calmness and ice water, and it all disappointed him.

"Candidly, I was disappointed," said Mr. Walker. "We went up Broadway, down Fifth Avenue, and through some of the side streets, and all we saw and heard were numbers of irresponsible youths blowing horns. There was nothing but hornblowing. There was no repartee, no cabbies saying funny things. I was terribly disappointed.

"Yet, withal, everything was sober. It was an ice water crowd, hence the lack of conviviality, perhaps. I can't say I saw anything picturesque. The crowd seemed made up of commonplace folk. It lacked that feature of the London crowd known to all travelers. You see all classes and conditions on such an occasion in London, from the swell to the laborer. Here all seemed to be respectable common people. There was nothing of distinction about them. There were no gentlemen in the crowd. All were horribly sober, and horribly proper. Monotony was the whole note.

"It was not like 'mafficking' in London, with girls on the tops of cabs. There was nothing risky last night. The boldest think I saw was a boy blowing a horn in a girl's ear. There was no excitement.

"I went into one or two clubs, the University and the Chemists'. It was late, but everybody was drinking ice water. Once an election return was corrected from a plurality of 65,000 to 165,000, but it awkened no response. The man who had sent it was taking a chance as to its accuracy. It is like you do so frequently here. You ask a man where Fifth Avenue is, and rather than confess he does not know, he will take a chance, and tell you to turn three blocks to the left, and then to the right. Everything is superficial. Nothing issincere, nothing is correct."

Then Mr. Walker confessed what his hearer had been gradually gathering. It was that he didn't like the something-like-demmed country, anyhow.

FEAR FOR SCHOOL BUILDING.

Large Cracks Appear in Lexington Avenue Structure.

Much anxiety was caused yesterday by the discovery of large cracks in the brick wall of Public School 76, on the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street. Patrolman VanGelder of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, noticed one crack extending as far up the wall of the school building on the Sixty-eighth Street side as the second floor, and three other cracks stretching from the first floor to the basement. The bricks along the course of these cracks were split. He notified his precinct and the Building Department was notified.

Inspector Reville of the Building Department and Engineer Werbin of the Public Service Commission made an examination of the building, noting the cracks, and said that there was no immediate cause for anxiety. They declared the building was safe.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning there was a cave-in at the excavation of the Lexington Avenue subway, which at this point is thirty feet deep, and the sewer pipe was cracked and flooded the excavation.

MOOSERS ON A SHARK HUNT.

Pinchots and Medill McCormick Go to Florida to Fish and Rest.

Three of the most prominent leaders of the Progressive Party are going away at the end of the week for ten days' rest, recreation and recuperation on the Florida Coast. They are Gifford and Amos Pinchot and Medill McCormick. They will be accompanied by Lady Johnstone, the wife of the British Minister to Denmark, who is the sister of the Messrs. Pinchot.

The members of the party expect to spend much of their time trying to catch tarpon and sharks.

FOURTH NAME FOR HOSPITAL.

Polyclinic Wants Another Title—Salvation Army Running Homes Illegally

Fear that some friend in writing out his will might leave it a large sum of money in a name other than its legal one induced the Directors of one of the city's larger hospitals to apply yesterday for a new certificate of incorporation, adding a fourth to the string of names by which it is already designated.

The institution affected is the New York Polyclinic Hospital, known popularly as the Polyclinic Hospital and on its previous charters variously as the Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, the New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, and the New York Polyclinic Hospital. It is proposed to add to these legal designations that of the popular name the Polyclinic Hospital.

The hospital's wish to obtain a new legal name was expressed to a special committee of the New York State Board of Charities at a meeting in the United Charities Building yesterday afternoon. The special committee met to take up applications from various charitable institutions for articles of incorporation, and the request of the Polyclinic Hospital was first on a list of four considered.

The Salvation Army, in making an application to operate an incorporated maternity home in East Fifteenth Street, and a children's home, to be known as the Door of Hope, at Spring Valley, N. Y., learned from the Charities Board that it had been operating both institutions illegally for two years.

When Adjutant Edward B. Underwood told of the desire to incorporate the institution in East Fifteenth Street and sketched its work in connection with the Door of Hope home, he was confronted with the Salvation Army's charter. A clause which was read to him by a member of the Charities Board provided that the Army could not operate rest rooms or homes for recuperative purposes without the written permission of the State Board of Charities. Adjutant Underwood, somewhat confused by the sudden charge of operating the homes illegally, promised to make the written applications at once. It was explained that it was now the desire to concentrate the work for adults in East Fifteenth Street and devote the entire resources of the Spring Valley home to little girls. A bequest of $250,000, to be devoted exclusively to work for children, had enabled the Salvation Army to expand its Spring Valley institution, it was explained.

When a committee of clergymen representing the Harlem Reformed Church asked permission to open a free dispensary as part of the church extension work there was instant opposition from the Harlem Eye and Throat Infirmary. Dr. E. W. Somers, appearing for the infirmary, insisted that it was quite capable of taking care of the dispensary cases of Harlem.

In each case Charities Commissioner William R. Stewart, in charge of the public hearing, announced that decisions would be rendered next month.

SUE BUILDER FOR OVERDRAFT

Bankers Want James S. Herrman to Return $75,000.

The suit of Col. F. L. Leland, President of the New York County National Bank, against James S. Herrman, a builder, of 238 West Seventy-first Street, was brought to trial yesterday in the Supreme Court. The Trustees of the National bank declare that Herrman, who was commissioned to build the new building for the bank at Eighth Avenue and Fourteenth Street, charged $75,000 more than was due.

L. Laflin Kellogg, who represents the plaintiff in the action, explained to the jury that Col. Leland and Mr. Herrman's father, Philip Herrman, had been old friends, and that it was in consideration of this fact that the commission of building the new home for the bank had been given to him. In view, further, of the family acquaintance, said Mr. Kellogg, Mr Hermann had permission to draw without limit for the erection of the building, for which he was to receive 5 per cent. commission as a fee.

It was related that Mr. Herrman drew $350,000 from the bank at different times, and that his drafts did not attract attention until some time later, when, in working on some other matter for Mr. Leland, it became advisable to examine the items of expense in the erection of the bank building. It was learned then, according to the complaint, that the costs, commissions, and fees should not have been much in excess of $250,000.

MRS. BOWNE GIVES FOUNTAIN.

Granite Structure Commemorates New York Philanthropist.

A fountain presented to the city by Mrs. Samuel W. Bowne in memory of her husband, who founded many charities in this city and elsewhere, was unveiled at noon yesterday in Roosevelt Square.

Among Mr. Bowne's benefactions were the Hadley Rescue Hall in the Bowery; a chemical laboratory built and equipped for the University of Syracuse, and a gymnasium for Drew Theological Seminary. The fountain unveiled yesterday is built of granite. Inscribed upon it in bronze letters are the words:

Ho, every one that thirsteth
Come ye to the waters.
I was thirsty and ye gave me drink.

The fountain was dedicated under the auspices of the Society of the New York Free Cold Water Fountains, of which A. A. Robbins is President. George J. Medole, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented the speakers and made the presentation speech, and Dr. William R. Patterson, Assistant Commissioner of Public Works, representing Borough President McAneny's office, accepted the gift on behalf of the city.

WEDDING COST HIS VOTE.

Dr. Thompson Gave Up His Franchise to Marry a Trained Nurse.

At least one Maine vote was lost to one of the Presidential candidates, and this loss was due to a wedding. About the time Dr. William H. Thompson, a dentist of Portland, might have been exercising his right as a citizen, he was taking advantage of his opportunity as a man by getting married over in Wharton, N. J. The bride was Miss Mary C. Halloran, who has lately been doing post graduate work in one of the New York hospitals. Dr. and Mrs. Thompson are spending the early part of their honeymoon at the Breslin. They will leave for a brief wedding trip through the South.

Miss Halloran was a professional nurse in Portland when Dr. Thompson met her. When she announced her determination of doing advanced work in her profession Dr. Thompson endeavored to persuade her to change her name and remain in Portland, but she refused, though when she came to New York they were engaged. Her fiancé was persistent, and only a few days ago Miss Halloran agreed to name the day. The marriage took place from the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James Walters. Dr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in Portland.

KNOWS ALL COURT ROPES.

Ex-Convict Picks One Indictment Out of Four for Plea of Guilty.

John Barz, 23 years old, who was charged with having held up and robbed Long Island farmers and later attempted to saw his way out of Queens County Jail, pleaded his own case when arraigned before Judge Humphrey in the Queens County Court, Long Island City, yesterday afternoon. Barz informed the court he had been in jail three times. First he was sent to Elmira reformatory when a boy. Next he was sent to the Penitentiary for carrying concealed weapons and for his next offence he was sent to Sing Sing.

"I guess I'll plead guilty to one indictment," said Barz, who was pleading to four. He selected one which charged him with having robbed a farmer at the point of a pistol. He was remanded for sentence.

Barz says he is suffering from consumption contracted while serving a term in Sing Sing.

ZELIG'S SLAYER GETS LONG TERM IN PRISON

Justice Goff Sends Davidson to Sing Sing for Not Less Than Twenty Years.

GUNMEN TO TRIAL FRIDAY

"Whitey" Lewis Likely to be the First of the Rosenthal Murder Quartette to Face a Jury.

"Red Phil" Davidson, who shot and killed "Big Jack" Zelig on a Second Avenue trolley car at Fourteenth Street on the night of Oct. 5, and pleaded guilty last week to murder in the second degree, was sentenced yesterday by Justice Goff in the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court to not less than twenty years in Sing Sing. The sentence is indeterminate, and may run for life. Davidson's appearance was in striking contrast to that which he presented when arraigned in the same court a week ago.

In a new suit of blue serge, white shirt and collar, and pale-blue scarf, he stood erect and composed at the rail while awaiting sentence. His counsel, James W. Osborne, turned to the court and said:

"I suppose there is but one sentence, your Honor?"

"The law provides but one," replied Justice Goff, and then he sentenced Davidson.

The man retained his nerve until he reached the Sheriff's office, whither Sheriff Harburger led him immediately. Then he broke down, dropped to his knees on the floor, and gripped the Sheriff about the legs, begging not to be taken out where the followers of "Big Jack" Zelig could see and kill him.

To-morrow the case of the first of the four gunmen—"Gyp the Blood" Horowitz, "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, "Whitey" Lewis, and "Dago Frank" Cirofici—will be moved to trial before Justice Goff. District Attorney Whitman is anxious that these cases may proceed as rapidly as possible in order that the John Doe inquiry into police conditions shall not be further delayed. It is probable, however, that the first of the cases, likely to be that of "Whitey" Lewis, will be delayed until the following Monday. The trial of Joseph Conroy, slayer of Joseph Fettrecht, the lawyer, is slated for to-day, and it is scarcely likely that it can be finished by to-morrow.

The trial of the gunmen probably will conclude the cases arising out of the death of Herman Rosenthal, with the exception of that of Detective William Ferrick, indicted for perjury on the testimony of Max Margolies. The death of "Big Jack" Zelig removed the complaining witness in the perjury cases of Detectives Steinert and White, and the gambling indictments against Herbert Hull and Joseph Fleming probably will be quashed now that Lieut. Becker has been convicted. Becker's trial raised a question as to whether or not the raid of Rosenthal's gambling house had been what Assistant District Attorney Moss characterized "a fair, square raid." For this reason the District Attorney is considering quashing the indictments against the men arrested in this raid.

District Attorney Whitman spent yesterday preparing for the trials of the gunmen. Two women tried hard to see him, but were turned away by his assistants. One of the women, attired in a black velvet suit and wearing many diamonds, said she was Mrs. Vail of City Island. She said that gangs of toughs in the neighborhood of her home were so daring that she kept a revolver beside her at all times and never left her house without this weapon. She said she would rather trust herself with the four slayers than with the mobs of youths which, she said, infest City Island.

She said these gangsters had tried to poison her, and that once, becoming suspicious of them, she had fed to two pet cats some lamb chops which she had bought for her own table. The cats died.

Mr. Whitman's assistants promised Mrs. Vail that her case would be looked into, and she went away happy. The other woman, finding she could not see the District Attorney, declined to discuss her affairs with any one else.

WALDO SHAKES THEM UP AGAIN

Shifts Lieut. Riley and Gives Better Berth to Murphy's Relative.

Commissioner Waldo took hold of the police force yesterday and shook it with such vigor that a lot of officers and patrolmen found themselves shifted when the day was over. The most outstanding and mysterious transfer was that of Lieut. Dominick Riley, who was sent to do desk work in the Elizabeth Street Station. This means that the one man in all the force on whom Deputy Commissioner Dougherty seemed to lean more than on any other was to drop detective work. Four days ago Dougherty lost Riley, when Waldo sent him to the Old Slip Station, where, he was told, he was to do detective work in Wall Street. Now Riley finds himself assigned to desk duty with no opportunity for glory.

Riley has been much in evidence for more than a year. He was on the Vice Squad for a few months, and later he headed one of the three raiding squads, together with Lieut. Costigan and Lieut. Becker, and he was one of those who recently testified before the Grand Jury. Riley is tall, well groomed, exceptionally good-looking, and extremely clever. It seemed to the chroniclers of Police Headquarters that there was never a big case in Dougherty's quarters that did not call for Riley's services, from the closing in on "Gyp the Blood" and "Leftie Louie" to the capture of Reynolds Fosbrey after his escape from the Tombs.

Headquarters was only slightly less surprised to hear that Lieut. Martin Regan had been relieved of his charge of the detectives in the St. Nicholas Avenue Station and sent to the less exciting desk work of the Lee Avenue Station in Brooklyn. Furthermore, Detective Fitzsimmons, once the Beau Nash of the Detective Bureau in the District Attorney's office, later reduced under Waldo to patrol duty, and still later restored to detective work, was yesterday reduced again and sent on up to Harlem to pound the pavements of the West 125th Street Precinct.

A Captaincy shake-up was announced in the late afternoon. Capt. Liebers was sent from the Madison Street Station to the lower Fulton Street Station in Brooklyn to take the place of Capt. Carey, who was shifted to the Fourth Avenue Station in Brooklyn to take the place of Capt. Cray. Cray is a brother-in-law of Charles F. Murphy, the leader of Tammany Hall. He was made a Captain only recently, and yesterday's transfers brought him from the quiet outlying station to the pleasurable hum of the Leonard Street Station in Manhattan. To make room for him Capt. Rohrig was shifted to the Fifth Street Station to take the place of Capt. Ormsby, who completed the circle by moving down to Liebers's old stand in the Madison Street Station. All this was for the "good of the service."

The Commissioner also sent Lieut. Underhill from the Detective Bureau to do desk duty in the Madison Street Station, and at the same time scattered thirty-eight patrolmen from the same bureau to patrol duty all over the city.

WATSON'S OFFER ACCEPTED.

Curran Committee Counsel to be Designated as His Assistants.

The Special Aldermanic Committee which is investigating police conditions, met yesterday and voted to accept the offer of Corporation Counsel Watson to designate its counsel as temporary assistants attached to his staff. The committee also decided to go before the Board of Estimate with a petition for payment for back services given by its counsel.

The committee received the resignation of Nathan A. Smith, who as associate counsel was receiving $500 a month. The demands of his private practice, he said, did not permit of his giving all his time to the investigation. The committee appointed as assistant counsel, at $350 a month, Harold S. Deming, who was formerly connected with the office of United States District Attorney Wise.

GIOVANNITTI'S SPEECH PEACEFUL, SHE SAYS

Italian Teacher Testifies That He Warned Against Attacks Upon Militia.

CLERGYMEN SPEAK FOR ETTOR

Nothing in Speeches to Alarm a Minister, Says One—Heard Defendants Urge Peaceful Methods.

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 6.—Francesca Cuzzo, known among her people as the "Italian school teacher" of Lawrence, a mill worker and a striker last Winter, was subjected to a grilling cross-examination to-day as a witness for the defense in the trial of Ettor, Giovanniti and Caruso for the murder of Anna Lopizzo.

The woman, 56 years old, and for eight years, since she came from her native Naples, an employee of the Lawrence Textile Mills, testified that she was a school teacher for many years in Italy, and that the children in the mills called her "teacher."

She gave testimony regarded as valuable by the defense, when she repeated her version of the speech made by Giovannitti on the Lawrence common, on January 29, the morning of the day on which occurred the fatal riot. In his speech, the prosecution has charged, Giovannitti told the strikers to "seek the blood of the scabs."

Miss Cuzzo testified that Giovannitti said:

"Go home and be united and calm. Don't do anything against the forces of the authorities, because they are commanded to do their duty. Don't go to Canal Street, because that is private property, and the soldiers are there. If you go there the soldiers may do something to you because they are like wild animals searching for the blood of the working men."

On cross-examination the witness denied that she had not been present when the speech was delivered, and the District Attorney and a hot fire of questions failed to shake her testimony. Miss Cuzzo declared she saw a policeman strike a woman in the head and "draw blood because she walked in the street instead of on the sidewalk."

Two Congregational ministers, the Rev. Nicholas Vander Pyl, and the Rev. George K. Goodwin, testified, declaring that they had heard the defendants urge peaceful methods. One of them said Ettor's speeches were "nothing to alarm me as a minister."

Fred Tepper, another witness for the defense, said that Ettor and Giovannitti counselled against violence.

"The masters use dynamite and guns; you put your hands in your pockets, and through solidarity you will win," was another quotation from a speech of Ettor, testified to by John Bifolski, a Polish striker.

L. H. Jounod Made Swiss Consul Here

A cable was received yesterday from the Swiss Government at Berne announcing that Louis H. Jounod of 98 and 100 Fifth Avenue had been appointed Consul in New York to succeed J. Bertschmann, who has resigned the post after holding it for forty years.

HE HAD ENOUGH OF WATER.

Engineer with Scalded Leg Resented Hospital Bath.

Thomas Brennan, night engineer at the Breslin, has no ordinary prejudice against cold water; nor, on the other hand, is his fondness for the heated variety marked, as was shown when he put his foot in it Monday night. But the fact is, rather than be subjected to a bath Brennan walked all the way from the New York Hospital, in Fifteenth Street, to the Breslin with a badly scalded leg.

Brennan was cleaning the drain in the basement of the hotel which leads to the sewer, and was using steam and hot water to effect his purpose. There is a big vent at the top of the drain, which has a grating over it. This having been removed, the engineer, in a careless moment, stepped into water that was almost at boiling point. When they got him upstairs it was found that one leg was scalded almost to the knee. The hotel doctor fixed up the injury and bandaged the leg, and then sent for an ambulance, which took him to the New York Hospital. There Brennan was informed that it was necessary for him to take a bath before further treatment could be made.

He hopped indignantly off the cot where they had put him, and indignantly drew on his clothes. Before they could stop him he had left the building. He footed it all the way to his engine room and finished cleaning the drain. Then he went home, and his injuries have kept him there ever since.

A Serious Joke on The Rabbit

The U. S. Gov't has been experimenting to discover the poisonous quality of Caffeine (found in coffee).

57 healthy rabbits were given an average dose of 5 1-10 grains.

See Gov't Bulletin No. 148,
Bureau of Chemistry.

A cup of coffee contains over 2 1-2 grains of Caffeine; enough in two cups to kill a rabbit.

Of course, this joke was on the rabbits.

A goodly number of humorous Americans play the same joke on themselves and keep it up until some fixed form of disease sets in, as a result of the daily dose of Caffeine, in quantity enough to kill a rabbit but only enough to

Cripple a Man

Not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course, some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness, or heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbances, it is time to quit the daily dose of coffee and see if Nature will begin to heal.

It is easy to shift from coffee to Postum. The food beverage has the deep, seal-brown color which turns to a golden-brown when cream is added. The flavour has the crisp tang so winning to the palate and the cup is made instanter by one struck spoonful of the powder, stirred in a cup of hot water, and there you are.

INSTANT POSTUM

The change from coffee to Postum works wonders.

POTTERY OF AZTECS SHOWN AT COLUMBIA

Figures Wrought in Civilization of 2,000 Years Ago Found in Valley of Mexico.

EXCAVATIONS IN A CITY

Ware Found by Prof. Emil Boaz Characterized by Broad Lines and Many Decorative Designs.

Fragments of pottery and figures which have been found by the International School of Archaeology and Ethnology in its recent year's research and excavations in and about the Valley of Mexico are now on exhibition at Columbia University for the rest of this week, in the exhibition room in the main library building. These interesting collections show the sequence of the cultural types by means of the remains dug up in the various stratas of the valley, the excavations going as deep as thirty feet. Prof. Emil Boaz, who has but recently returned from that part of Mexico after three months spent at the operations of the society, estimates that the specimens obtained from the deep stratas represent the most primitive civilization, as much as two thousand years old.

There are nearly one thousand pieces on view, and three cases contain fragments of pottery and figures wrought in the most primitive civilization. There are heads and figurines, the majority of which are quite small, some of which have been rolled by the water of a fossil river, signs of which were found thirty feet below the surface. The characteristics of the pieces of this primitive civilization are that the parts of the body are modeled on by means of pellets and fillets of clay, the eye being indicated by two indentations made with the point of a stick. Most of the figures are nude, the ornaments and pieces of clothing being modeled, when present, from pieces of clay and then stuck on.

The pottery of this same civilization, a very valuable collection of which has been made by the society, is characterized by incised designs consisting of irregular patterns. There is a prevalence of zigzag and wavy designs. The peculiarities are splendidly brought out at the exhibition by the large case of fragments with a few whole specimens.

In the more recent civilizations under the Aztec tribes, the art is of a higher order. This Aztec ware is characterized by broad lines and a great variety of decorative designs. In the lower layers, in which the remains were found, the Atzec pottery found was decorated with complex designs, executed with great rapidity. In the upper layers a much finer yellow ware was found, decorated with designs consisting of very fine lines, dots and circles.

An interested description of the excavations made a few miles north of the City of Mexico for the purpose of determining the sequence of these remains, has been prepared by the society. In part it is as follows:

"The bottom of the valley is composed of a thick layer of decomposed tufa, which is much used for making fire bricks and sun-dried bricks. Scattered over the surface are found large and small mounds, all of which contain archaeological remains. They are generally erected over a floor of a few layers of pebbles. All these and the surrounding surface soil contain remains characteristic of the Aztec period. It is evident, therefore, that these mounds were erected by the Aztecs, and that they lived in the Valley of Mexico during the period when the surface layer of the soil was deposited. The thickness of this soil varies considerably, but it never reaches more than about three feet in thickness in places where the surface has been least disturbed. The remains which are found here consist largely of pottery; the most frequent type occurring being of a yellow color, with black painted designs. Besides these, however, red pottery of high polish, with black and white designs, is also found quite commonly. Spinning-whorls are of frequent occurrence.

"At the bottom of this layer is found a stratum of so-called 'tepetate,' a redeposition of calcareous matter which has been leached out of the surface layers. Some of it may have been used for the flooring of buildings. Beginning with the layer of tepetate, downward, we find about four feet of rather loose soil consisting entirely of decomposed tufa interspersed with layers of fine gravel. The deposit has evidently been formed by the wind and surface waters. The remains found in this stratum differ entirely in character from those of the surface. They are of the type found so extensively in the great ruins of San Juan Teotihuacan. The curious vessels with one or two holes, (perhaps incense burners;) the excellently worked figurines, most of which are made in molds; fine pottery with red and black polished surfaces and accurately incised designs; a buff pottery with stamped designs; large, thick vessels painted with a brilliant red color; ornaments made of mica and slate are most characteristic of this deposit. Angular boulders are scattered in the soil here and there, offering clear evidence that the deposit has not been made by water. The excellent state of preservation of the figurines, many of which still retain their original paints, are further proof that the deposits have not been disturbed by running water and have not been made under water.

"At the bottom of the layer in question the character of the soil changes. It consists of the same kind of material, but it is much harder. At the line dividing these two strata remains of buildings are found, large hearths, and other evidence of occupation. It seems clear, therefore, that this surface must have been the ground on which a city stood. Excavations in the hard subsoil may also be recognized. On and under the floors of the buildings just mentioned remains are found in great profusion, and all of these belong to the same culture as the one just mentioned.

"Descending further down the remains become a little less frequent, but they retain the same character until a depth of a little over twenty feet from the surface has been reached. In the hard decomposed tufa of this layer human bones are found every now and then, but no complete skeletons. In one place a large stone slab was encountered which covered the remains of a deer.

"At a depth of twenty-one feet the character of the soil changes quite suddenly. In place of the decomposed tufa we find coarse gravel arranged in such a way as to show that a river used to flow here. The thickness of the river deposits is about seven feet. All the remains found in this layer have been rolled by water. The type which they represent is quite different from the type of the preceding stratum. The pottery is thick, and, although a large number of heads are found here also, they are much ruder and show a different technique.

"Since it was evident that at this depth the excavation happened to strike a river bed, another excavation was made about 200 feet to the west of the former. Here an undisturbed sandy layer was met with at the same depth at which, in the first place, the river bed was encountered, and the remains secured here showed the same type as those encountered in the river bed; they were, however, well preserved and not rolled by water, as is evidenced by the paint that still remains on the fragments. The people who used these objects evidently lived on the banks of this ancint river."

MAGISTRATE'S CAR HITS GIRL.

Child Darted from Behind Wagon Into Path of Reynolds Auto.

Magistrate Reynolds was at the wheel of his own machine late yesterday afternoon, driving from the Manhattan Avenue Court in Brooklyn to his home at 88 Prospect Park West, when, at Bedford Avenue and Wallabout Street, a little girl, running from behind a grocery wagon, darted directly into his path. The car was not moving at very high speed, but she was struck by the mudguard with sufficient force to throw her some distance.

A street cleaner helped the Magistrate and his secretary to lift the injured child to the tonneau of the car, which carried her to the nearest drug store. There they learned that she was seven-year-old Anna Halpert of 740 Bedford Avenue. Then she was taken to the Eastern District Hospital, where the surgeons said that besides many bruises, her ankle was broken, and there were probably internal injuries.

POTATO IMPORTERS LOSE.

Judge Hough Sustains Government in Its Foreign Foodstuffs Ban.

In ordering yesterday the condemnation and destruction of 200 sacks of German potatoes, imported by Meyer & Lange, wholesale grocers, of 434 Greenwich Street, on the ground that they had been imported in violation of the Federal Plant Quarantine Act of Aug. 19, Judge Hough made an important ruling in the Federal District Court yesterday with regard to the notice that should be given of the orders issued by the Department of Agriculture. The case was instituted as a test and will affect many other similar importations.

Counsel for the importers had argued that they had not received "due notice" of the enforcement of the new regulation and that the action of the Secretary of Agriculture was arbitrary and an abuse of discretion.

Judge Hough, however, in his opinion, held that the question whether any given article of import should be excluded was not a matter for judicial investigation, but was, in the proper sense of the term, a political matter. Consequently, since there is no provision for the judicial review of the acts of the Secretary of Agriculture, he alone has the right to determine what is "due notice" and who are the "interested parties," who ought to be notified of an intended exclusion.

"It was obviously impossible," says the court, to reach every person who might thereafter be affected by the proposed exclusion of a common article of commerce, and since every one was conclusively presumed to have knowledge of the law itself, it cannot be held unreasonable and therefore an abuse of discretion, to give notice by informing the public prints of the proposed action, that would affect their readers or some of them."

Judge Hough added that the words "due notice" should be interpreted in light of the fact that the act had been passed in the interests of the plant life of the country, and that to prevent the spread of potato disease was an obvious and laudable exercise of the police power under the constitutional grant of power over commerce.

FIGHT FOR SUPPOSED MURILLO

Painting of St. Magdalene Subject of Women's Litigation.

An action to decide the ownership of an oil painting of St. Magdalene, said to be a Murillo, painted in Seville, Spain, in 1620, will be tried before Justice Van Siclen in the Queens County Court this morning. Mrs. Wilhelmina Balbach of 145th Street, Manhattan, widow of William Balbach, who died in 1910, is seeking to recover the painting.

At his death Balbach was living apart from his wife, and made his home with his sister, Mrs. Louise Webber, and the painting, which is valued by the litigants all the way from $100,000 to $200,000, hung in the Webbers' modest dwelling in Woodside.

As administratrix of the estate of her husband Mrs. Balbach made a demand on her sister-in-law, Mrs. Webber, for the painting. In answer to her sister-in-law's demand Mrs. Webber replied that the painting had been left to her by her brother in return for her care of him. Then Mrs. Balbach got a writ of replevin and the painting was seized by Sheriff Quinn of Queens County. Mrs. Webber filed a surety bond and regained possession of the painting.

It is expected that the case will be reached for trial some time to-day.

Brooklyn Man a Victim of Mysterious Election Night Accident.

Frank Geller, a shoe cutter, 80 years old, of 338 Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn, died yesterday afternoon in the Williamsburg Hospital of a compound fracture of the skull received in a mysterious manner.

Early in the morning the driver of a taxicab rang the bell of the Geller home, and when Mrs. Geller admitted him he demanded $4,50 which, he said, her husband owed him. Mr. Geller, the chauffer said, would join her in a few minutes.

After the chauffeur had driven away with two other men Mrs. Geller went out to see of there was any sign of her husband. As she turned back to the house she saw him lying unconscious in the area way. Geller died without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Geller left the house early Tuesday evening to get the results of the election. The police are trying to find the taxi. Mrs. Geller told the police her husband was plentifully supplied with money when he left the house. When found in the area way he did not have any.

COURT CLERK REID GETS OUT.

Follows Ritchie of Yonkers, Indicted for Misappropriating Funds.

City Judge Beall of Yonkers yesterday called for and accepted the resignation of Acting Court Clerk Norman J. Reid and appointed Lawrence Brooks, a lawyer, as temporary clerk.

Reid is a brother-in-law of former Court Clerk Henry J. Ritchie of Yonkers, under whose administration a shortage of $10,000 was discovered by agents of the State Controller. Ritchie is under indictment for misappropriation of public funds. He was instrumental in obtaining the appointment of Reid as assistant Clerk, and when Ritchie was suspended Reid automatically became Acting Clerk.

Judge Beall said that he had received many complaints about Reid and that he was no longer inclined to blame the bookkeeping system entirely for the shortages.

DRINKS TO WILSON THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Fritz Kassner, Unfortunate in Business, Ends Life in Home of the Arion Society.

DEBTOR DISAPPOINTED HIM

Failure to Receive Expected $500 Left Him Without Funds—Brothers in Germany Wealthy.

Fritz Kassner, a German, 41 years old, who came to this country six years ago and went into business as a broker, left his room at 812 Lexington Avenue early Tuesday afternoon and went to the Arion Society at Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue, where he was joined by several friends. There was a big reception at the club house and several hundred persons were there early in the evening while the election returns were being read off the ticker.

After the result was known Kassner and three friends took a table by themselves, where they drank to the health of Gov. Wilson, whose success Kassner had predicted. The friends remained at the table till 3 o'clock in the morning. Kassner looked at the clock and, turning to his friend, K. Brant, an employe of H. Anton Bock, at 1,228 Lexington Avenue, said:

"Well, we'll have one more round, and make it the last one."

After they had emptied their glasses Kassner got up and left the table. A few minutes later Frederick Welchen, a waiter, heard a shot in the lavatory. He rushed in and found Kassner lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his forehead. When the news spread through the club rooms the friends of Kassner were taken completely by surprise. According to Mr. Brandt Kassner had never been in better spirits than he was all during the evening.

On the washstand in the lavatory a letter was found which showed that Kassner had deliberately planned his suicide and had meant to be literal when a few minutes before he had said the drink would be the last one. The letter was addressed "To Whom it May Concern." It read:

"I implore you to notify my friend, Henry W. Ruth, to-morrow morning, who resides at 1,061 Lexington Avenue, or his business address, 1,335 Third Avenue. He will comply with the necessary disposition. I also implore you to keep the matter secret and by all means do not tell my landlady, who lives at 112 Lexington Avenue. My friend Ruth will attend to that."

Across the top of the page Kassner had written: "P. S.—Please convey my body to the nearest police station."

Henry W. Ruth has a cigar store and a railway and steamship agency at 1,335 Third Avenue. He and Kassner had been interested together in several business ventures. The only reason that Ruth and other friends of Kassner could give for his suicide was his failure as a business man. Kassner, it was said, came to this country six years ago with considerable money. He had brothers in Germany who were wealthy business men. According to his landlady, Mrs. Annie McGinnis, Kassner received a monthly income from Germany.

On his arrival in this country Kassner started in business as a broker in stocks. He continued in this with indifferent success till last March, when $10,000, which he had invested, was swept away. This left him without any capital. Since then he had been living on the money he received from Germany and what he could pick up in small business transactions.

During the last few months Kassner had worked as a cigar drummer and in other pursuits, without much success. According to his landlady he was used to having plenty of money and to expensive living and could not bear to go along in comparative poverty. Mrs. McGinnis said $500 was owing to Kassner, and he expected that it would be paid to him on Election Day. The failure of his debtor to pay him this amount left him practically penniless and probably made him decide to end his life.

CANCEL HAVEMEYER STOCK.

Courts' Orders Carried Out, Sugar Trust Investigators Told.

It came out yesterday at the hearing of the Government suit against the Sugar Trust in the Post Office Building that last month the National Sugar Refining Company carried out the decree of the New Jersey courts, and, with the exception of $100,000 worth carried in the treasury, canceled $10,000,000 of common stock which was given to H. O. Havemeyer at the time of the organization of the company for no valuable consideration. It was stated that they were reckoned to be worth from $65 to $75 a share.

James H. Post, President of the National Sugar Refining Company, was on the stand and gave evidence as to his voting these shares after Mr. Havemeyer's death in 1908, 1909, and 1910 to re-elect the old Directors. In January, 1911, he had a conversation with Horace Havemeyer, who had then resigned from the directorate of the American Sugar Refining Company, about the transfer of the stock to Mr. Havemeyer as the executor of his father's estate.

Mr. Havemeyer suggested that Nathaniel Tucker, J. Henry Dick, and H. F. Hahn be dropped from the National Sugar board, but Mr. Post refused to assent to it. There has been no meeting of the National Sugar Refining Company Directors since, but one has been called for Nov. 20.

E. C. Knight, President of the Camden & Amboy Railroad Company and formerly connected with the sugar refineries of E. C. Knight & Company and the E. C. Knight Company also gave evidence. He told of the purchase of the Knight sugar business by the trust at what he admitted was a fair price and the closing down of its plant. J. E. Searles carried on the negotiations in behalf of the trust and in 1892 gave $2,060,000 of the American Sugar Refining Company securities in exchange for the $1,800,000 of stock which the Knight concern had issued. In 1888 and 1889 the Knight concern had been making $500,000 a year but after that it had to meet the competition of the Sugar Refineries Company and the Spreckles Company and made little money. The hearing will be continued to-day.

SELL OLD CATHOLIC CEMETERY AT LAST

Bodies Removed Three Years Ago from East Eleventh Street Despite Opposition.

PRICE ACCEPTED IS $357,000

Cardinal Farley and the Trustees Approve—None Buried There Since 1851.

The old East Eleventh Street Cemetery, which was first opened in 1817, is to be sold at last. Three times the opposition of descendants of those buried there held up the sale, but yesterday, when the Trustees of St. Patrick's Cathedral approached Supreme Court Justice Newburger in his chambers, there was no opposition, and he signed the order allowing it to be sold to Frank Schlitt of Jersey City for $357,000.

Schlitt's offer was acceded to by Cardinal John M. Farley, President of the Cathedral Trustees; by Louis H. Amy, their Secretary; by George J. Gillespie, their Treasurer; Eugene A. Philbin, Andrew Dougherty, Jr.; Thomas H. Kelly, John Fox, Ernest Iselin, and Alfonso de Navarro. The cemetery plot includes most of the block bounded by First Avenue, Avenue A, and East Twelfth and Eleventh Streets.

No one has been buried in the cemetery since 1851, and in 1909 5,000 buried there, with their tombstones and coffins, were transferred to Calvary Cemetery in Queens County. Legal proceedings to prevent this transfer has been undertaken on several occasions, but were unsuccessful.

For three years back the cemetery has been used as a playground. After the dead were removed it was loaned by the Cathedral Trustees to the National Playgrounds Association, which installed swings, basket ball courts, a running track, and a baseball diamond.

The first movement to sell the old cemetery plot was made shortly after St. Patrick's Cathedral moved from its old location at Mott and Mulberry Streets to its present site in Fifth Avenue, at Fiftieth Street. Attorney Arthur J. Delaney brought proceedings in 1883 which restrained the sale and removal of bodies at that time. The cost of the original plot, it appeared from the court action at that time, was $55,000.

Another effort to sell the plot was made in 1907. This aroused such opposition that a meeting of the descendants of those buried there was held in Greenwich Hall, First Avenue and East Eleventh Street. At this meeting it was declared that the charter granted to the Cathedral by the Legislature on April 14, 1817, did not extend to it after its removal to Fifth Avenue. It was said that there were only sixty-eight persons at the meeting of the St. Patrick's Cathedral congregation when it was resolved to sell the cemetery. These included only nine Trustees, it was said, of whom Archbishop, now Cardinal Farley, was one.

The protest was made that the ground, which had been consecrated, could not be sold, and that it would be a sacrilege to disinter the bodies. The Trustees asserted that the ground had not been consecrated, but merely blessed. One of the grounds of attack on the proposed sale was that the tombstones in the cemetery had served as barricades for Catholics who were attacked in the Know Nothing riots.

Among those who were buried in the cemetery were Hendrik Smets, once Burgomaster of Amsterdam, Holland; Countess de Baldi of Santo Domingo, and Capt. John McMahon of the Eighteenth Company of the Montgomery Guards.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN HEADS.

Business Here to be Managed by a Directorate of Three.

Before sailing yesterday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria for Hamburg, Albert Ballin, head of the Hamburg-American Line, said he had arranged for the reorganization of the American office of the company, made necessary by the death of Emil S. Boas.

A board of directors has been established, consisting of Dr. Karl Buenz, the general representative of the company in America, as Chairman, and J. P. Meyer and W. G. Sickel, by which board the affairs of the company will be managed.

A. L. Cronemeyer and Emil Lederer have been appointed Passenger Traffic Managers and C. J. Beck Freight Traffic Manager.

Carl L. Schurz has been appointed general counsel of the company here.

GRAMM TRUCKS

Reorganizing delivery operations

Gramm trucks and Gramm transportation plans have done more towards economizing delivery operations than any other means yet offered.

THE delivery of merchandise, in order to be effective, efficient and economical, has to be laid out just as a great railroad system is. In order to control and regulate your delivery operations you must adopt the most modern methods—or lose money.

First, you must get the most modern equipment. Then study your working territory—divide your delivery zones and make a certain number of trucks cover a certain distance, daily. The long and short hauls must be carefully routed. The long hauls must be lengthened and more stops made in the short haul zones. The avenues which will require the greatest number of stops must be given special service. All things must move on a precise schedule. In other words, you must reorganize all out-side handling of merchandise—which applies to all outgoing as well as in-coming goods.

The modern motor truck makes this possible. With the horse it is an utter impossibility. No animal can have the efficiency, dependability, rapidity, and accurate action of a piece of machinery. It was just as impossible to organize stage coach travel years ago as it is the horse and wagon service of today. The excellent railroad service we now enjoy is directly due to the high efficiency of the modern railway equipment, which has made possible our wonderful national expansion.

Here is our railroad expansion in figures. There are 245,000 miles of lines—2,750,000 passengers travel daily over 1,500,000 miles of road. Besides this, 5,000,000 tons of freight are moved each day, over 1,750,000 miles of track. $7,700,000 is collected daily, out of which $5,300,000 is paid for operating expenses—$3,200,000 of which is paid to 1,750,000 employees.

The Gramm motor truck can in the same way and for the same reasons broaden the local business of every merchant and manufacturer in America. And for the very simple reason that it can do more in less time for less money than its one time competitor—the horse.

For ten years, Gramm Trucks have been broadening and expanding some of America's foremost houses. It is the most highly developed truck in the country. It is built for business and is constructed by experienced men who have wrestled with the very problems that confront you.

Reorganize and expand your business by adopting Gramm plans, specifications and equipment.

Our preliminary information contains some very interesting facts and figures, particularly to the concern who still believes an animal is as dependable and as economical as a piece of simple modern machinery.

WILSON STROLLS OUT TO FOOTBALL FIELD

President-elect, Once a Princeton Coach, Watches Tigers in Secret Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson passed a part of the first afternoon following his election within the closed barriers of Osborne Field while Princeton's gridiron squad battled back and forth in stiff scrimmage.

The distinguished visitor did not go on the field to-day as he had on his two former visits this Fall, but admired the Princetonians, many of whom are his former pupils, from a front seat in the big stands.

Gov. Wilson was accompanied by his body guard, Capt. "Bill" MacDonald, who has seen more war than football. During his fifteen minute visit he conversed with John Poe, famous in Princeton football and a relative of Edgar Allen Poe, who was assisted in 1890 in coaching the Tigers by the President-elect, then Prof. Wilson of Princeton University. The players went at their work oblivious of the presence of their former president.

The coaches pushed the Tigers through an hour and a half scrimmage, divided equally between offensive and defensive play, the first heavy work since the Harvard game, and the men responded to the charge with lots of ginger.

The result was only one touchdown for the 'Varsity, which came late in the afternoon on a short run by Capt. Pendleton, after a concentrated attack in which Earle Waller and "Hobe" Baker each contributed 30-yard gains.

DeWitt and Bluethenthal were the only first string men to enjoy a lay-off, but they moved over the field as if they were in good shape. Bluethenthal's face presents a rather ragged appearance as a result of the Harvard game, but there is no truth in the rumor that he was injured Saturday, and he seems to be priming for the battle with Ketcham. Fred Trenkman filled in at full back in DeWitt's absence to-day and gave a demonstration against the heavy second team's line that forced him into the limelight. He has enjoyed a long recess from the back field because of a month's tryout at end, but he handled the ball like a veteran to-day and should have a look-in at the Yale game.

There was no let-up in the 'Varsity attack from start to finish. Pendleton and "Hobe" Baker alternated at left half back and Waller kept steadily plugging at right half. It seems as if Waller can stand all the work that the coaches can impose.

The appearance of "Bush" Dunlap, who dislocated his shoulder in the Harvard game, cheered the men to-day, but Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick seems very pessimistic about his appearance against Yale. He has dislocated his right shoulder three times, but hopes to face Yale again this year, his last chance before graduation.

CORNELL TACKLING TOO HIGH

Back Field Men Too Often Fail to Bring Down Opponent with Ball.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—With a new back field which showed speed and a reconstructed line the Cornell football team was much improved in the game with the scrubs this afternoon which the 'Varsity captured by the score of 24 to 0. Had not the regulars allowed the freshmen to score on them in a short engagement just before dark the day would have been regarded as one of much progress, but the back field fell down in its tackling, and the same old menace confronts the Ithacans on the eve of the game with Dartmouth.

Schock, a freshman half back, broke through the line for a 25-yard run for a touchdown, which he should not have been permitted to score. Three backs had their hands on him, but let him get away. The Ithacan back field seems utterly unable to dive head first at a runner and bring him to the ground quickly. The men seem to prefer to wait for the runner, and usually he gets away from them. The new back field to-day was composed of O'Connor, quarter back; Taber and Bennett, half backs, and Hill, full back.

Capt. Butler's new injury, which may keep him out until the game with Pennsylvania, made it imperative for Coach Sharpe to find a reliable quarter back with football sense, so he was compelled to take O'Connor from left half back and place him in the position. O'Connor played in that position in the Pennsylvania game last Fall and is no novice at the work. He ran the team well this afternoon.

Tabor, who has been playing quarter back, was shifted to left half back, and Bennett, the crack sprinter, was placed at right half back in the absence of Fritz. He is likely to have a good chance for the place. With Hill at full back this back field on the offense was formidable, but its defense was poor. Changes in the line include the shifting of Williamson from right to left tackle, the shift of Munns from left tackle to left guard and the return of Lahr to right tackle. Mallery and Franklin, who played on the line for a short time, were better than the regulars.

Longer Practice for Navy Hereafter.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—The Naval Academy football squad was on the field an hour earlier than usual this afternoon, the academy authorities having arranged matters so that the players will be able to get on the field shortly before 3 o'clock each afternoon until the end of the season. This will make a vast difference in the amount of instruction the coaches will be able to give the team, and notable results are expected. The work this afternoon consisted of both attack and defense in about equal proportion, a considerable amount of it being defensive work against a variety of forward passes attempted by the scrub. The back field is now almost certain to contain Leonard, the light but brilliant end runner; Capt. Rodes, and two men picked from Ingram, H. Harrison and Failing. McReavey, another big fellow who has been trying for the back field, has been placed at left end. Latimere was at left tackle this afternoon to place of Vaughn, who hurt his shoulder in practice yesterday. Leonard continued his fast end circling to-day, and Capt. Rodes did splendid work in the back field, his handling of kicks being especially notable. The team gave every indication of having tightened up considerably.

Fordham Rests After Victory.

Head Coach Tom Thorpe gave the Fordham squad a rest yesterday as a reward for the hard-fought victory over Stevens Institute on Election Day. It was the first day's respite since the opening of college in September, for the coaches have been forced to have daily practice because of the lack of seasoned material, due to Fordham's abandonment of the gridiron sport for two years.

Frank Mulvey played a star defensive game in the Stevens contest up to the time when he had to retire in the last quarter with a strained tendon in the neck. Viviano will probably be again shifted from left end to take Mulvey's position at centre, as Elliffe is a fixture at the wing position because of his spectacular playing on Tuesday. This afternoon the 'Varsity will line up against the speedy High School of Commerce eleven in preparation for Saturday's contest against Albright College, Myerstown, Penn., on the home grounds. Assistant Coach Jim McCarthy has several new plays to give to the team which he thinks will further develop the open game to make up for the lack of weight in the Maroon eleven.

De Witt Clinton vs. Manual.

One of the most important games of the interscholastic football season in Greater New York is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Washington Park, Brooklyn, between the De Witt Clinton eleven of New York and Manual Training team of Brooklyn. Clinton is one of the strongest contenders for the Manhattan championship and Manual has the best team in Brooklyn. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Spa Motor Truck Wins in Russia.

Cesare Conti, the general agent of the Spa Automobile Company of Turin, Italy, received a cable yesterday advising that the Spa three-ton truck received the first place in the competition held by the Russian Government, where many important European manufacturers were competing.

HARVARD ON FIELD AGAIN.

Parmenter and Trumbull Only Absentees—Wendell in Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—All except two of the players who participated in Saturday's game against Princeton were out for work on Soldiers' Field to-day. Parmenter, who was considerably battered in his battle with Bluethenthal, was not in the line-up, nor was Trumbull, whose side is still very sore, and who probably will not be in shape until the end of next week.

Capt. Wendell was in charge of his team again and was very active for the few minutes he ran through signals, and helped to put on some plays that Harvard is developing from a new formation. The work was the first that is being specifically made for the Yale game. The 'Varsity had a long signal drill, but did not do any scrimmaging. This was left to the substitutes, who will start the Vanderbilt game, probably, and will not be reinforced by any of the regulars unless things are going wrong late in the game. Harvard cannot afford to sacrifice much for the Vanderbilt game, as Dartmouth promises to be much stronger than it was against Princeton.

The substitutes showed a lot of speed and ginger to-day, scoring three touchdowns and two field goals against the scrubs. The first two touchdowns were made on long advances on line plunges, in which Bettle, Lingard, and Graustein worked splendidly together. Hollister, one of the substitute ends, kicked two goals from the field, one drop-kick clearing the bar from the fifteen-yard line and the next kick scoring from the thirty-five yard line.

Hunter McGuire, who was a very promising guard for the first part of the season, but who was placed on probation, has been reinstated by the Faculty. He played throughout the scrimmage to-day. McGuire is not as active as Trumbull, but weighs 220 pounds. It hardly is probable, however, that McGuire will displace Trumbull on the 'Varsity line as a regular. Bradley, the first substitute quarter back, sprained his ankle to-day. He seemed badly hurt, and the coaches have small hopes that he will be able to play again this Fall. Harvard lacks good substitute quarter back material, and the team will suffer if Bradley is not in shape to go into the Yale game in event of an accident to Gardner.

YALE'S GOOD WORKOUT.

Elis Produce Effective Results Against Scrubs on Gridiron.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—For the first time since Yale football work was stopped a week ago by the death of Guard York, the team this afternoon got together for an afternoon's effective practice. Twice this week the coaches have tried to get scoring results, but have failed each time. This afternoon the regulars fought their way to three touchdowns in the thirty minutes of scrimmaging. Every touchdown had some features of its own. Each was campaigned by the three candidates for quarter back, Cornell, Wheeler and Dyer, in order, and each quarter back was ordered to test a half back's ability by giving him the ball almost continuously until he scored. Capt. Spalding was the first leader of the attack. He was driven in quick succession through the scrub line for from six to ten yards at each plunge, never failing to make first down before the limit expired, and he took the ball over after accumulating sixty yards.

Philbin was the best ground gainer, although for shorter distances. His touchdown was made on an end run for fifteen yards, Wheeler piloting the attack.

Markle did most of the ground gaining for the third touchdown and took the ball over. Philbin, Pendleton and Markle kicked the three goals.

Mitchell, for the scrubs, starred, his run back of a punt for thirty yards proving the only substantial gain of the afternoon. The second team gained only one first down.

Toward the close of practice Head Coach Howe tried Al Hemmer, of the fourth eleven, at quarter back. Howe admits that the quarter back situation is still extremely unsatisfactory. Coaches Guy Hutchinson and George Adee joined him to-day in an attempt to improve it.

Officials for the Brown game Saturday have been decided upon as follows: W. R. Okeson, Lehigh, referee; Fred Crolius, Dartmouth, umpire, and Fred Gillinger, University of Pennsylvania, linesman.

Applications for the games with Harvard and Princeton closed to-day, and it was announced to-night that seats for both contests were more plentiful than the applications. Each alumnus and undergraduate is allowed three tickets for the match at Princeton, Yale's allotment being about 12,000.

For the Harvard game a new system has been put into effect, each graduate or undergraduate being allowed one good seat. In case there are tickets enough, after an allotment of one, two will be given, but the ticket department officials say that it will be impossible to grant two tickets generally.

Coaches at to-day's practice included Burr Chamberlin, Walter Camp, Carl Flanders, Ralph Bloomer, Ted Coy, Tom Shevlin, "Pa" Corbin, Adee and Hutchinson.

ATHLETES DISCIPLINED.

Registration Committee Suspends Offenders Against A. A. U. Rules.

Nearly a score of athletes were put on the carpet last night at the meeting of the Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U., held at the Dominican Lyceum in Brooklyn. The session was rather tame, but required a deal of time before all the matters were finally adjusted to the satisfaction of the committee.

Abe Pepis of the Irish-American A. C. and W. Galvin, a former member of the same club, who were requested to appear at the last meeting when the affairs of the recent games of the Tipperary Men's Association were aired, but failed to put in an appearance, showed up last night. Their plea for not appearing at the especially arranged meeting to settle the question then at issue was that they had not received their notification in time. They produced evidence in the shape of postmarked letters received a day after the date set for the meeting and thereupon were reinstated.

The charge of contestants not paying entrance fees brought up a number of cases. J. Kilgren, Pierrepont Club; J. Corning, South Paterson A. C.; H. Margolis, Claremont A. C., and A. Keys of the Knights of St. Anthony were all suspended indefinitely for their failure to pay their entrance fees.

J. Connolly of Eynard Lyceum, who was asked to explain his right of starting in a sprint race at the Dominician Lyceum games, took up considerable time. It was charged by the committee that Connolly was not eligible to start in the event in which he did, and after pleading his guilt was forgiven.

H. Voltz, who on July 4 broke his novice in the park games of the city, competed again on Aug. 4 at the games of the Pastime A. C., for which he drew down a suspension of sixty days. W. Kelly of the Bellville A. C. of Newark, N. J., who contested in a set of games of the New Jersey T. A. B. Society, was indefinitely suspended.

Getting Ready for Ice Hockey.

Judging from the crowds which have attended the St. Nicholas Ice Rink indoor skating will be more popular this season than ever before. The Continental style of figure skating introduced here last season by Irving Brokaw is being taken up by many who are advanced in the art, in view of the probability that a tournament or competition will be held here later in the season. The dates for hockey games and speed skating contests are now being arranged, and the indications are that the forthcoming season will be a successful one. The presence of a team representing the Irish-American Athletic Club will add interest to the Amateur Hockey League championship tournament. Manager O'Brien has received applications from several prominent Canadian players.

Two Good Bouts at Sporting Club.

The Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club has two contests carded for to-night that promise to furnish hard battles. Johnny Lore, the west side lightweight, is to tackle "Young" Reilly in the wind-up. Eddie Sheolin, the Boston welterweight, will face Bill Fleming of Old Town, Me., in the second ten-rounder.

Lipton Cup for International Race.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Nov. 6.—Sir Thomas Lipton has promised a $5,000 silver challenge cup to the Winnipeg Rowing Club, to be rowed for by crews from the United States and Canada.

WOLVERTON DROPPED AS YANKEES MANAGER

Frank Farrell Declines to Renew Contract—New Leader Not Announced.

Harry Wolverton, who managed the New York Americans during the past season, was yesterday deposed as manager by Frank J. Farrell, owner of the club. The official announcement of Wolverton's release was not made at the club headquarters, Mr. Farrell refusing to make any statement other than that he had declined to renew Wolverton's contract for another year.

Wolverton has been at his home in Philadelphia since the close of the American League season, and he came to New York yesterday to discuss next season's plans with Mr. Farrell. When he signed a contract last Winter to manage the Yankees it called for only one year, and he was anxious to know what ideas Mr. Farrell had about renewing it. The two went into a long conference at the club office yesterday afternoon, and at the conclusion Mr. Farrell announced that he had declined to renew the contract. He refused to make any other statement or give any inkling as to the probable successor of Wolverton on the Hilltop. Wolverton left immediately after the meeting for Philadelphia, and his plans for the future are also unknown.

Rumors that Wolverton would not lead the Yankees next year sprung up almost as soon as the season closed, but little attention was paid to them, as it was generally thought that these reports were simply the result of the club's poor showing in the 1912 race. Officials of the club would not verify these reports, and they died out, leaving the general impression that Wolverton would get another chance. This feeling gained strength through the fact that some changes have been made in the team since the season closed, and Wolverton was thought to have engineered the deals.

It was certainly the most disastrous year that the Yankees have experienced since New York was admitted into the American League in 1903. Wolverton started off with the team that had hovered in the first division practically throughout the season of 1911, although a slump in the last few days carried the club to sixth place. In view of Wolverton's showing as a manager in the Class A ranks it was expected that he would develop a winner, but the team never got above seventh place. For the first ten days of the season the team failed to win a game, and it was never prominent in the race. It braced up enough after mid-season to pass the St. Louis Browns, but the team's sojourn in seventh place was very short, and it dropped back again into last place, finishing the season there.

Wolverton was not entirely to blame for the team's poor showing, but it is evident from his release that he failed to get the proper amount of work out of the material at hand to satisfy the club owners. Severe accidents to "Birdie" Cree and Harry Wolter kept these two outfielders out of the game most of the season, Hal Chase was also out for a time with illness, and the pitching staff was a failure. Quinn, Vaughn, Catcher Street, and Infielder Gardner, regarded as regulars when the season opened, failed to last throughout the season. New players were tried continually so that the team seldom went two days without a change of some kind in the line-up.

The deposed manager was the fourth to guide the destinies of the Hilltoppers since the American League obtained a foothold here and his term was the shortest. He succeeded Hal Chase, who finished the last few weeks of the 1910 season after George Stallings had been released. Stallings succeeded Clarke Griffith, who came here when the Hilltop grounds were opened. Wolverton had proved a big success as a minor league manager, having managed teams at Williamsport in the Tri-State League, Newark in the Eastern League, and Oakland in the Pacific Coast League before coming here. He came to New York after two successful seasons at Oakland.

HANK O'DAY RESIGNS.

Manager of Reds Quits Before He Is Invited to Send In His Resignation.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Henry ("Hank") O'Day, manager of the Cincinnati National League baseball team during the season of 1912, to-day tendered his resignation to August Herrmann, owner of the club. The reason given by O'Day was that he was booked for retirement, and so he decided to resign before he was requested to give up the position. He was led to this conclusion by the repeated rumors that Herrmann was endeavoring to engage Joe Tinker, the Chicago shortstop, to manage the team next year. He paid little attention to the early reports of a proposed change, believing that Mr. Herrmann would give him another chance to make good as a manager, but when he learned for a certainty that Tinker had been in conference with the Redland chief during the past few days and that plans were now under way for a trade with Chicago, whereby Tinker would become the property of the Cincinnati Club, he decided to act.

It is not expected that O'Day's retirement from the management of the Reds will end his career in major league baseball, with which he has been identified for many years, first as a pitcher and later as an umpire. O'Day and Bob Emslie were the deans of the National League staff at the time that the latter resigned as an umpire to accept the management of the Reds. President Thomas J. Lynch and the National League club owners would undoubtedly welcome O'Day back as an umpire, and it is thought here that he will be seen in his former rôle when another season rolls around.

O'Day's reign as a manager, while it cannot be called a big success, can hardly be classed as a dismal failure. His start was one of the most sensational in the major league history, and for a time it looked as if the Reds, with the Giants, would run away from the other six clubs of the National League. Then came a bad slump, which lasted most of the season and put the club out of the running. The team showed another brilliant flash in the closing games of the season and finished in fourth place.

POLY PREP CLASS GAMES.

Seniors Win Point Trophy, with Sophomores Second, in Brooklyn.

Athletes of Polytechnic Institute surpassed past performances yesterday at the annual inter-class games which were held on Poly Prep field, Gravesend Avenue and Twenty-second Avenue, when they bettered the standards in every event except two in the series of eleven contests.

The class of 1913 won the point trophy with a total of 40 points, 1914 tallied 29, 1915 scored 22, and the Freshmen scored only 8. All those youngsters who had won their letters at Poly or any other school with which they might have been identified before going to the Institute were barred from competition.

The only events in which standard was not beaten were the pole vault and senior high jump. The mark for the 100 yards junior and 440 yards senior were equaled and altogether good performances obtained throughout the series. The summaries:

100-Yard Dash, Senior.—Won by R. Luce, 1913; C. Staudinger, 1913, second; C. Ferguson, 1915, third. Time—0.10 4-5.

100-Yard Dash, Junior.—Won by W. Hinchman, 1914; H. Doehler, 1916, second; R. Preston, 1915, third. Time—0.11 2-5.

440-Yard Run.—Won by T. Lloyd, 1914; A. Warner, 1913, second; H. Foddy, 1915, third. Time—0.59.

Putting Shot.—Won by C. Boucher, 1914, with 46 feet 4¼ inches; F. Huner, 1913, second, with 40 feet 10½ inches; J. Frass, 1913, third, with 40 feet 3 inches.

One-Mile Run.—Won by Proctor Knight, 1913; L. Earle, 1915, second; F. Kimball, 1914, third. Time—5.10 3-5.

One-half Mile Run.—Won by Donald Knight, 1915; R. Burnham, 1913, second; T. Lloyd, 1914, third. Time—2.17 4-5.

Running High Jump, Senior.—C. Tyrrell, 1914, and C. Staudinger, 1913, tied for first with 4 feet 10 inches; C. Kitching, 1913, and L. Yawger, 1913, tied for third with 4 feet 8 inches.

220-Yard Run, Senior.—Won by R. Luce, 1913; C. Staudinger, 1913, second; C. Ferguson, 1915, third. Time—0.26.

220-Yard Run, Junior.—Won by H. Doehler, 1916; W. Hinchman, 1914, second; R. Preston, 1915, third. Time—0.26 2-5.

Pole Vault—K. Lyons, 1915; J. Meserole, 1915, and J. Brotherhood, 1915, tied at 8 feet.

Running Broad Jump.—Won by R. Ravenhall, 1914, with 19 feet 5¾ inches; R. Luce, 1913, second, with 18 feet 1¼ inches; A. Warner, 1913, third, with 18 feet ½ inch.

NO REFEREE OUTSIDE RING.

Commission May Compel Third Man to Work on Stage with Boxers.

The question of whether a boxing referee should be in the ring or outside the ropes came up for a long discussion at yesterday's meeting of the State Athletic Commission, which supervises boxing in this State, and it is expected that a definite ruling on the subject will be made in the near future. From the opinions expressed by the commissioners yesterday it is more than probable that the decision will be in favor of the American method, which is that the referee must be inside the ropes with the contestants.

The discussion was brought about by the attempt of the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club to follow the English system under which the referee sits outside the ring and shouts his instructions to the boxers. This system has been in vogue for three weeks, but it apparently is not meeting with much favor with the commission or with the public. The official outside the ring does not exercise the same control over the boxers as the referee who is inside the ropes, and he is not in as good position to see whether one of the boxers is in distress. The commission has already adopted several rules for the guidance of referees during a bout and in view of the present disfavor of the English system a definite ruling will probably be made soon.

The Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club sent a communication to the commission asking permission to stage a bout between an American boxer and an expert in "La Savate" from France. Experts in this game use their feet the same as an American boxer uses his hands and employ them very cleverly in both attack and defense. The letter to the commission was signed by Harry Pollok who declared that it was his intention to get "one of the best artists in France" for the proposed exhibition. The American boxer who was to be used in the bout was not named. The commission decided that such a contest would hardly be considered a boxing bout, for which the club had been granted a license and went on record as opposed to any such exhibition.

It was announced that two letters had already been received in answer to the appeal for a national boxing commission sent out a few days ago. One came from Ben D. Crose, the leading spirit of the boxing game in Indianapolis, and the other from P. J. McIntyre who occupies a similar place at Cleveland. Both men announced themselves as strongly in favor of the proposed federation for the national control of the sport and declared that they would gladly lend their aid to the movement. Letters were sent to clubs in every State in the Union but some of them have not yet reached their destination so answers are not expected for some time.

The old Liberal A. C. of Rosebank, Staten Island, passed out of existence yesterday and a new club under a similar name and occupying the same quarters was licensed. The old license was surrendered, but the new promoters presented a new lease and the usual bond, and another license was issued.

The only complaint received at the meeting was against the Richmond A. C., another Staten Island Club. The complainant was "Ribs" Howard, a colored boxer who presented a contract which he had with the club whereby he was to receive $25 for boxing ten rounds. The referee stopped the bout during the second round and the club refused to pay the money agreed upon. The club officials will be cited to appear at next week's meeting, at which time a decision will be rendered.

It was stated at the office of the commission that no time had been set for the hearing of the case brought against Commissioner Frank O'Niel by Al Palzer, the heavyweight boxer. It was reported in sporting circles yesterday that Palzer had been married, and that the case would not be heard for at least two weeks or until he returns from his wedding trip.

KIRKWOOD DEFEATS KLINE.

St. Louis Boxer Gives Opponent Sound Beating at Fairmont A. C.

George Kirkwood of St. Louis was too clever a boxer for Patsy Kline to cope with at the Fairmont Athletic Club last night, and the Newark boxer was soundly beaten in a ten-round bout. Kirkwood made a very favorable impression, for, aside from his quick boxing, he successfully blocked and ducked Kline's vicious swings and showed that he carried a hard punch in either hand by landing heavily on Kline's jaw.

The bout teemed with action from the start, and although Kline kept up an incessant attack on Kirkwood, the St. Louis boxer held him off with a clever defense and jabbed his head and body with short, effective left and right hooks. Kline took long chances with his dangerous swings, but most of them went wild.

One of Kline's left swings caught Kirkwood's jaw in the second round and sent him staggering to the ropes, but he covered up cleverly and prevented Kline from following up his advantage.

The third round was a slashing contest of fisticuffs, Kline first getting the upper hand by sending Kirkwood down for the count with a left swing to the jaw.

While the crowd was cheering wildly for the Newark boxer, Kirkwood showed great recuperative powers, and went right back at Kline, decidedly outboxing him, and just before the round ended whipped a right jolt to Kline's jaw which sent him heavily to the floor.

Kirkwood had an advantage in height and reach, and worried Kline throughout with a left jab. The Newark boxer tried in vain to land his wild swings, but Kirkwood was too quick for him, and was out of reach when they started.

In the ninth round Kline landed a heavy right swing on Kirkwood's jaw, but he covered up cleverly and was back at Kline before the blow gave him an advantage. Kline kept boring in without a let-up, but was met in all his rushes with straight, effective jabs.

Kid Williams of Baltimore defeated Billy Fitzsimmons of Yonkers in a ten-round bout. Williams, as usual, was as lively as a bunch of live wires, and for six rounds he smashed and jabbed Fitzsimmons as he pleased, and danced around him so fast that the Yonkers boy landed but few blows.

In the seventh round Fitzsimmons, who then seemed to be decisively beaten, surprised Williams by landing several hard body punches. Williams kept jabbing Fitz's face, and had the blood flowing freely. With swollen face, and with the odds very much against him, tired Fitzsimmons showed remarkable gameness and stayed to the end, although Williams gave him a gruelling beating in the ninth and tenth rounds.

Johnny Waltz of Jersey City stopped Joe Marto of Baltimore in two rounds.

ACCEPT CHALLENGE FOR RACE

Britons Will Defend Harmsworth Trophy Against Americans.

Immediately after the international motor boat race at Huntington in September, when the British boat Maple Leaf IV. was declared the winner of the Harmsworth trophy, the holder of that trophy, the Motor Boat Club of America, placed in the hands of A. Jackson Stone, the American representative of the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England, a formal challenge for the British international trophy of 1913.

At a regular meeting of the Motor Boat Club of America, held last night at the Automobile Club of America, at which Commodore H. H. Melville presided, he read a letter from W. A. Jupp, Secretary of the Royal Motor Yacht Club, in which he acknowledges the receipt of the challenge, and states that he is instructed by his committee to inform the American club that the challenge has been accepted. The race, it is said, will take place in the second week in August, following the Cowes regatta.

Commodore Melville said last night that several boats have already been ordered that will compete for the honor of going abroad to race for the trophy, among them one that will be built in Portland, Ore.

The question of awarding the international one-mile speed record trophy, a challenge cup for motor boats, presented by Otto H. Heins to the Motor Boat Club of America, came up for discussion, but by reason of the absence of the timers, Messrs. McHugh, Mahnken, and Dieges, no decision could be arrived at without the verified times taken by them when T. Coleman Dupont's boat Tech, Jr., was said to have covered one mile of the six on Sept. 5 in 1:11 1-5.

The following members were appointed as a Nominating Committee to choose officers for 1913: Henry R. Sutphen, John M. Shaw, Joseph H. Hoadley, J. Stuart Blackton, and Frederick K. Burnham, who has just returned from a long trip in the Far East.

DICK MASON NEW SPEEDWAY CHAMPION

H. B. Clark's Fast Pacer Wins First Honors in Fall Season's Brushing.

The Fall brushing season of the Road Drivers' Association of New York on the Harlem Speedway closed yesterday with the competition of the final matinée, which was followed by the cup presentation ceremonies to the owners of the three winning horses in the trotting and pacing classes at the clubroom in Durando's Road House.

The season comprised ten matinées of brushing, the winning horses being credited on a point basis for the six silver cups presented by members of the association. The most noteworthy performance of the season was that of H. B. Clarke's black pacing gelding Dick Mason, which carried off the first cup of its division with a total of 34 points. The second cup in the class was captured by I. V. Hunt's brown mare Clover Patch, which corraled a total of 26 points, and the third cup went to James Shannon's brown gelding The Rube with 25 points.

The season's races between the trotters was much closer throughout, as the second and third cups were awarded to C. Webber, owner of Hendell, and L. Smith, owner of The Trip, each having scored 25 points. The first cup was taken by G. B. Conklin's Oakland Boy, which preceded the other two horses in the point standing by the margin of only three points.

An innovation was instituted during the season just closed in which a class for colts under three years was scheduled, and in addition to the regular cups a special trophy was donated for this class, it being won by George W. Morgan's chestnut mare Tillie, driven by Sam Goldsmith.

Dr. J. H. Ferster, the moving spirit of the organization and to whom a great deal of credit is due for the successful sport witnessed on the drive since he has taken up the reins, made the closing address of the season, in which he presented the owners of the successful horses with their cups.

The season was well up to the standard of previous ones, and during each matinée from ten to thirteen events were carded with well balanced fields. The most wonderful performance of all was undoubtedly that of Dick Mason, who, after losing the first two or three races at the opening of the season, came on and proved a consistent winner, lowering the colors of all the others on the drive. The feature event of the closing card was the Class A pace, which was won by Dick Mason in straight heats. The summaries:

TWO JOCKEYS INJURED.

Teahan and Byrne in Spill at Pimlico—Horse Worth Badly Hurt.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—In a spill in the fifth race at Pimlico to-day Jockeys Teahan and Byrne were severely injured, and Worth, this year's Kentucky Derby winner, was so badly cut that he probably will not race again. The jockeys were taken to a hospital, where it was said the X-rays would be used to-morrow to determine the extent of Teahan's injuries.

At the first turn McTaggart, on Worth, bore in so closely on Nonpareil, ridden by Byrne, that both horses fell heavily. Hamilton, ridden by Teahan, and Inspector Lestrade fell over them a moment later. Byrne's scalp was lacerated and Teahan was hurt about the back. Worth had two tendons cut.

Worth is owned by H. C. Hallenbeck of New York, and is valued at $30,000.

Philadelphia Horses May Race Here.

About two weeks ago a movement was started by members of the Road Drivers' Association of New York to arrange intercity racing between amateur drivers of New York and Boston, to be contested on the local Speedway previous to the opening of the Old Glory sale. The Boston horsemen were communicated with and replied in favor of the affair, but suggested that the races be run on Wednesday and Saturday of the week of the sale. This, of course, would be impossible in view of the fact that nearly every horse owner and follower of light harness racing attends the annual sale. The local body has been in a quandary over the matter and as yet have not reached a favorable decision.

When the movement was first started there was no intention of inviting the Philadelphia horsemen, but word has been received to the effect that the Quaker City drivers would be willing to contest against the metropolitan drivers. The Philadelphians are willing to accept any terms and dates.

Junior A. A. U. Championship.

Col. William B. Hotchkin of the Twenty-second Regiment, President of the Military Athletic League and one of the Governors of the Amateur Athletic Union, yesterday informed James E. Sullivan, Chairman of the Championship Committee, that the Twenty-second Regiment would cheerfully grant the Amateur Athletic Union permission to hold its National junior indoor championships at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, 68th Street and Broadway, on Saturday evening, Jan. 4. Chairman Sullivan announced that the following events would take place: Sixty-yard dash, 220-yard run, 600-yard run, 1,000-yard run, two-mile run, mile walk, sixty-yard hurdle race, 3 feet 6 inches; standing high jump, standing broad jump, twelve-pound shot put, and running high jump.

SHERMAN POOL VICTOR.

De Oro Defeated in First Block of 200 Points by 200 to 129.

Frank Sherman of Washington led Alfredo De Oro, the champion, at the end of the first block of 200 points in their 600 point match for the pool title, last night at Doyle's Academy, with the score of 200 to 129.

Both men played wonderful pool generally, with the ultimate winner the steadier on the whole. The academy was crowded with enthusiasts, who applauded the many fine tries liberally.

The game overshadowed the former game as played, because of the new conditions which allow "one ball free" at the end of each frame with but fourteen balls racked up. This warrants any amount of manoeuvring for position on the last ball on the table, which proved a decidedly interesting factor in the game.

Sherman won the break and played safe, which effort was duplicated by the Cuban. The Washington man then picked off the 1 4ball on a beautiful cut, and amassed three before stopping upon a side-pocket try. De Oro then essayed a bank, trying for a combination, which he made a fizzle of. Sherman picked out a combination which helped to open up the layout, and he was not long in cleaning the table, leaving the "six" in fine position for the opening shot of the second frame.

The Washington man had to be content with three as his portion at this stage, as De Oro continually got a smash into the bunch for the total, and left himself in position for a break in the third frame, which he rather slipped up on by poling the object ball, but drawing it to the top of the table, warranting his miss of a long cut with the spheres spread almost perfectly for Sherman, who ran the remainder off with the score 30 to 12 at the end of the third frame.

In the next Sherman, despite the fact that he played some really remarkable cut shots, continued to make each succeeding shot harder for himself. He managed to annex eight to De Oro's six at this stage, the latter starting his "gather" with a rattling cut combination. He secured a nice "lie" for the free ball from the bunch, after which he rolled five, Sherman following by corralling the remainder.

The first scratches and real safety play of the game to date showed in the sixth frame when Sherman was debited for two safeties and his opponent one. Sherman rolled nice pool during the interim and wound up the session with the string showing 58 to 23 in his favor.

After each had tallied a ball in the next frame De Oro tried for a four-ball combination, with the cue ball the table's length away and nestled on the top rail. After his customary study of this type of shot he banged into the apparently intricate mass only to see the object ball join in the jaws of the pocket. Sherman was not long in accounting for what remained and with a bunch of 13 sent his total up to 71 against 24.

In the ninth frame Sherman pulled off a remarkable three-ball combination which caused the second ball to just slice the object sphere into the corner at a most positive angle, after which he was left almost absolutely safe. He finally took down nine for a total of 80 to 29, and supplemented this in the two succeeding frames by getting all the balls for an aggregate of 108 to 29.

De Oro was compelled to make a two-cushion bank safety play soon after the rack up in the eleventh frame. After perfect contact his cue ball ran the length of the table into the top corner for a scratch. The Washington man finally got the major portion with 8 to 6.

De Oro came into his own in the next frame after an era of seemingly foolish misses by each and poked in the 14, his first cleaning of the game thus far. He followed up this good showing in the next by gathering 10 before slipping up on a long shot, which he was compelled to play after being left in a bad position jammed on the lower rail. When the frame ended Sherman's string showed 120 to De Oro's 58.

After amassing four from the next layout Sherman essayed a combination which smeared the remainder "all over the lot" and left them so that De Oro had rather "easy pickings," as he promptly cleaned the table and made further inroads on Sherman's big lead. An unfortunate scratch after he had rolled four balls in, but which Sherman failed to claim, nullified what appeared to be another cleanup for De Oro. Sherman took advantage of the layout and pocketed the bunch, the strings at this stage showing Sherman 134, De Oro 71.

Sherman pulled off a beautiful combination at the beginning of the sixteenth frame, but after holing 2 more, slipped up on a short straight shot which jawed. De Oro did likewise after gathering 8 and the frame wound up with the tally, Sherman, 140; De Oro, 79. With 8 in the next frame and the 14 in the eighteenth, De Oro rounded the hundred mark and he showed just 45 points to the bad.

De Oro failed to get his eye on the balls in the remaining frames and was helped on the downward road by unfortunate scratches at critical periods. It was during these innings that Sherman was enabled to clinch the high run with 29 obtained in the nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-first frames.

Morrison Defeats Otis at Keeney's.

In last night's game of the amateur handicap three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at Keeney's Academy in Brooklyn Edward Morrison defeated Charles Otis by the score of 35 to 32 in seventy-five innings. Otis attempted to score 40 points before his opponent could tally 35. The winner made a high run of 5 points and Otis 3. In the final game of the tournament this evening Dave Lauderbach and Otis will be the contestants.

THE PROGRESSIVE FUTURE.

It would be inhuman to deny Senator DIXON any of the pleasure he may derive from the illusions of hope. He has been a dauntless manager. He has met the emergencies of a difficult campaign with a stout heart, and a pencil that has performed prodigies of prophetic ciphering. The Senator's forecasts of the Electoral vote and of the sweep of the Roosevelt victory have staggered and stupefied the most hardened members of the Ananias Club. But now that the election is over, it would be an act of mercy to sound a note of warning, lest the bitterness of the Senator's later disappointment be too much for him to bear.

Mr. DIXON has laid his plans for the future. The call for a meeting of the Progressive National Committee on Dec. 10 has been issued. Permanent headquarters will be maintained. The result of the balloting, said Senator DIXON when the worst was made known to him on Tuesday night, "makes the Progressive Party the "dominant opponent of the Democratic "Party. To-day the old Republican "Party becomes the third party in "American politics." We advise Mr. DIXON not to be too sure of it. The Republican Party has a great history, a long roll of honored names and of high achievements. It has been defeated, and the defeat was terrible. Its organization has been shattered. But the party lives and will live in the hearts of the millions who have believed in it, who have acted with it, who have been of it. A great political party is not to be snuffed out by the rebellion and assault of one audacious man.

Being a Progressive, Senator DIXON's eyes are turned always to the front. We do not suppose that he remembers the plight of the Democratic Party during the campaign and after its defeat in 1872. It appeared to be as dead as a door nail. WILBUR F. STOREY said it was a "putrescent corpse." Yet in 1874, the middle year of Gen. GRANT'S second term, the country gave the Democrats a majority in the House of Representatives. The parallel is worth pursuing further. In his most entertaining article upon the Greeley campaign of 1872, in the Century Magazine for November, Mr. WATTERSON says that the country's reception of the nomination of HORACE GREELEY by the Democrats was inexplicable to the politicians. "The people rose to it," he says. "The sentimental, the "fantastic, and the paradoxical in hu"man nature had to do with this. At "the South an ebullition of pleased "surprise grew into positive enthusi"asm." So it came about that the Democrats and the Liberal Republicans who had joined in supporting the Greeley candidacy grew hopeful. But Mr. GREELEY carried only six States—Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Wisconsin, Tennessee, and Texas. Mr. ROOSEVELT may have less than six. Of the popular vote Gen. GRANT had 3,597,070, Mr. GREELEY, 2,834,079. That was much better, relatively, than the showing Mr. ROOSEVELT made in Tuesday's vote, but the Liberal Republicans who had nominated Mr. GREELEY and left the Democrats no choice but to accept him were never heard of after that campaign. Many of them supported Mr. TILDEN in 1876; the others returned to the Republican fold.

Mr. ROOSEVELT has repeatedly said that what 'may happen' to the leader counts for nothing, the cause will live and go on. He is profoundly mistaken. He is not only the leader, he is the cause. We have no doubt that he will go on making all the trouble for the Republican Party that it lies in his power to make. But his power is woefully diminished. It matters not that he passes Mr. TAFT in the popular vote and in the Electoral vote. He has been rejected by the country, decisively and for all time rejected. He will not recover the place he once had. Nor will the "cause" persist as a sufficient basis for the action and the continuance of the new party. Whatever is worthy and sound and applicable of the principles of the Progressive Party will be taken over and assimilated by the Democratic Party and by the Republican Party. They have done it already as to many of the Progressive principles. The rest of Mr. ROOSEVELT's platform is waste matter and worse. The pernicious stuff he has preached about the Judges and the courts has been stamped on by the people. Moreover, the quality of the men he has been able to assemble about him gives no promise of even a short life for his party. They are not for a moment to be compared with the Republicans who took part in the Greeley movement. They are not of the kind the American pople accept and trust as leaders.

Let Senator DIXON proceed with his organizing labors. Let him assemble his committee and take thought about the future. Let him prepare to nourish the Progressive plant. It will need it, for it has no deep root. But we advise the Senator not to trust with too much confidence to his own prediction that his party will become the dominant opponent of the Democratic Party.

BRONX COUNTY CREATED.

By a vote of 38,872 to 28,274 the people of the Bronx have decided to pay for a County Government. Their vote on Tuesday ratifies the legislative act of April 19 last, which becomes immediately effective. Assemblymen, Senators, Supreme Court Judges, and Congressmen will be elected in districts as now apportioned in the Bronx, which will be the same "until constitutional and legal change," and the Electors will vote therein. At the general election in 1913 the new offices of County Judge, Surrogate, District Attorney, Sheriff, County Clerk, and Register of Deeds are to be filled; these officials are commanded to distribute a costly patronage in appointments of their staffs. Until Jan. 1, 1914, the present officers of New York County shall wield jurisdiction in the Bronx, and the County Court, Surrogate's Court, and terms of the Supreme Court will be seated in places to be designated by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund until the new Bronx Court House is erected. The County Courts will begin on Jan. 1, 1914, the Supreme Court immediately. The custody of prisoners of the Bronx shall be an express charge upon its people until the new jail is erected. Other administrative machinery must be housed, probably in more new buildings. The new staffs alone will cost $193,000 yearly.

It is a pretty penny the voters will have to pay for their assent to an arrangement that will benefit chiefly the politicians. This is the only city in the country that has counties within its borders. They ought all to be abolished, since they hamper and duplicate the government of the city. Their functions have been restricted. If they were destroyed they would cease to be a nuisance. But their offices are plums eagerly plucked at each election. The Bronx has been bunkoed.

MR. TAFT.

"He did not deserve it." These are the words that are on the lips of multitudes who were opposed to Mr. TAFT's election, and they are spoken with earnestness and sincerity. His defeat under any possible conditions in his own party could hardly have been avoided, but his pitiful showing in the Electoral College is the result of forces that are not to his discredit—quite the contrary.

Chief of these is the vindictive and treacherous enmity of Mr. ROOSEVELT, and this was aroused by Mr. TAFT's endeavors to discharge his public duty in accordance with the dictates of his own judgment. When he refused to consult solely the wishes of the ex-President he aroused in the mind of that domineering gentleman sentiments of jealousy, wounded vanity, and implacable hostility which finally inspired an elaborate organization, every wheel and cog of which was moved toward the one aim of crushing the President. Meanwhile Mr. TAFT, seeking to carry out his assumed obligation as to the "Roosevelt policies," made powerful enemies whom Mr. ROOSEVELT, with characteristic cynicism, enlisted in his campaign against his former friend. Never were more incongruous elements more ingeniously interwoven for a less worthy end than those rallied by ROOSEVELT to execute the mandate of his mingled spite and greed. At the last a curious force was directed against Mr. TAFT on which no one could have counted in advance. Mr. ROOSEVELT went so far, in his demagogic hunt for votes, in his appeals to the passions of the ignorant and the unthinking, that very many who supported Mr. TAFT's election, seeing it to be impracticable, voted for Gov. WILSON to defend the Nation from the possible calamity of Mr. ROOSEVELT's success. It was, apparently, these votes that brought the number of Taft Electors so strikingly low.

During the long agitation through which the country has passed while this ignoble plot was being carried out, Mr. TAFT has borne himself with dignity. He has not, even in the preconvention campaign, descended to the level of personalities indulged in by his foe. He has pleaded, not very forcibly but sincerely, for the success of his party and the principles which he believed it represented. His party was, in any case, doomed to defeat, but the President may, with entire reason, console himself with the reflection that he honestly represented its best motives and tendencies. When the popular vote is known the verdict will not seem so conspicuously adverse as it appears in the classing of the Electoral vote. And when the impartial historian estimates the good and bad in Mr. TAFT's public service, the judgment is bound to be that the former far outweighed the latter, and, we are confident, will be greatly more enduring.

NOW, THEN, ALL TOGETHER.

Presidents of whatever sort are elected by about one in twenty of us. Presidents who take an envied place in history are those who succeed in making themselves Presidents of the entire people by subordinating partisan considerations to the welfare of all. Accordingly, after an election the usual motion is in order to make the election unanimous. Every voter for the defeated candidates must be presumed to have voted for the successful candidate as his second choice. The President-elect to-day will be the President of all of us. He cannot cease to remember his party connections, but he should drop all feeling of opposition, and have a new feeling of open-mindedness toward all projects for the common weal.

If his party produces the best projects of law, well and good. If better projects come from the opposition—no longer in opposition to him, but only in opposition to his party—let the better law prevail. It was President TAFT's misfortune that the Republican way was not the better way, and he could not prevail upon his party to adopt the true Republican way, which is now the Democratic way. It will be the first duty of the new President to see that the way which we must all follow should be the best way, whatever its partisan label. WOODROW WILSON struck the true note in his last campaign speech:

> Everybody knows that business is going to be conducted at the old stand, not exactly in the same way, but in a very much better way, and that the firm name will be changed from Special Privileges and Company to the People of the United States.

He will be a fortunate President, and we shall be a happy and prosperous people, if he brings his words true. Legislation for the people, and not for class or privilege, is the Nation's greatest need. Party succeeds party, and one President after another passes, but the People remain. Let them support their President, and let the President rely upon their support as he can rely if he shall deserve it.

THE SOCIALIST VOTE.

Mr. DEBS's vote is larger than before, but BERGER, the only Socialist who ever sat in Congress, hereafter will sit at home. And Schenectady has reconsidered its vote for its Socialist Mayor, who made such an exhibition of himself at Little Falls. What is the philosophy of this increase of the National Socialist vote and the reconsideration of the local Socialist vote? One explanation may be that nothing was risked in voting for DEBS, since he had no chance of election. It seemed different whenever there was a chance that a vote for a Socialist might elect him. In that case all parties united to defeat the candidate whose election threatened the common good which Socialists have so much at heart and for which they so seldom make those sacrifices which they expect of others.

In other words, many are willing theoretically to vote for the beautiful impracticalities which they are unwilling to have imposed upon them in fact. The country remarks the sad results of the trial marriages to Socialism in Milwaukee and Schenectady and elsewhere, and recoils from like experiences. It is happy marriages which make other marriages, not the prospect of the chance of escape from unhappiness by divorce. When those who try Socialism persist in it there will be a better chance for others to adopt it than when those who experiment confess their failures to themselves and do not attempt to "keep up a front" about their domestic unhappiness.

THE PARALYSIS OF TURKEY.

Whether the Turks shall finally be driven into Asia is by no means settled even yet, but that the Ottoman Empire has forever lost its place as one of the European Powers is plain. It has been to all observers a very great surprise, and those who were supposed to be best informed have erred most widely.

The paralysis has shown itself most amazingly in the army, but if we reflect on the recent history of Turkey there are certain causes for it to which contemporary critics seem to have paid too little attention. In the first place there have been, within the last four years, three changes in the Government determined by the army. (1) The former Sultan was forced to accept a Constitution by a conspiracy of military officers directed by the Young Turks. (2) When he undertook a reaction by the use of his army he was deposed and imprisoned and his brother placed on the throne by another combination of army officers. (3) Finally the Young Turks were overthrown by still another military conspiracy. So that when the attack by the allies came it had long been a question, not what the Government could or would do with the Turkish Army, but what the army would do with the Government. Instead of an instrument for the defense of the Empire, the army had become the objective of incessant plots and counter-plots.

Nothing could be more demoralizing and enfeebling. The officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned, were constantly changed or shifted to promote the aims of the plotters. Discipline was impaired. Cohesion was destroyed, efficiency was reduced to a very low standard. The rank and file remained brave, enduring, and loyal, but as a fighting machine the army was hopelessly disabled. Not only was this true, but the vital departments of the whole military organization were thrown into confusion. Transport, communication, supplies of food and ammunition, medical provision, all were substantially put out of commission. At every point where the army was met these fatal defects were shown. Every element that entered into the resistance of Turkey to Russia thirty-four years ago, or into Turkey's punishment of Greece, except the stubborn valor of the peasant soldiery, was wanting. As the enemy was surprisingly efficient in all these elements—well trained, well officered, well supplied, and directed by able Generals acting in harmony on a carefully studied plan of campaign—the results which have astonished Europe have inevitably followed.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Study of War at Its Worst.

Even on the morning after a Presidential election there can have been no failure on the part of THE TIMES's readers to appreciate the fact that the long cable dispatch from ELLIS ASHMEAD-BARTLETT, sent from the little Thracian city of Constanza, presented not only a particularly vivid and moving picture of war, but one almost unique in that the phase of war it portrayed is not that which the professional observers of campaigns are looking for. Mr. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT himself doubtless would have preferred to describe the battle which preceded the Turkish retreat, to have compared the relative merits of the opposing commanders as disclosed in attack and defense. That, so far as he was able, he did in a previous dispatch, but after he was himself involved in the wild and dolorous flight of the beaten troops, after he, too, had starved and frozen, and, instead of standing coolly apart from the struggle as a spectator, had found himself forced to share all the hardships and most of the perils encountered by the vanquished, his interest became personal, not abstract. Hence the vivacity of his narrative and the sincerity with which he, an experienced campaigner, laid before us the ugly side of war. A fact worth noticing is that he made not a single reference to the "atrocities" about which we have heard so much from the other side. Had his dispatch been subject or subjected to Turkish censorship, that omission would have been explicable on the theory that he was not allowed to tell all he saw. The general tenor of the report, however, was so severely critical of the Turkish Government and the Turkish commanders that obviously no such censorship was exercised, and it is almost certain that no murderings or mutilations of the helpless peasants came under his eyes. Of course that does not prove that nothing of the kind has been going on, but it does hint the need of caution in accepting such stories from those who are not themselves famous for gentleness in the treatment of their enemies. NAPOLEON'S retreat from Moscow came to mind while reading the dispatch, but, terrible as that was, this seems to have been worse in everything except the weather—and that was bad enough. The Turks were pursued by a more efficient army, and they were flying, not from danger to safety, but to new dangers hardly less than those from which the miserable survivors escaped.

A Night Lively, Not Wild.

Careful observers of the crowds that gathered Tuesday evening around the various sources of election news then available to the general public agree in stating that they were larger than ever before on such occasions. Certainly the one surrounding the Times Building extended over so much space, all densely packed with men and women, that thousands and thousands were too far away from the bulletin boards to get the detailed information they provided otherwise than at second or third hand. The same thing was true at all the other newspaper offices.

As usual, the most marked characteristic of the crowds was the good humor of everybody in them, but there was a notable absence of the rougher manifestations of that good humor of which there have been too many in the past. Pretty nearly everybody "behaved," as parents say of children, with a familiar ellipsis as to how, and while some of the women who ventured into the throngs had reason to regret their courage, the injuries inflicted were unintentional, and reparable by sempstresses, not surgeons.

The multitudes made a lot of noise, but it could hardly be said—the campaign is over now—that they showed any great amount of deep emotion, either in the way of exultation over victory or disappointment over defeat. Of course, followers of all the candidates were present in enormous numbers, but none of them felt obliged to keep up the ante-election pretense that anybody's victory meant the immediate ushering in of the millennium, or anybody's defeat the erasure of the words "United States" from the maps. Everybody seemed to be out for a good time—and to have it. There was much enthusiasm, though none that without exaggeration could be called "wild," but there was no despair and no manifestations of resentment.

Probably the crowds were made up mostly of people who do not take elections with the desperate seriousness which campaign orators affect and try to create. Something of this equanimity may have been due to the fact that practically everybody knew beforehand what the result of the election would be, and that few of those who hoped for another result really expected it. That circumstance did not make for exuberance or excitement.

Thibet Is the Home of Plague.

Investigations recently made have revealed, it is believed, that the real home of the bubonic plague—the country whence it periodically emerges to ravage one or another part of the world where it can find multitudes of non-immune victims—is Thibet. There the disease does no great harm, for it long ago killed off everybody fatally susceptible to its attack, and it ranks as not much more serious than measles with us.

In Thibet, it seems, lives a hibernating rodent, the "tarbagan," a creature related to our woodchucks and ground squirrels, and about the size of a rabbit. This animal is the permanent host of the bacillus pestis, and it is when the tarbagan's fleas happen to be carried out of the country by rats that the plague reaches China or India and thence makes its way to other countries. In all of them it dies out sooner or later through the exhaustion of the expatriated strains of bacilli, but the epidemics will continue until the Thibetan rodent, whence they all start, is exterminated.

That will not be easy to accomplish, for both the flesh and the fur of the tarbagan are useful to the Thibetans, and they are about as little interested in the welfare of foreigners—and have about as little reason to be—as any people who could be named. The killing off of the dangerous little beasts must therefore be done by outsiders, if at all, and in the way of that there are many difficulties.

In commenting on this situation, American Medicine says it illustrates the concern which every nation has in the sanitary and hygienic good behavior of every other, no matter how remote or sequestered, and shows that warrant exists for interferences and compulsions which in other days none would think of undertaking. The disciplining of the Thibetans is a task that would naturally fall on the Chinese, and they could do it effectively if they would. The Chinese, however, will have to learn how to conquer disease themselves before they can teach their neighbors to do it.

MITCHEL ON SCHOOL REPORT

Prof. Moore's Findings Not Printed Because Valueless, He Explains.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I call your attention to the following facts in connection with the report of Prof. E. C. Moore of Yale University, submitted as a part of the work of the corps of specialists retained by the School Inquiry Committee of the Board of Estimate, upon which you commented editorially in your issue of Nov. 5?

Prof. Moore's report has not been suppressed or withheld from publication by the committee. On the contrary, it was published by the committee at the time of its transmission to the Board of Estimate, and has been at all times since, and is now, open to the press and the public at this office. The committee has no objection to the printing of this report by any person who desires to expend the necessary money, but it cannot sanction the expenditure of city money for the printing of a paper whose allegations and conclusions it knows to be unsupported and upon which it feels that it can place no reliance as a scientific and impartial study.

Let me state again, as the School Inquiry Committee points out in its report, rendered on Oct. 31, that this report was rejected by the unanimous action of the committee for the following reasons:

1. Prof. Moore was retained to investigate, and to report results of an investigation.
2. The report contains allegations and general conclusions unsupported by any facts cited or evidence submitted, many of which to the knowledge of the members of the committee and as established by public records, are absurd and false.
3. Certain of these statements, if true, reflect seriously upon the discharge of their functions by the members of the Board of Education and other responsible officials.
4. The committee addressed two requests to Prof. Moore for such facts and evidence as he might have in support of the above allegations and conclusions, and requested a statement of the sources from which such facts and evidence, if any there were, had been drawn.
5. Prof. Moore evasively declined to submit to the committee either his facts or the sources from which those facts were derived, or a statement of the offices in which his investigation had been conducted.
6. As the members of the Inquiry Committee would not receive a report such as this on the merest detail of the business of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, it concluded that much less could it afford to receive and to lend the sanction of its approval to such a report in so important a matter as the school inquiry.

It is further pertinent to remind you that the subject of Prof. Moore's report has, for the most part, nothing to do with technical educational matters, but deals with organization, the conduct of its business by the Board of Education, and the relation of the fiscal authorities with that board. Clearly upon these questions the members of the committee are competent to judge of the value and weight of evidence. Upon questions relating to purely educational matters the committee is prepared to accept the opinions of Prof. Hanus and of the various specialists.

Finally, the purpose of the inquiry has been, from the start, to obtain facts regarding the administration of the schools. With this end in view, experts were employed, and it was for this reason alone that the Board of Estimate has authorized the expenditure of city funds. Because Mr. Moore's report did not submit facts the committee has found it of no value to it in its inquiry. Its rejection followed as a matter of course.

Chairman, Committee on School Inquiry.

THE NATION'S HEALTH SERVICE

Imparts Information to Officials and the Public.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A letter to THE TIMES from William Porter, M. D., states, "There is no National department or central bureau of information where one may be enlightened in regard to health and disease of the human body." Dr. Porter is very much mistaken in his statement. I beg to refer him to an act of Congress, of Aug. 14, 1912, "An act to increase the efficiency and change the name of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service."

This is a Federal Bureau of Health, the United States Public Health Service, one function of which is to "collect, conserve, and propagate such information, as well as to encourage and supervise the study of medical and public health problems." Health reports are published weekly by the bureau, which may be had upon application. Bulletins on the latest experimental medicine and upon public health problems are issued at frequent intervals.

The service is always willing to impart any information on public health matters, when it is so desired. At the hygienic laboratory in Washington, research work of the highest character on disease of the human body is being conducted at all times. The officers of the service are requested by city and State health officials at frequent intervals to investigate the outbreaks of disease in this country. All epidemics occurring in the States have been controlled by this service. For further information on the subject I refer Dr. Porter to the Bureau of United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

On the Morning After.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Would it be possible—alas! I know it is not—to convince "T. R." that the true progressive, Woodrow Wilson, has been chosen; that it is Theodore Roosevelt, the man, who has suffered defeat; that the cause of the common people already triumphant will rest in safer hands than his? And while "T. R." has overthrown his once dear friend, and has secured in the country as a whole, though not in his own State where he is best known, a few more votes than Taft, he ought to reflect that many thousands threw their votes from Taft to Wilson for the sole purpose of defeating "T. R." Except for this fear Taft would undoubtedly have run second in popular vote in the race. Would that "T. R." might ponder upon these things.

Faulty Church Acoustics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I attended last Sunday's service at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and endeavored to hear a sermon of which the delivery was almost wholly destroyed by the echo. I have attended some other large churches and cathedrals that have this defect, which, in my judgment, makes them well nigh useless. I have attended also most of the theatres in this city, and find that none of them is affected with this ailment.

Why is it? Do folks go to church for the looks of the thing who go to the theatres to see and hear?

MR. WILSON'S CABINET

Will Be Sagacious Men, but Not Political Experts.

After citing the fact that "our recent Presidents have not sought their associates [of the Cabinet] among those whom the fortunes of party contest have brought into prominence and influence, but have called their personal friends and business colleagues to Cabinet positions, and men who have given proof of their efficiency in private, not in public, life," Woodrow Wilson, in his admirable treatise on "Constitutional Government in the United States," says:

> The Cabinet is an executive, not a political, body. The President cannot himself be the actual executive; he must therefore find, to act in his stead, men of the best legal and business gifts, and depend upon them for the actual administration of the Government in all its daily activities. If he seek political advice of his executive colleagues, he seeks it because he relies upon their natural good sense and experienced judgment, upon their knowledge of the country and its business and social conditions, upon their sagacity as representative citizens of more than usual observation and discretion; not because they are supposed to have had any very intimate contact with politics or to have made a profession of public affairs. He has chosen, not representative politicians, but eminent representative citizens, selecting them rather for their special fitness for the great business posts to which he has assigned them than for their political experience, and looking to them for advice in the actual conduct of the Government rather than in shaping of political policy. They are, in his view, not necessarily political officers at all. * * * Self-reliant men will regard their Cabinets as executive councils; men less self-reliant or more prudent will regard them as also political councils, and will wish to call into them men who have earned the confidence of their party. The character of the Cabinet may be made a nice index of the theory of the Presidential office, as well as of the President's theory of party government; but the one view is, so far as I can see, as constitutional as the other.

This very clear exposition of the President's Cabinet and its place in our system of government is particularly interesting just now in view of the fact that Wilson, writer of history, is shortly to be President, and to apply his theory to practice. In a sense, the President's Cabinet has taken the place in our American experiment of the King's Privy Council. It was found in the beginning of our Government that the President required the counsel of advisers upon whom he could place reliance in the discharge of his duties. It was believed by many of the most astute statesmen of the period that an Executive Council was essential to safe and regular Government, and various measures were considered looking to such an establishment. The President could not do all the work of his office without competent assistance, and, after much discussion and as necessity compelled, there were created by legislative act the several executive departments of the Government. It was found that entire dependence could not be placed upon groups of informal advisers, and finally the Cabinet as now constituted was evolved and has become a fixture of our Government. It was in the time of Jefferson that the real beginning of assembled consultation was made and through this inner council the President is placed in intimate and trustworthy touch with all the affairs of the country and is enabled to perform one of the very important functions of keeping the Congress advised of "the state of the Union."

⁂

The old theory was that the members of the Cabinet should hold the same political tenets as the President and the party that elected him. In the first Cabinet such was not the case, as in Washington's official family Hamilton and Jefferson, who were almost as far apart as the poles in their view of representative government, enlivened the proceedings doubtless oftentimes by their differences of opinion. After the retirement of Randolph from the Department of State, however, Washington himself, who deprecated the existence of party strife, organized a Cabinet the members of which agreed with him and with each other. John Adams, the first President who owed his election to a political party, adhered to party lines in the selection of his advisers, and since the Presidency became a political office political agreement between President and Cabinet has been "recognized as the prime rule to be observed in forming an Administration." It may not be a very desirable thing, but it has a great deal of human nature in it. There have been, in fact, a few notable departures from the rule, if such it may be called. In 1893, Walter Q. Gresham, who had been a member of Arthur's Cabinet, and had been a strong candidate for the Republican nomination for President, was appointed Secretary of State by Mr. Cleveland. There was much bitter criticism of this act of Mr. Cleveland by the spoils brigade, but the choice was made because of Mr. Gresham's acknowledged fitness for the office and because of the President's wish to wipe out purely partisan lines in the selection of a man to look after the foreign affairs of the country. Luke E. Wright, a Southern man and a Democrat, was appointed Secretary of War by President Roosevelt, and Jacob M. Dickinson, also a Southern man and a Democrat, was appointed Secretary of War by President Taft. "There are only two instances in which men have been called into the Cabinet immediately from the opposition. Lincoln, in his selection of Stanton to be his War Minister, set aside the prime rule of Cabinet making in order to secure a particular man." The other notable case was when President Hayes appointed David M. Key, a Southern man, to be Postmaster General in his Cabinet. "The circumstances which justify the overstepping of party lines in the Administration are exceedingly rare; and," in the opinion of Mary L. Hinsdale in her "History of the President's Cabinet," "nobody would advocate it as a practice, unless he were an independent of the most visionary sort."

⁂

In the making of Cabinets some rules have been followed. The appointments have been largely personal. That is not to be wondered at in view of the very close relation between the President and his Cabinet officers. This idea of selection for personal reasons obtained in Jackson's Cabinet and in Grant's Cabinet. With the selection of Cabinet officers geography has had a good deal to do. The conditions have been regarded as ideal where geographical situation could be combined with fitness and ability. In the early times Virginia was rich in Cabinet material, and New York, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts have all had possibly more than their share of Cabinet appointments. It was not until 1825, under John Quincy Adams, that the West was admitted to the Cabinet table, and prior to the war between the States no State west of the Mississippi River had ever supplied a Cabinet member. The spoils system has also had much to do with the selection of Cabinet officers, and in the division of the spoils it has been insisted that there should not be more than one Cabinet appointment allotted to a single State. This rule has been disregarded not infrequently. Another rule that was adopted when the Whigs stepped out and the Democrats stepped in was that a State which received a Cabinet appointment should not be given a foreign Minister. In the postbellum period the West has taken the place of the South in Cabinet appointments, and it was not until Cleveland's time in 1884 that the South was recognized in Cabinet appointments.

⁂

How Governor Wilson will build his Cabinet no one knows; but it can be confidently predicted that he will keep clearly in mind the view that fitness shall be the sole test of selection, and that his Cabinet advisers will be men of "natural good sense and experienced judgment," fully informed of the business and social conditions of the country; not "representative politicians, but eminent representative citizens" to whom he and the country can look "for advice in the actual conduct of the Government rather than in the shaping of political policy."

THE FALL OF PRIVILEGE

Must Be Sought Earnestly Under President Wilson.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At last we have come in this country to the turning of the ways, and we have made the right turn. It is for us, who have placed our feet in the new road, to go on, unafraid, to the destined goal.

And what is that goal? In a word, it is the attainment of a greener field of opportunity, of work, of exchange; the loosening up of the vast energies of our people that have, more and more, been constrained and palsied by restrictive and privilege-granting laws.

These laws, under the false and alluring form and name of "protection," have builded a wall about our country that, in shutting out and penalizing the world's commerce, has shut us in with our surplus productions, both actual and possible, and handed us over as victims to consolidated groups of producers and distributers.

That such a system must come to an end was as certain as the existence of inexorable laws of economics and of justice.

If wisely used, this election of Woodrow Wilson, with the principles he has openly espoused, should mean the closing of the era of fundamental economic error and cross purposes, which began with the civil war, and which, in those times of strife and confusion, darkened the councils of the Nation and obscured the vision of the people.

"Protectionism" had been weighed in the balance and found wanting: both great parties united, in 1857, in reducing the tariff of 1845, the Walker bill, the lowest tariff of our history. Both parties agreed that, as McKinley said nearly forty years afterward at Buffalo, "the period of exclusiveness is past."

Yet the war tariff, the Morrill bill, set in motion a new process of "protectionism" of ever-mounting taxation upon consumption, upon exchange and production, which, despite endless promises to the contrary and a ceaseless warfare against the system, culminated in the renewed betrayal of the Payne-Aldrich tariff of 1909.

There is, in my judgment, but one danger point, and that is a very dangerous one, as experience can amply testify. That point is the Senate of the United States, and more particularly the Finance Committee of the Senate. It was in this chamber, and in this committee, that the hopes of the people were wrecked in other years, and in years of as great promise as the present.

It was here that the Wilson bill of Cleveland's Administration was ruined and became a measure, as Cleveland said, "of party perfidy and dishonor." It was here, again, as Cleveland said, quoting the Irish poet Moore, that "the councils of the brave were palsied in their hour of might" by the traitors of their own camp.

The "pocket Democrats," who care more for steel and sugar and wool and coal and lumber and glass than for the consumers of the country, must be taught that they cannot again defeat the Nation's will.

The Finance Committee of the Senate must be organized for the people, and not for the trusts. The strongest factor in that committee in the past has been the Chairmanship. No "stand-pat" protectionist must be permitted to intrude himself into that decisive position. The history of Senator Aldrich's control of that point of vantage tells the whole story.

We will tolerate no Democratic Aldriches; we have wandered in the desert too many years again to go back there under the false leadership of protectionist near-Democrats.

May God grant our leaders courage and wisdom to meet the test.

Antiquated Wooden Cars.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in a recent dispatch that President Mellen of the New Haven Railroad condemns the steel car as hot in Summer and cold in Winter, and uncomfortable to a serious degree.

His statements are glittering generalities. Nothing could be hotter than a New Haven coach lighted by Pintsch gas on a Summer night, as any commuter will testify. The Pennsylvania has taken the lead in steel car development. It has succeeded in making its cars most comfortable in the coldest weather. So roomy and comfortable are its cars that many passengers prefer them to Pullman chair cars.

Must the traveling public of New England be forced to patronize old wooden cars at the risk of their lives until such time as the Pennsylvania brings the steel car to absolute perfection? Would it not be more to the point if Mr. Mellen would help attain this perfection by building more steel cars, and give the public the benefit of some protection during this process?

Election Day Noise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The seven trumpet blasts that shattered the walls of Jericho must have made a very insignificant noise indeed compared to the medley of blowing horns, clanging bells, and shrieking whistles that disgraced New York's streets all night long yesterday. The writer lives in a retired section, but, judging from the amount of noise made beneath his window, it seemed as if all pandemonium had been let loose. Sleep was absolutely out of the question. Every minute or two some fiendish Beelzebub would come along with an unholy contrivance designed to split the ear drums and set the nerves on edge.

There is no use in clamoring for anti-noise ordinances. The trouble is that Americans are still barbarians. They have not yet learned that noise is not the only way, nor the best way, to celebrate their patriotic holidays.

New York, Nov. 6, 1912. AESTHETICUS.

NOVEMBER.

Across the dreary waste of stubbled fields there floats
Faint warning of the storm, in muted notes
That rise and fall in cadence strange yet sweet,
As tho' some spirit hand the measure beat.
The welling sounds grow tense—an icy breeze
Sweeps bitingly thro' sparse, denuded trees
That bend and sigh in weirdly minor strain
To swell the bleak November's sad refrain.
As warring winds lift high the yearning cry
Of Winter's song, where storm clouds darkly lie,
The vibrant tones unloose th' imprisoned rain,
To fall back whence it came, to earth again.
Deep sadness marks the dread November's train;
Her tale the tale of Death—of verdure slain.
Yet flowers seek and find her warming breast,
And pillow there in dreamless Winter rest.

WM. ASTOR DRAYTON WEDS MISS SQUIERS

Grandson of Late William Astor Married to Daughter of Late Ex-Minister H. G. Squiers.

IN ST. MATTHEW'S, BEDFORD

Bridal Breakfast at Aratoma Farm, Country Home of Bride's Aunt, Mrs. Potter—Vincent Astor a Guest.

The wedding of Miss Helen Fargo Squiers, daughter of the late Herbert G. Squiers, who was United States Minister to Cuba and to Panama, and William Astor Drayton, son of J. Coleman Drayton of 829 Park Avenue, and a grandson of the late William Astor, was celebrated at noon yesterday in St. Matthew's Church, at Bedford, N. Y. The Rev. Dr. Lea Luquer, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with old lace and a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her brother, Bard MacD. Squiers, gave her in marriage. C. Gouverneur Hoffman acted as best man.

After the church ceremony, which was only witnessed by the relatives and a few intimate friends, on account of the bride's family being still in mourning, a bridal breakfast was held at Aratoma Farm, the country home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Frank Hunter Potter, at Katonah, the guests numbering about fifty. The decorations both at the church and house were chrysanthemums, roses and palms.

Mr. Drayton and his bride left later on their honeymoon, and plan to sail for Europe shortly.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Perry, E. R. Bacon, J. Coleman Drayton, Vincent Astor, Thorton Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Miss Julia Marble, Miss Marble, Miss Luquer, Mr. and Mrs. W. De Lancey Kountze, Dr. and Mrs. W. Percy Turnure, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Cochrane, Mrs. Francis Potter, Col. William Jay, and Mrs. Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew Wainwright, Miss Laura F. Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Marquand, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin, Mrs. E. Cowdin, Col. and Mrs. Leonard, Victor Chapman, Grover Harrison, Quentin Tod, and Robert Van Cortlandt.

MARRIAGE FEE PERHAPS $1,000

The Rev. E. S. Straight Said to Have Received Same from E. R. Thomas.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 6.—For two years clergymen of Newport have strongly opposed divorce as a body, and after the Ministers' Union was organized the question of marrying divorced people was thoroughly discussed. Members of the union will have nothing to do with divorced persons appealing to them for a marriage ceremony whether the party to the divorce suit may be the damaged person or otherwise. The Catholic clergy never would perform such a ceremony, so hereafter Newport may not be sought by couples wishing marriage where either party for the intended ceremony has been in the divorce court.

The Rev. E. S. Straight, the retired Baptist minister of Providence, a carpenter, can be secured for marriage ceremonies here, as he was the officiating clergyman for the Thomas-Finley marriage Tuesday, for which he received a fee reported to be $1,000. It is an easy matter for prospective bride or bridegroom from out of Newport to obtain a marriage license here, but they must wait at least five days before the license becomes operative. There is no limitation as to its time of use.

BELTRAMINI-SHELDON.

Miss C. Louise Sheldon Married to Edmund Beltramini at Sherry's.

Miss C. Louise Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Theodore Sheldon of 574 West End Avenue, was married to Edmund Beltramini of Detroit, Mich., last evening at Sherry's. The Rev. Dr. Joseph Carey of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a Court train and a tulle veil, and carried lilies of the valley. Mrs. Irving Hamilton Baker of Detroit was matron of honor and was gowned in white satin. The bridesmaids were the Misses Alez Bertramini of Rome, Italy, a sister of the bridegroom; Edith Halliday of this city, Nan Dore of Chicago, and Louise Broen of North Andover, Mass. They were gowned in cream lace, with pink panniers. They all wore pink Court veils and carried pink roses.

Miss Florence Simoni of this city acted as flower girl. She wore a frock of cream lace and carried a basket of pink roses. Cecil Rush of New York was best man, and the ushers included Irving Baker, Robert Ross, Warren Klein, and Emil Simoni.

There was a small reception after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Beltramini will make their home in Detroit.

MISS SANDERSON'S WEDDING.

Attendants for Her Marriage to Douglas Sloane on Nov. 20.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Sybil E. Sanderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Sanderson, to Douglas Sloane, son of the late Douglas Sloane of this city, which will take place on Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, at 8 o'clock, in All Angels' Church. The Rev. Dr. Ashly will officiate, assisted by the Rev. S. Delancey Townsend, rector of the church.

Miss Helen Sanderson will be her sister's maid of honor, and the Misses Katherine Sanderson, another sister; Veronica Wiley, Anna Sloane, Emma Cook, Helen Wills, and Arline Spitzer will be the bridesmaids.

Albert Bonner will act as best man, and the ushers will include Albert Newbury, Harold Frend, Harry Cammon, William Coffin, John Sloane, and Hans Jaeggli.

A reception will be held after the church ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 131 Riverside Drive.

Marx-Kaiser Wedding To-night.

The wedding of Miss Elinor M. Kaiser of 3,810 Broadway and Abraham B. Marx of 106 Central Park West will take place this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Majestic. The Rev. Dr. Aaron Eiseman will officiate.

Dance for Miss Dorothy Ward.

Miss Elizabeth Kirwin of 452 West 141st Street gave a dance last night for Miss Dorothy Ward, daughter of Mrs. Frank K. Ward of 3804 Locust Street, Philadelphia, whose marriage to James Dequignot of that city takes place on Nov. 12. Some of the bride's attendants came over to attend the dance, among them being the Misses Mary Dempsey, Ida Dequignot, Alice Schoettle, Rita Power, and Elizabeth Grady, who are to act as bridesmaids. Miss Kirwin is to be the maid of honor.

Mrs. Ward Gives Waffle Luncheon.

Mrs. John Seeley Ward gave the first of a series of waffle luncheons at the Woman's Exchange, Madison Avenue and Forty-third Street, yesterday. The guests were Mrs. Edward Bell, Mrs. George Brewer, Mrs. W. F. Chester, and Miss McLean. It was a home-made luncheon, codfish cakes, creamed eggs, and waffles for dessert. On the table were deep-toned tea roses, almost waffle color. Miss Helen Gould gives a waffle luncheon at the Exchange to-day.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Col. and Mrs. J. Wray Cleveland and their daughter, Miss Marjorie Cleveland, have taken an apartment at the Hotel Leonori, Madison Avenue and Sixty-third Street, for the Winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bottomley are now occupying their house at 112 East Fifty-fifth Street.

Miss Augusta de Peyster and Miss Francis G. de Peyster are at the Hotel Manhattan for the Winter.

Buell Hollister, who is to marry Miss Louise H. Knowlton on Nov. 14, is giving his farewell bachelor dinner to-night at the Union Club.

Mrs. John M. Carrère and the Misses Carrère have closed their country home, Red Oak, at White Plains, N. Y., and will be at the New Weston for the Winter.

Mrs. S. Barton French and Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse, who have been at the Ritz-Carlton, are sailing for Europe today. Mrs. Waldorf Astor is also returning to England to-day to rejoin her husband in London.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Edgar and Miss Mary Chapman Edgar, who spent last Winter at Williamstown, Mass., have returned to town and opened their home, 127 East Seventieth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead Ladd and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander von Gontard, who spent the Summer and Autumn on Long Island and at Poland Springs, have returned to New York for the Winter and are at Mr. Ladd's residence, 139 East Thirty-fourth Street.

Mrs. William Fahnestock is at the Plaza for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb at Shelburne Farms, Vt., are at the Hotel Gotham for a short visit.

Miss May Armour Ferguson, daughter of Mrs. Farquhar Ferguson and a granddaughter of the late H. D. Armour, recently sailed for Paris to finish her education there. She will probably make her début next year.

Miss Eleanore Marshall will make her début on Nov. 27 at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. James G. Marshall, at Normandie Park, Morristown, N. J.

Mrs. Richard P. Hart of 130 East Sixty-seventh Street gave a small dinner dance Tuesday night.

Mrs. Stuart McNamara and Mrs. Theodore F. Wood of 495 West End Avenue will be at home informally on Tuesday afternoons, Nov. 12 and 26.

Mrs. Emil L. Boas, who returned from Europe last week on the Cincinnati, will make her home this Winter at the Hotel Gotham.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carter of Philadelphia are at the St. Regis. Mr. Carter is sailing to-day for Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

BUSH CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

American Institute Fair Opens in the Berkeley Lyceum.

A chrysanthemum show opened last night in the Berkeley Lyceum at 19 West Forty-fourth Street. It was the eighty-first annual fair of the American Institute of the City of New York, and special prizes were offered by the Chrysanthemum Society of America. Specimens of the bush chrysanthemum which attracted so much attention at the Horticultural Society's Show in the Natural History Museum were on exhibition, though much smaller than those shown at the museum. Mrs. John Crosby Brown and her gardener, Peter Duff, who was the first man to show the bushes some years ago, entered the bushes at the Berkeley Lyceum.

The fair will continue to-day and tomorrow.

WINTER GARDEN'S NEW REVUE

"From Broadway to Paris," with Gertrude Hoffman to Open Nov. 20.

"The Passing Show of 1912," the present Winter Garden entertainment that has been running since July, will end its engagement in town on Saturday, Nov. 16, and will be succeeded at the Winter Garden by "From Broadway to Paris," a new musical revue, with Gertrude Hoffman as the principal performer. "The Passing Show of 1912" will go to Boston for an indefinite run with the present cast.

The Gertrude Hoffmann revue will open on Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, allowing Monday and Tuesday for final rehearsals. In the cast will be Louise Dresser, Sam Mann, Maurice and Walton, the Ahearn Troupe, Marion Sunshine, Cordelia Haager, Ralph Austin, George Austin Moore, George Bickel, James T. Duffy, George B. Shrode, James M. Harris, Milbury Ryder, and Henry Awd. Mlle. Bordoni will also be a member of the company, and will appear in one of her French scenes and sing three songs.

The book of "From Broadway to Paris" is by Harold Atteridge and George Bronson Howard, and the music is by Max Hoffmann.

Concert at Bazaar To-day.

At the bazaar for the benefit of the community house of the Fathers of the Blessed Sacrament, at Seventy-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue, there will be a concert this afternoon. Among the soloists will be Mme. Beatrice Goldie, accompanied by the Baroness von Groiss; Miss Roberta Beatty, accompanied by Miss McCall of Rochester, and Miss Leta Dealy of Brooklyn. Among those who will attend will be Miss Annie Leary, Mrs. J. Ball Hoffman, Mrs. George Perkins Lawton, Mrs. William Metcalfe Bliss, Miss Rosalie O'Brien, and Mrs. Allan Ryan.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Louise Mink has been engaged for a prominent role in "The Red Petticoat," the new musical play that is to come to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre on Nov. 13.

Harrison Grey Fiske has arranged for Mrs. Fiske to begin her season in New York at the Hudson Theatre on Tuesday, Nov. 19, in Edward Sheldon's new play, "The High Road." Mrs. Fiske is playing in Chicago at present.

Allan Aynesworth, who will be associated with William A. Brady in the London production of "Bought and Paid For," has announced that he has engaged Alexandra Carlisle for the role of Virginia Blaine. Miss Carlisle was to have come to America under Charles Frohman's management this Fall, but upon her recent marriage in London she asked to be released from her contract.

The final dress rehearsal of "What Ails You?" Henry W. Savage's production of the new farce by Rupert Hughes, will take place to-day on the stage of the Garden Theatre. Saturday the company will go to Baltimore to open at Ford's Opera House on Monday evening.

Cyril Keightley, who played in "The New Sin" at Wallack's, has been engaged by Charles Frohman for one of the principal roles in "The Spy," the Henry Kistemaeckers play that was produced at the Athenee Theatre, Paris, under the title of "La Flambee." Mr. Keightley will go to London for a month, returning here in December to begin rehearsals.

The opening performance of the Drury Lane melodrama, "The Whip," at the Manhattan Opera House, has been postponed again, this time until Thursday, Nov. 14, to permit of additional rehearsals.

Mme. Nazimova will make her first appearance in "Bella Donna" at Trenton, N. J., to-morrow night. Her company will include Charles Bryant, Frank Gilmore, Robert Whitworth, Edward Fielding, William Hassen, A. Romaine Callender, Claus Bogel, Arthur Hurley, Mrs. Leslie Faber, and Lela Lee.

Berlin Brings 2,310 in Steerage.

The steamship Berlin arrived yesterday from Genoa after a stormy voyage from Gibraltar with 507 cabin and 2,310 steerage passengers. On the vessel was the body of Mrs. James L. Truslow of Brooklyn and that of Elvira Ferber of Chicago, who died at Florence. The homeward rush of Italians to spend the holiday season with their families will commence with the sailing of the Berlin for Naples on Saturday, Nov. 16.

Hawthorne of the U. S. A. is too good to be true. Which, in a day when we have come to believe that truth is stranger than fiction, really means something.

It is, in fact, the kind of play that foreigners alone would take seriously, finding therein an example of American presumption and bad manners. But even one who was not of us would be likely to respect Hawthorne, U. S. A., when he jabs the Pretender, smashes the sword out of his hand with the swing of a chair, and goes swinging himself over a six-foot balcony down to the courtyard below. From which you will have gathered that this Hawthorne, U. S. A., lives up to his National reputation for getting into a scrap with both hands and feet if it comes his way. And, like every other good American, (let us now sing "The Stars and Stripes,") he is even willing to walk right out and meet it.

What is more, finding the Kingdom of Borrovina on its last legs, so to speak, and its gentle old ruler about to be deposed, he, Hawthorne of the U. S. A., gets into the thick of the plot, pays off the rebellious army, sends the ring leaders to the guard house, and ends by making smiling gardens where once was only desolation. Or, to be exact, he turns a non-paying hotel into about the best piece of property in Europe, finds curative qualities in a hitherto neglected mineral spring, and ends by having the entire population—royalty included—speaking the vernacular as it is spoken in his land—the land of Hawthorne of the U. S. A.

Then, lo and behold, in the midst of all this prosperity he alone has had no share. And, why, forsooth? Let us whisper it even as it was whispered to his royal Highness, Augustus III., King of Borrovina. "Hawthorne of the U. S. A. has learned that the Fair Princess Irma Augusta Elizabeth Overitch loves Borrovina better than she loves anything else in the world." And—have you guessed?—he loves the Princess. But he has ceased to hope. Wherefore? Could such glorious self-sacrifice go for naught? Never believe it.

Not even in romantic farce, where your desire to laugh and prate of impossibilities is very properly "called" before it has a chance. And, curious as it may seem, you are sure to go away very happy in the thought that this athletic young American and his Princess bride are sure of wedding bells and orange blossoms even if, presently, when Borrovina is a republic, she will not be Princess any more. Anyhow, a marriage will change that awful name of hers. And that is something.

Quite delightful fooling is Hawthorne of the U. S. A., with a peculiar but grateful blend of fun and fist, smile and smash, blush and brag. And quite charmingly it is done with a series of pretty picture settings, including the old sun dial of far away romance, stretches of hill and mountainside in the golden morning light, and the lovely purple hues of evening, with the twinkling town showing in the background.

And in it Douglas Fairbanks, that young man with a smile that invites confidence and muscles that enforce it, finds himself perfectly suited as the conquering young man from America. Nor is there reason to wonder when he succumbs to the attractiveness of the Princess, as she is very glowingly presented by Miss Irene Fenwick—now happily freed herself from a bad mannerism of speech which threatened for a time.

The rôle of King Augustus is beautifully done by Alan Pollock, who gives it a quality of royal aloofness unusual on the stage. And Ruth Allen, Martin Alsop, Ivan Simpson, and Henry Stephenson are others who add to the general effectiveness.

"Hawthorne of the U. S. A." is a romantic play where one may laugh and still feel that the illusion is not spoiled.

New Parker Play, 'The Paper Chase.'

The title of the new Louis N. Parker play in which Mme. Simone is to appear under the direction of the Liebler Company has been changed for the third time. At first it was called "The Yellow Domino," but that was thought too much like "The Yellow Robe." Then George C. Tyler decided upon "Versailles—1780" and immediately met with the difficulty of finding any two persons who pronounced Versailles alike. So "The Paper Chase" was chosen, because the plot of the play concerns a chase for a [illegible]

THE WASHINGTON EXODUS.

Society Will Miss Many Cabinet Officers and Their Families.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The decisive Democratic victory, while anticipated by Washington society, has caused many expressions of regret from the large circle of personal friends of President and Mrs. Taft, who are also interested in the many gaps that will result in Cabinet circles when the Government changes hands.

The Cabinet is for the most part a circle of much longer than four years' standing here. Many of its members have had a residence in Washington for ten years in various capacities, while the Secretary of Agriculture has held his post for fifteen years consecutively. The retirement of them all, however, is foretold in yesterday's ballots, while most of them will probably leave Washington for good.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Knox came to Washington in 1901, when the former entered the Cabinet of the late President McKinley. They purchased the house on K Street, where they still reside, and have become thoroughly identified with Washington society. They do not, however, propose continuing in their residence here after March 4, when they will go to their estate at Valley Forge for the Summer, and probably make Pittsburgh their Winter home.

The Secretary of the Treasury, on the other hand, intends to remain a Winter resident of Washington, where he built a handsome home on Sixteenth Street less than two years ago.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Stimson, the very last addition to the present Cabinet, will return to New York, where Mr. Stimson will return to the practice of law.

The Attorney General and Mrs. Wickersham, also New Yorkers, will resume their residence in that city. Mr. Wickersham entered the Cabinet with Mr. Taft's inauguration in 1909. Since then he has maintained an attractive home on Sixteenth Street.

Frank H. Hitchcock, Postmaster General, one of the original members of President's Taft's Cabinet, is a bachelor, and very popular socially. He was connected with the department of which he is now the chief for a number of years, and has made Washington his home almost from boyhood. He has not confided his future plans to any one, but is understood to have a responsible position in New York awaiting him.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Meyer, who have been active leaders of the Winter colony, will be greatly missed. Mr. Meyer served as Ambassador in Rome and St. Petersburg before entering President Roosevelt's Cabinet as Postmaster General. He has occupied a large house on Scott Circle, where the turkey trot is reported to have found its first Washington indorsement at the fortnightly dances in the white and gold ballroom.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Fisher have taken little part in society, having joined the Cabinet circle just a year ago, when Mr. Fisher succeeded former Secretary Ballinger. The Secretary of Agricultue, although officially seated next to the end of the Cabinet table, is the ranking member in point of service. He took his oath of office on March 4, 1897. He is a widower. His only daughter, Miss Flora Wilson, some years ago deserted society for the concert stage.

Secretary Wilson having reached the age of honorable retirement, will divide his time between his apartment in Washington, where his daughter comes and goes, and his sons in the West.

The Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Nagel propose to return to St. Louis, where they made their home prior to Mr. Nagel's appointment in 1909.

The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Huntington Wilson, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, the Solicitor of the State Department and Mrs. Chandler Anderson are all popular members of the official circle. Their friends hope that some of them will remain through the coming Administration.

CARUSO BACK WITH HONORS.

Brings Orders from Crowned Heads—Miss Farrar Well Again.

Many of the most important of the opera singers arrived yesterday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm. The list included Enrico Caruso, Geraldine Farrar, Emmy Destinn, Dinh Gilly, Hermann Weil, Adrianno Didur, and Karl Jörn.

The Italian tenor brought back with him many decorations which had been conferred upon him by the crowned heads of Europe before whom he had sung during the Summer. The Kaiser had given him the Order of the Red Eagle; the King of Wurtemberg, the Order of Arts and Sciences, and the Prince Regent of Bavaria, the Order of St. Michael. He did not care to talk about the imprisonment of Mme. Giachetti, but he did say that he had lost twenty-five pounds, and pointed to his waist line.

Geraldine Farrar said that she had completely recovered from the attack of ill health which made it necessary for her to give up the concert tour which was to have preceded the opera season.

Miss Destinn said that she had been resting this Summer in Germany and Bohemia. She brought her brother, Emmanuel Kittel, back with her.

PAGEANT TYPIFYING THE SEA.

Benefit for Women's Titanic Memorial at Century Theatre Dec. 6.

A benefit performance for the Women's Titanic Memorial is being arranged by theatrical managers, to take place at the Century Theatre on Friday afternoon, Dec. 6. The programme, in charge of Daniel Frohman, will include a symbolical pageant typifying the spirit of the sea. The book is being written by Charles Rann Kennedy, and the music by Manuel Klein. Edith Wynn Matthison will have the rôle of the Spirit of Woman; Julie Opp will appear as the Sun, and Ruth St. Denis as the Moon. The pageant will be staged by Frank Reicher and Wilfred Buckland, and the costumes are being designed by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Alexander.

Other features of the programme will be several one-act plays, performed by prominent actors. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. William D. Sloane, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Payne Whitney, and Mrs. George Gould.

REV. DR. HENRY S. NASH DIES.

Foremost New Testament Scholar Was Instructor and Writer.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—The Rev. Dr. Henry Sylvester Nash, recognized by many theologians as the foremost New Testament scholar in the country, died at his home here to-day.

Dr. Nash was born in Newark, Ohio, in 1854, and was graduated from Harvard in 1878 and from the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., in 1881. Trinity College in Connecticut conferred the degree of D. D. upon him in 1893 and Harvard that of S. T. D. in 1907. He was married June 26, 1888, to Bessie Curtis of Waltham, Mass.

Since 1884 Dr. Nash had been Professor of Literature and Interpretation of the New Testament at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. He had written "Genesis of the Social Conscience," "Ethics and Religion," "History of Higher Criticism of the New Testament," and "The Atoning Life."

PLANT TOO LARGE FOR WALDORF DOOR

Prize Chrysanthemum Furnishes Hard Problem for All the Hotel Attaches.

BIG WINDOW IS REMOVED

Addition to Blue Room Exhibit Was on Sidewalk While Its Blooms Increase.

For several hours yesterday a flowering plant waited outside the Thirty-fourth Street entrance to the Waldorf while Chief Engineer Bingham, the hotel florist, two assistant managers, a gardener, six porters, seven pages and two bellboys, not to speak of a number of dining room attendants and chambermaids, made plans to get it inside the building.

From a casual glance at the facade of the Waldorf, one would imagine it was big enough to hold any plant. It is. The trouble was to find a hole in the side of the building big enough to squeeze the plant through. The doorways on that side are bigger than ordinary, but they were not big enough. The plant was the celebrated 'Wells." Late pink chrysanthemum, grown on Adolph Lewisohn's place at Ardsley, and which had been on exhibition for several days at the Museum of Natural History. The number of flowers on the growth runs from 1,200 to 1,500. The former was the number when the plant left the museum, but had been swelled by 300 when the wagon carrying it reached the hotel, according to the official report.

Arrangements had been made to place the prize winner in the Blue Room and the Assistant Manager was informed it had arrived, he directed that it be brought immediately into the hotel. The gardener in charge of the plant smiled.

"Can't do it," he said. "It's too big."

"Open the revolving doors," said the Assistant Manager.

"That wouldn't help any," returned the gardener.

The manager looked at him hard, and then went out to see what the plant was like. Then he sent a hurry call for Chief Engineer Bingham. The latter was busy at something else, and refused to believe that any plant was tto big to come in through the revolving doorway. It was not until after luncheon, that he was persuaded that his services were needed. Meantime rumors as to the size of the plant spread through the hotel and everybody who could get away from work tiptoed out to take a look and offer suggestions. Finally the Chief came.

"Mercy me!" he ejaculated. Then he sent downstairs for a full plumber's kit. The plant is mounted on all sorts of wires, and the diameter is over eleven feet. One suggestion was that they take it downstairs in the outside elevator, but this was dismissed as impracticable. Another was that the side of the building be knocked in.

Finally the Chief's eye spotted one of the big windows, but whether you pulled down the top or pushed up the bottom, the aperature would not be big enough. There was nothing to do but take out both sashes, when a hole nine feet six inches high was available and through this the plant was slanted in.

Ex-Senator Wilson Dies Suddenly.

John L. Wilson, ex-United States Senator and owner of The Seattle Post Intelligencer, died suddenly early yesterday morning at a hotel in Washington, D. C., of angina pectoris. Mr. Wilson was born in Crawfordsville, Ind., and was 62 years old. He was a brother of Henry Lane Wilson, Ambassador to Mexico. Mr. Wilson served two terms in the House, and part of a third when he resigned to go to the Senate to fill the unexpired term of John B. Allen. His body will be taken to Crawfordsville for burial.

Very Rev. Dean Martin Gessner.

The Very Rev. Dean Martin Gessner, 83 years old, for fifty years a priest and for forty years pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church at Elizabeth, N. J., died Tuesday night after a nervous breakdown. He was noted in Elizabeth for his fight against the liquor interests. During his pastorate Father Gessner built St. Patrick's Church and built up its congregation until at present it owns real estate valued at $1,500,000.

Col. Nathaniel Plumm Lane.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 6.—Col. Nathaniel Plumm Lane, one of the few surviving heroes of the Seventh New York Regiment who marched down Broadway at President Lincoln's call for volunteers in the civil war, is dead at his home, 30 Van Houten Avenue, Passaic, N. J. He was 68 years of age. At the age of 17 and against his parents' wish young Lane enlisted in the Seventh Regiment, falsifying his age. He was wounded in the head at the battle of Gettysburg. Upon recovery he was made Lieutenant of the Sixty-sixth New York Regiment, and later Captain and then Colonel. He led what survivors there were of this regiment back to New York at the end of the war. Col. Lane lived in New York until a few years ago. A wife and one son survive him.

Add Your Profits To Your Principal

Have you studied the securities you hold, so that your money will be invested not only in the safest securities, but those which show you the best return on your money?

Supposing in the past you had bought a stock selling at $100 a share and paying a dividend of 5%! Supposing the price of the stock has advanced to $150 a share, it would then only yield you 3 1-3%. Supposing you sell this at $150, making a profit of $50 on your investment, or 50%, and take this $150 and invest it in a stock that will yield 5% or 6%, you are not only taking advantage of the increase in the value of the stock you originally bought, but are putting this back into another stock that will bring you a larger income.

We make a specialty of Odd Lots

Each week we issue a weekly letter dealing with one particular stock, which after careful study we believe a good investment, yielding a good return and also one which should increase in value.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Rise Sharply—Sales of Stock Exceed a Million Shares.

It would be easy to indulge in some interesting if not practically profitable theorizing regarding the sudden development of great strength and unusual activity in the stock market on the day following Mr. Wilson's triumphant success. The plain fact seems to be, however, that the market had been held in leash, so to speak, after having been depressed by extraneous factors below its normal position in view of the conditions which to-day and for many weeks have prevailed in the United States. To relieve the market of restraint it needed but the removal of all uncertainty, however slight that uncertainty had appeared to many, regarding the outcome of this year's choice of a President and the coincidence spread abroad of the belief that after all the worriment caused by the war now under way in Southeastern Europe the restoration of peace will be accomplished without the prelude of threatened conflict among any of the great powers. There had been those who had feared what from the stock market point of view would have been the worst outcome of the Nation's balloting, the failure of a choice of President. This fear made for hesitancy in the days immediately before election, and in the light of what happened yesterday it seems not improbable that the existence of these fears, even though they were not general, were seized upon as an occasion for increasing commitments on the short side of the account. There was a reckoning yesterday with those who had thus been seeking to borrow trouble of the future to their own advantage, but such a movement as occurred yesterday bespeaks strong underlying tendencies independent of the chance technical position of the market. Those tendencies have their foundation in the wonderfully favorable results of the year's farming with the concurrent expansion in practically every branch of trade, a condition at home supplemented by unusually prosperous conditions in trade abroad.

There has at no time been sound reason for the view expressed in some quarters that what has now happened in the choice of a new Administration of the National affairs of the country should lead to business disturbance. In his statement yesterday Mr. Wilson said: "Our hope and purpose is now to bring all the free forces of the Nation into active and intelligent cooperation and to give to our prosperity a freshness and a spirit of confidence such as it has not had in our time." A programme designed to carry any such purpose as this into effect, so far from offering an obstacle to the broadening of the prosperity into which the country has been entering, points only to a fuller fruition of the forces now making for larger and more profitable employment of the Nation's energy. Yesterday's movement of prices may do much to shape the opinion of those who are largely guided by the response the stock market makes to current events, but strength in the quotation for securities is but collateral evidence of the soundness of the view that the country's prosperity is not to be halted because of what happened the day before yesterday. How decided the movement is which took place on the Stock Exchange is amply indicated by the bare record of the dealings. It is worth noting, however, that strength was displayed in a number of issues which are under the influence of probable tariff reduction as well as in others, but remotely subject to the influence of tariff changes.

The enthusiasm aroused on the Stock Exchange by the improvement in security values overrode any thought of the influence of the monetary position upon the affairs of the Stock Exchange, but this is a factor which cannot be ignored should activity be maintained at anything like the scale on which dealings were conducted yesterday. Much money was repaid to some of the large lenders of call money which yesterday morning held their renewal rates at 6 per cent., but before the end of the day 6 per cent. was again being paid and a reminder furnished of the fact that the money position is still a close one. Firm money is not likely to, and, in fact, did not yesterday stand in the way of a readjustment in prices which was directly attributable to a previous acute depression in quotations. But high interest rates cannot be entirely ignored by the market and will become an increasingly potent influence as dealings expand and prices rise should yesterday's movement pave the way to further improvement in the security markets. Possibly other influences might prove controlling, but it seems clear that it is still too early to attempt to discount a return of money to normal ease, for so far as a judgment on the matter can be formed recurring periods of money firmness must be expected until the turn of the year. The very activity prevailing in trade, as suggested in yesterday's record of the country's output of iron in October, makes for an active demand for money which almost inevitably will hold rates at a fairly high level until the release of cash, which is now in active employment in the garnering and marketing of the crops.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 4¾@6 per cent., with the last loan at 5 per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 5 per cent.

Time money rates were 6 per cent. bid for sixty and ninety days, 5¾@6 per cent. four months, at 5½@5¾ per cent. for five and six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 5½@6 per cent. for the best names.

New York Clearing House statement: Exchanges, $427,902,800; balances, $18,766,399; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $307,800.

The local banks have lost $764,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4 15-16@5 per cent. for short bills and 5 per cent. for three months' bills; Paris, 3¾ per cent., and Berlin 4½ per cent. Money was 2½@3½ per cent. in London and 4 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25 francs 23½ centimes, and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 53½ pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows at the close of business yesterday:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.86¼; demand, $4.8570.
Paris—Cable, 5.18⅞ less 1-64; check, 5.19⅜ less 1-64.
Berlin—Cable, 94 11-16; check, 94⅝ less 1-32.
Switzerland—Cable, 5.20⅝; check, 5.21¼.
Holland—Cable, 40.21; check, 40.17.
Belgium—Cable, 5.20⅝; check, 5.21¼.

SIXTY AND NINETY DAY BILLS.

London—Bankers', 60 days, $4.81¼; 90 days, $4.79½.
London—Commercial, 60 days, $4.81; 90 days, $4.79.
Paris—Commercial, 60 days, 5.23⅝; 90 days, 5.25 less 1-32.
Berlin—Commercial, 60 days, 93⅞ less 1-32; 90 days, 93 5-16 plus 1-32.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

Boston, par; Chicago, par; St. Louis, 25c discount; St. Paul, 10c premium; San Francisco, 35c premium; Montreal par at 15⅝c premium.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Beet Sugar and the Tariff.

The expected having happened in the election of Gov. Wilson, speculators were somewhat at a loss at the opening of yesterday's market to know whether prices had already discounted the success of the candidates on the Democratic ticket or, if not, whether the result should be considered a bull or a bear argument. Beet Sugar always acts nervously when any one mentions the tariff, so an experimental raid on that issue was made soon after the opening. It met with even greater success than a similar attack last Monday. From the opening sale, at 63, the stock sold down to 56, a loss of 7 points in less than thirty minutes. The rest of the list, which had opened with gains, showed a disposition to follow Beet Sugar, and flour traders were almost without exception very bearish. Outside buying orders quickly carried Beet Sugar back to 61¼, where it closed with a loss of an even 2 points for the day. It was almost the only issue to show a loss of any consequence at the end of the session. When the market turned Beet Sugar lost any standing it may have had as a leader.

Tariff But One Factor.

The perpendicular decline of 7 points in American Beet Sugar yesterday was not generally accepted as incontrovertible proof that Democratic success at the polls meant serious hardship to the beet sugar industry. Some saw in the decline little more than a reversal of the movement by which the stock some time ago was carried up almost as rapidly as it declined yesterday.

⁂

Sharp Rise After Decline.

The sharp rise in prices took place only after a decline which ran to a point or more in some of the leading issues. In the afternoon, when the whole market was advancing enthusiastically, there were some who were asking derisively if the morning's break of something over a point represented the extent of the panic which the Republican orators had been so confidently predicting before election in the event of Democratic success.

⁂

Paying the Third Party's Way.

Wall Street was disposed to dismiss with some show of merriment the outcome of a Presidential canvass to which two well-known Wall Street figures are said to have contributed not less than $250,000 apiece. That would not have been much, it was suggested, to have promoted success, but it seemed a good deal to spend only to meet with failure. The retort of those less lightly disposed toward the discomfiture of the Bull Moose Party in Tuesday's balloting was that the expenditure of the money had not been a failure since it went toward meeting the expenses incidental to the establishment of the third party. This in effect amounted to a suggestion that what the new party failed to get this year it can strive for again.

A New Oil Dividend.

The Standard Oil Company of Kansas declared its first dividend yesterday. The board voted to pay a "regular" dividend of $3 a share, and an extra dividend of $2. If this disbursement were continued at regular intervals it would mean $20 per annum on the stock. Apparently this is a disappointing return for a Standard Oil subsidiary, for the shares, which closed Monday with a quotation of 375 bid, 400 asked, sold off rapidly on the news of the Directors' action. The break carried the price down 95 points, from which it later rallied 17 points, to 292.

More Small National Banks.

Out of fifteen National banks authorized to begin business in October thirteen had capital of less than $50,000 each. Twenty-six applications to organize National banks were received in the month, and of those pending before the Controller seven were approved and two rejected. The additions made in October increased the number of banks in operation at the close of that month to 7,428. These banks have a total capital of $1,053,670,435.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

From the opening at 9.30 o'clock until the close at 3 business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was on a heavy scale. Transactions totaled 100,465 shares, the first hundred-thousand-share day in nearly six months, it being the biggest day since May 16 last, when the total was 100,800 shares. The fluctuation record of the day represented three movements—advances at the start, then a sharp setback succeeded by a rapidly rising market in the late afternoon. The closing upward movement extended to buoyancy, with a heavy volume of buying on the part of commission houses. The transactions in the half hour before business began elsewhere in Wall Street totaled 12,760 shares.

Bank of France's Position.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France when issued to-morrow will show a decrease of 3,200,000 francs in gold holdings and an increase of 1,100,000 francs in silver.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

United Cigar Stores Makes a New High Record on Heavy Volume of Sales.

The election holiday proved beneficial for the Curb traders as well as for the brokers on the Stock Exchange. Trading was on a larger scale than for some time past, and many issues showed increasing firmness. United Cigar Stores of America made a new high record at 118, on sales of 22,000 shares. American Machine & Foundry Company, the shares of which were distributed to stockholders of the American Tobacco Company as an extra dividend attending the dissolution process, broke from 61 to 48 on realizing sales.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Americans Advance in London and Then Decline—Better Tone on Continent.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There was a fair demand for money yesterday morning in connection with the repayment of a considerable total to the Bank. When these operations were completed the rate for day-to-day advances fell away rapidly. The terms for fixtures were easier. The banks showed little more readiness to take bills, and discount quotations consequently were a shade lower.

"The Vienna exchange moved in favor of London. To-day a large amount of loans was again due from the market to the Bank. It is expected that a fairly big parcel of sovereigns will be withdrawn from Egypt.

"A firm tone prevailed in the stock markets in the morning. Consols early displayed strength and an accumulation of buying orders lifted the quotations of most securities usually favored by Continental operators. Generally speaking business was rather more active than of late, operators here and on the Continent being inclined to take a more hopeful view regarding the foreign political outlook.

"The foreign market was firm throughout, and although stock appeared to be rather more plentiful in the consols market, prices were well held.

"Shipping securities again came into favor, and on the whole the tone of the mining market was not unsatisfactory, although here, as in other directions, final quotations were not quite the highest of the day.

"As the victory of Gov. Wilson had been regarded as a foregone conclusion, there was very little excitement in the American market. Dealers began to assemble in the Street at a very early hour, but business was by no means active, and prices showed only slight variations up to the time the House opened. Buying orders from the Continent then caused a general advance, and in the afternoon Wall Street at first showed a disposition to take stock on profit-taking. Sales quickly followed and some leading shares lost the whole of their advance, the market finally showing irregular movements on the balance, with rises predominating."

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The election of Gov. Wilson and the belief that a way will be found to settle the Balkan war without complications influenced the Bourse to-day, and prices were notably firm.

Three per cent. rentes 89 francs 32½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—A better feeling prevailed on the Boerse to-day owing to Turkey's desire for peace and Governor Wilson's election.

Prices closed generally higher.

GREAT WESTERN HOPEFUL.

Losses Last Year, but All Expected to be Made Up This Year.

Earnings of the Chicago Great Western Railway in 1912 amounted to $12,795,000, which is an increase of only $177,000 over the preceding year. The surplus for the stock was $183,609, as against $767,907 earned last year, and is equivalent to less than one-half of 1 per cent. on the stock. President Felton says:

"The work of efficiency in all departments has been continued, except for the interruption of the past Winter, when the weather conditions interfered with efforts at economical operation.

"The prospects for business at the time of writing this report are unusually bright—the best since the company was organized. The crops on the Great Western and in the States tributary to its line have never been better. General business is increasing rapidly and we look forward to a very satisfactory year. In fact, the prospects are that the losses of the past year will be more than overcome, and the surplus for the year ending June 30, 1913, should be the largest since the organization of the company.

"During the past three years over $14,000,000 has been expended on this property and its equipment. The result of this expenditure should produce further economies in operation, and it should be especially noticeable because the work is practically completed, and while it was in progress naturally the operations of the property were more or less retarded."

B. & O.'S GOOD SHOWING.

More Equipment Needed to Handle Company's Growing Traffic.

The Baltimore & Ohio, whose income account for 1912, recently published, showed an increase of $4,450,000 in revenues and of $1,078,000 in surplus for the stockholders has issued its full pamphlet report. In this President Willard announces that the programme for the expenditure of $50,000,000, realized from the sale of three-year notes decided upon soon after his election, is approaching completion and is already showing good returns.

"In this connection it will be noted that the company was enabled during the past year to carry 786,879,352 additional tons one mile, an increase of 6.72 per cent. with no additional transportation cost; in fact there was a decrease of $67,265.51 under the preceding year," he says. "That there should be this decreased cost in transportation, with an increase of over 7 per cent. in freight earnings, is largely due to the raising of the average train load to 554 tons, compared with 440 tons the preceding period, an increase of 26 per cent. With the final completion of the work now under way, it is believed that a considerably larger volume of business may be handled and with more marked economy.

"The immediate response to these increased facilities, however, in the way of additional developments on the company's lines, suggests the necessity in the near future of further expansion, particularly at terminal points, and the addition of equipment necessary to care for the constantly growing traffic."

COMMISSION INVITES AID.

Suggestions Toward Appraisal Improvement Will Be Welcomed.

The first business session of the commission appointed recently by President Taft to investigate the operations of the Board of United States General Appraisers was held yesterday in the library of the Custom House. Winfred T. Denison, Assistant United States Attorney General, is Chairman, and William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port, and Felix Frankfurter, law officer of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, are the other two members. Others present during the session were William M. Wemple, Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of customs litigation, and Frank L. Lawrence, a special attorney connected with the Treasury Department.

Mr. Denison said that yesterday was devoted to a general discussion regarding procedure, and that suggestions were made for increasing efficiency and bringing about economy in administering the affairs of the Appraisers' Board. Sessions will be held weekly after to-day.

The Chairman said he would welcome suggestions from all persons who have dealings with the Board of Appraisers. All such suggestions or recommendations or criticisms presented in writing will be considered by the commission.

STEEL TONNAGE ENORMOUS.

Pig Iron Production, Too, Has Made a New High Record.

A new high record was set during October in the country's output of pig iron. The Iron Age, discussing this record and other features of the iron and steel trade, says in its issue of to-day:

> With the election over, opinion in the steel trade is just what it has been in the months in which a change of administratoon has been considered foregone—that the outcome will not disturb the status of any part of the enormous tonnage now on the books of producers.
>
> Some mills have reported that new contract inquiry has been smaller of late, but the Steel Corporation's statement for Oct. 31, to be published this week, will show a further increase.
>
> Both in pig iron and steel ingots nearly all steel companies reached new high points in output last month. The Steel Corporation's ingot production was over 1,600,000 tons, or at the rate of 60,000 tons a day.
>
> Due to the striving for records at steel works blast furnaces, more pig iron was made in October than in any thirty-one days in the history of the industry. Our returns show a total of 2,689,933 tons, or 86,772 tons a day, against 2,463,839 tons, or 82,128 tons a day, in September. Fifteen furnaces were added to the active list in October, and the 281 furnaces in blast Nov. 1 were producing at a daily rate of 88,317 tones, or 5,000 tons a day more than on Oct. 1.
>
> Pig iron production is now at the remarkable rate of 32,600,000 tons a year, counting 1,000 tons a day for charcoal iron. The previous high rate was 31,600,000 tons in February, 1910, at the culmination of the buying movement starting in the Fall of 1909.

The Iron Trade Review summarizes the steel trade situation thus:

> Leading steelmakers view with no undue apprehension the results of the Presidential election, and express the opinion that the iron and steel industry is now in such full swing that political changes are not likely to have any early effect. Confidence is declared by leaders in the trade that the present prosperous conditions are assured, in their judgment, for a year or even eighteen months ahead. The usual ante-election pause in business has been felt in some degree in the iron and steel trade, but in different directions there has been a surprising amount of new business placed, which sharply contrasts with other Presidential years, and reveals the frequently mentioned fact that the country appears to be going ahead without particular regard for political affairs.
>
> Last month was the greatest October in the history of the lake trade for movement of iron ore. Shipments amounted to 7,010,219 tons. The total lake movement this year will amount to more than 48,000,000 tons, and, with addition of all-rail shipments, the grand total for the year will be very close to 50,000,000 tons.

VERDICT FOR SHUBERT.

Sylvio Hein Loses Suit Brought for $2,000 in Royalties.

Lee Shubert won a verdict yesterday in the Supreme Court in the action brought against him by Sylvio Hein, the composer of "Judy Forgot" for $2,000 in royalties. Mr. Hein contended that Mr. Shubert was legally liable for his contract with Daniel P. Arthur, the now bankrupt manager, who was in co-partnership with Mr. Shubert during the season of 1910.

Prior to the production of "Judy Forgot" Mr. Arthur contracted with Mr. Hein to write the music for the play, and royalties were claimed from Mr. Shubert on the ground that the play was produced under joint management. Max D. Steuer represented Mr. Shubert in the case.

Bonds for 59th Street Line.

Theodore P. Shonts, Edward J. Berwind, and Harry Bronner, who were named as a committee to reorganize the Central Park, North & East River Railroad Company, have applied to the Public Service Commission for approval of a proposed plan, and have asked permission for the reorganized company to issue 1,100,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds and $500,000 capital stock. The application will be heard by the commission on Nov. 8.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

All Domestic Staples Develop Late Strength—Coffee Weak.

Wheat declined early on the cables, but showed good recovery later, with shorts general buyers. Corn was firmer after a low opening influenced by less favorable weather conditions. Oats also rallied with better speculative demand. Provisions opened lower on a decline in hogs, recovering at the close. Cottonseed oil showed an improved undertone. Cotton moved irregularly. There was considerable profit-taking, but later a gradual advance on the firm spot situation. Crop estimates still vary considerably. Coffee was weak in absence of support.

WHEAT.

Wheat, after a weak opening at which new low records for the season were made, rallied and advanced 1@1⅛c, closing at about the best point of the day, and at a net gain, compared with Monday's close of ⅝@¾c. The opening weakness was due to the weakness of the cables, and to the pressure at the interior owing to the liberal movement. At the decline the offerings were not so pronounced, and reports of a large export business at Winnipeg brought a sharp rally in that market, and caused active covering in American markets. The export business in Winnipeg was, it is understood, made up of heavy offerings cabled Tuesday night on the low prices at Winnepeg and accepted Wednesday morning, bringing active covering of shorts. There were no export sales reported in American markets. The export situation in American markets as well as the domestic situation at and east of Buffalo is a very serious one. A practical embargo has been apparently put on grain shipments from Buffalo very materially handicapping the distribution of grain to domestic markets, making serious complications in exporting wheat already contracted for, and putting a practical stop on any new business. Such situation, of course, does not apply to the Canadian roads. In the absence of ability to distribute the grain either for domestic or export account, the heavy movement at interior markets will be more and more a factor in the contract market. Receipts were not so heavy for the day, evidently owing to the holiday. The increase in the visible supply was under expectations. The gain was 2,466,000 bushels in domestic stocks, 1,226,000 bushels in bonded wheat, and 1,866,000 bushels in Canadian wheat. Bradstreet's American visible increased 6,984,000 bushels. European stocks decreased 3,400,000 bushels, making a net increase of 3,589,000 bushels, against an increase of 12,016,000 bushels last week. Secretary Fowler of the Canadian Grain Dealers' Association reported the Canadian wheat crop 183,000,000 bushels for the three Northwestern provinces, compared with 194,000,000 bushels last year. Cash wheat was nominal; No. 2 red, $1.07; No. 1 Northern, 97¼c; No. 2 hard, Winter, 99¼c; No. 1 Manitoba, 99c.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market sold at new low levels early, influenced partly by the weakness in wheat, but later steadied and closed at a small net advance for the day. Weather conditions were rather unfavorable east of the Mississippi, and there seemed to be an absence of liquidating pressure. The visible supply showed a decrease of 311,000,000 bushels for the week, and the stock of old corn is only 2,689,000 bushels. Cash corn was quiet, with the export grade quoted at 56½c, free on board, December to March.

OATS.—The oats market was a little lower at the opening with other grain, but rallied and showed a steady tone later. Offerings were not so heavy, and cash oats at the interior were quite firm. The visible supply increased 1,841,000 bushels in domestic oats. Bradstreet's total increased 2,900,000 bushels, including Canada. Cash oats were quiet, with No. 3 white quoted at 38½c; No. 4 white, 37@37½c, and white clipped, 38@40½c.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was weak early on a lower hog market, influenced also by the weakness in grain. Later there developed quite active covering of shorts, influenced by the improvement in other speculative markets, and prices closed at a small net gain.

COTTONSEED OIL.

There were fair advances recorded in the oil market yesterday. For a time offerings were moderate and it was asserted that refiners were selling, but in the late dealings considerable short covering was reported, presumably the undoing of hedges for other refining interests. The strength in cotton was not without influence, as sentiment at the South has been affected, and mills are not marketing freely. Crude at the Southwest was quoted at 4.80 to 4.87, with Valley 4.87 to 4.94, and Texas crude at 4.74 to 4.80. There were tenders of moderate proportions on November contracts, but offerings induced by the circulation of these notices were readily absorbed. A slight increase in speculative business has occurred, but there has not been a decided change in sentiment, which continues rather bearish, even though it is not aggressively so. Consuming reports are in the main more hopeful, but little has occurred to suggest that users of cottonseed oil have abandoned their conservative policy.

COTTON.

The irregularity which was witnessed during yesterday's cotton session was not unexpected in view of recent developments, but it was apparent that the declines which occurred, following slightly higher openings and the subsequent full recoveries to near the highs of the movement, were not gratifying to the many "reactionists." Sentiment seems to be swaying, and while the rise in quotations results in a certain amount of caution being displayed before accepting a position favoring further enhancement of values, there is little indication of aggressiveness among the bears.

The liberal business in contracts is unabated. Advances over the holiday were from 2 to 5 points, these gains based mainly on a steady foreign market and a wet map in the central and western part of the belt, but important profit taking brought about a setback of approximately 20 points. The ordinary news did not exert a great deal of influence, and it seemed as though the willingness of certain large spot interests and other bulls to continue their operations for a higher level, in conjunction with decided strength of Southern spot markets, intimidated some who were opposing the upward tendency of the list.

Several of the principal spot centres were said to be exhibiting an undertone of strength with claims that farmers were receiving full prices, especially for their superior grades. Moreover, the hedge pressure was not burdensome, notwithstanding the belief that cotton is being marketed at a normal rate, all factors considered. The movement is of substantial proportions, but it has been commented upon that shipments of cotton to the other side are increasing, and whereas the exports a few weeks ago were about 300,000 bales below last year they are now only 90,000 bales less than 1911. The weather has been quite satisfactory for picking and marketing, and it was predicted that to-day's map would disclose more favorable conditions in comparison with the report of yesterday.

The trade seems to be anticipating a ginning report on Friday of close to 9,000,000 bales, which compare with 9,971,000 bales last season, when to Nov. 1 64.1 per cent. of the crop was represented. In the moderate crop year of 1908-09 there was 62 per cent. of the crop given, or 8,192,000 bales. Memphis authorities wired that the National Ginners' Association made the amount ginned to the first of this month 8,930,000 bales. The general run of crop estimates still vary and are not conclusive. Crop Expert Lyle was credited with expressing the opinion that the outlook suggested a production in excess of any crop with the exception of last year. The estimate of John Swanson & Co. of Liverpool was for a crop of 13,440,000 bales, against their guess last season of 14,090,000 bales. The average of the estimates of the members of the Houston Cotton Exchange was for a yield of 14,258,000 bales.

COFFEE.

Coffee was active, sales amounting to 161,[illegible] bags. Prices declined steadily throughout, closing at bottom at a net loss of 17@25 points. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were easy at 10 to 15 points below Monday's prices, but business was small. Havre declined ¾ franc, while Hamburg was ½ to ¾ pfennig lower. Rio lost 75 reis since Monday, while Santos was 100 reis lower.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Directors of the Western Maryland Railway received yesterday the resignation of Alexander Robertson as President, to take effect Jan. 1. His successor has not been decided upon.

Chisholm & Chapman, members of the New York Stock Exchange, have opened a branch office at 320 Broadway, in charge of Harrison Kinnier.

Blair & Co. have notified holders of the Kansas City Southern equipment gold notes, Series B, that the notes will be paid at par and accrued interest on Dec. 1 upon presentation.

The Bankers Trust Company is asking proposals for the sale to it of five-year 6 per cent. gold notes of the Southwestern Utilities Corporation at not exceeding 101 and accrued interest. The trust company has on deposit for the purchase of these notes $1,968,000.

Clerks of the Citizens Central National Bank, who were invited four years ago to subscribe to a large block of the bank's stock, which President Schenck purchased for their benefit and arranged to carry for them, have completed their payments and received their certificates. The value of the stock has advanced $50 a share while the employes have been paying for it.

The Long Island Railroad has placed an order for six locomotives with the American Locomotive Company. The same company recently ordered thirty-four steel passenger cars, and expects to discard its last wooden car at the end of five years.

Joel Rathbone, a Vice President of the National Surety Company, has been promoted to the recently created place of Second Vice President and General Manager, while Actuary Carson and Superintendent of Agencies Draper have been made Assistant General Managers. Charles R. Frost has been appointed Treasurer. Percy Chubb and George W. Chauncey have resigned from the Board of Directors, and Vice President Allen of the Mechanics and Metals' Bank has been elected to the board.

J. H. Alexandre, Jr., a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and W. Everit Burnet, formerly of the firm of Effingham, Lawrence & Co., have joined under the firm name of Alexandre & Burnet, with offices at 7 Wall Street.

REORGANIZATION OF SOUTHERN IRON AND STEEL COMPANY.

Referring to the Modified Plan for the Reorganization of Southern Iron and Steel Company, dated July 12, 1912, notice is hereby given that John W. Platten has been elected as Chairman of the Committee in succession to Cecil A. Grenfell, who has resigned as a member of the Committee, and Alfred A. Cook has been added to the Committee.

There have been deposited and are now subject to the Modified Plan of Reorganization over 89% of the bonds, 88% of the secured notes, and over 91% of the debentures of Southern Iron and Steel Company.

In view of the large amount of deposits already received and the probability of an early sale of the properties of the Southern Iron and Steel Company, the Committee has extended the time for the deposit of bonds, secured notes, and debentures until the close of business on NOVEMBER 30, 1912.

Pursuant to the powers in that respect conferred upon the Committee by the Modified Plan, the Committee has determined to permit the holders of claims against the Southern Iron and Steel Company (in addition to the bonds, secured notes, and debentures) to participate in the benefits of the reorganization upon the deposit of said claims or a statement thereof, and, in either case, with an assignment thereof in form approved by the Committee, with the Depositary under the Modified Plan, to the extent and in the manner provided in an agreement dated November 4th, 1912, which the Committee has executed and filed with the Depositary, copies of which may be obtained upon application to the Depositary or to the Secretary of the Committee. Certificates of deposit will be issued upon the deposit of all such claims which may be made until the close of business on NOVEMBER 30, 1912. All deposits must be made with BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, the Depositary under the Modified Plan, at its office, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City.

No deposits will be received after November 30, 1912, except with the consent of the Committee and upon such terms as it may approve.

Dated New York, November 6, 1912.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE

Buffalo and Lake Erie Traction Company

First & Refunding Mortgage Five Per Cent. Thirty Year Gold Bonds

The undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of the above-named bonds. Bondholders are invited promptly to deposit their bonds with the Committee's Depositary, THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, No. 37 Wall Street, New York City, or with the Sub-Depositary, the GIRARD TRUST COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA, Pennsylvania; transferable certificates of deposit will be issued therefor.

The deposit agreement provides that the holders of certificates of deposit who may be dissatisfied with any plan submitted by the Committee, upon payment of a proportionate part of the expenses of the Committee (but not exceeding a sum equal to one-half of one per cent. of the par value of the bonds represented by such certificates of deposit) and interest moneys advanced, but without compensation to the Committee for its services, may withdraw their deposited bonds within three weeks from the commencement of the publication of notice that such plan has been adopted and lodged with the Depositary or Sub-Depositary.

Arrangements have been made for an advance on or after NOVEMBER 11TH, 1912, to the depositors of an amount equivalent to the interest due November 1st, 1912.

Copies of the Committee's circular and of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained at either of the above-named Depositaries.

Dated New York, November 2d, 1912.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Containers Pay Same Rate as Contents—Protests That Failed.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest filed by the Githens, Rexasmer Co. and others, regarding plain molded bottles, vials, demijohns and carboys containing merchandise subject to ad valorem rates of duty. Duty was exacted at the rate of 40 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 98 of the act of 1909, which provides for containers.

Invoices and entries showed that the containers were imported filled and that the contents were assessed at ad valorem rates in each case less than 40 per cent. The importers established that the containers were dutiable at these rates Judge Sharretts decided.

The Board also reversed the customs authorities on willow cradles returned for at 45 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures of willow. George Borgfeldt & Co., the importers, obtained a rate of 35 per cent. ad valorem as "baskets of wood," under Paragraph 214 of the present law.

Protests submitted without evidence and overruled were by Jacob Norton's Sons, the American Express Company, H. F. Drakenfeld & Co., Brandt Leather Company, the Stone & Downer Co., Carter, Rice & Co., C. H. Langley, Philip A. Rand and F. W. Witcher & Co.

COTTON DUCK EXPORTS.

The Year's Shipments Are Ahead of 1911 and the Demand Improves.

In spite of the sharp decline shown in customs figures covering exports of domestics and cotton duck from New York in the week ended Nov. 2, shipments of this merchandise since Jan. 1 continue to lead those of the same period last year in value by more than $1,250,000. Returns issued yesterday by the local Custom House showed exports for the week to have aggregated 4,165 packages, valued at $275,174.

Reports from the local export market concerning the demand from China conflict somewhat, but it is generally conceded that conditions are improving steadily. There was not much of a demand for the lighter constructions of cotton from that country, but one of the largest shippers of heavy goods yesterday reported some excellent business in the last week. The upward tendency of prices is an important factor in the present situation, and the delivery question is of no small moment.

MEN'S NECKWEAR ACTIVE.

Sales of Collars Touch Record Levels—Flat Silk Ties Selling.

Makers of collars and men's neckwear generally corroborate the optimistic report of the shirt manufacturers, and one of the dominant factors in the collar field tells of the largest business done in the history of the house. A number of attractive models have been brought out this Fall, among them cutaway effects and narrow tabs, and these, together with the more staple lines offered, have brought the season's sales to date to generally high levels.

The present feature of the neckwear field is the rapid growth of the demand for flat silks. These, in the opinion of one large concern, are fully 50 per cent. better than at this time last year. The better grades of knitted scarves are in a fairly strong position, but the general demand has fallen off appreciably.

LINEN DELIVERIES BEHIND.

In Some Cases June Is Earliest That Shipments Can Be Made.

The scarcity of desirable lines and delayed deliveries are the present features of the linen market. Representative houses report it is practically impossible to secure goods from abroad for delivery earlier than April, and for some linens June is the earliest date named. Prices are steadily advancing, and in most cases willingly paid.

That linens at present prices are cheap is no longer doubted by well-posted buyers. The upward tendency of the foreign market makes it equally clear that early buying will prove the only method whereby reasonable deliveries can be had. The largest buyers are no longer quibbling over prices. Colored linen suitings continue especially active, and there is now a shortage of these goods in the market.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The year 1911 proved to be one of the most prosperous and progressive in Rhodesia's history. In the report issued by the British South Africa (chartered) Company for the year ended March 31, 1911, it was shown that the year ended with a balance of $830,610 to the company's favor, compared with a deficit of $323,622 two years ago. The work of the company's commercial departments has been further organized and expanded, and its railway interests have been consolidated and extended.

Metallic filament lamps exported from Germany during the first seven months of 1912 numbered 20,000,000 and were valued at $6,000,000.

A new aerial ropeway for conveyance of passengers from the Eisack up the Kohlerer Mountain in the Tyrol has been completed, and will be opened shortly. There are two tracks, each consisting of a pair of steel ropes, supported by twelve steel towers, from which the cars, each having accommodation for sixteen passengers, are suspended. The tractive power is provided by ropes operated mechanically in a station at the head of the line.

This large brewing concern reports satisfactory service from our trucks for heavy hauling in and around Greater New York.

COTTON MARKET STEADY.

Jobbers Place Orders Well for Future Delivery—Prices Firm.

Jobbers in the cotton market are showing little, if any, hesitation in placing future business, and there is no let-up in the demand for both heavy and lightweight cloths. Price advances of ⅛ to ½ cent a yard on certain constructions have been made during the last few days, and the market continues strong.

Print cloths sold especially well during the week and the demand for wide goods increased. Some unusually large orders on dress ginghams for Spring were booked by one large house, and the demand for both fancies and staples picked up considerably. The call for bleached goods and sheetings is improving steadily. The production of some of the largest Southern and Eastern mills is already sold for the balance of this year.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Tower Manufacturing and Novelty Company, 306 Broadway, will move to its new building at 326 Broadway about Dec. 1. According to J. H. Einstein, head of the company, the entire building, affording about 100,000 square feet of floor space, will be occupied.

According to customs figures, exports, exclusive of specie, entered at this port in the week ended Nov. 2, were valued at $15,261,594. The largest shipments of the week went to England and Germany, and were valued at $2,941,294 and $2,547,656, respectively.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Reports from the haberdashery trade tell of some excellent sales of silk shirts for the Spring season. Several novelties in this line are now being shown on the road.

Soft laundered French cuffs are losing favor, and there is an increasing demand in the local market for stiff-cuffed shirts.

Women's hats in mannish styles are selling well for Spring. Tweeds and lightweight fancy fabrics are particularly favored.

Black and white checked volumes and cassimeres figure largely in the making of men's cloth hats for next season. The Alpine block is selling well at wholesale.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Property Owners in William Street Form New Association to Work for Subway—Dwelling in Artists' Colony Sold—Chelsea Section Deal—New Jersey Co-operative Farm.

The realty market following the election was very quiet yesterday, the few deals announced being small in character. The agitation for an amicable adjustment of the difficulty regarding the work on the William Street subway received additional impetus in the organization of another property owners' association to attain favorable action on the proposed transit plan. The members will corporate with the Downtown Interborough Association, which recently took unanimous action in favor of the route.

Among the sales of the day was a deal in the old artists' section of Macdougal Alley, near Washington Square, being the four-story dwelling at 8 West Eighth Street. A plot 25 by 100 has been sold by the firm of Leonard J. Carpenter for Mary A. Montgomery to a client for occupancy. The plot runs through to Macdougal Alley, on which is the old stable of the dwelling. The property is a Chisolm leasehold.

Deal in Chelsea Section.

Louis Schrag, in connection with Maclay & Davies, has sold for the estate of Michael J. Murphy 342 West Twenty-second Street, a four-story dwelling, on plot 21 by 98.9.

Heubleins Buy Walker St. Corner.

Gilbert F. Heublein and Louis F. Heublein are the buyers of the building at 72 to 76 Walker Street, corner of Cortlandt Alley. They are hotel proprietors at Hartford and New Haven. Gilbert F. Heublein has previously bought New York real estate through the Charles F. Noyes Company, through which the recent deal was made.

Henry Leerburger is the buyer of 60 Cliff Street, resold by the Noyes Company for Mandelbaum & Lewine.

Bronx Borough.

The three-story two-family brick house at 864 East 164th Street, on plot 19 by 73, has been sold by A. Martinband for Albert Adler to Louis Epstein.

John Fico has sold to Edward Schettini and Mrs. Carrie De Salvo 818 East 229th Street, a two-family house on a plot 25 by 100. Louis Marinelli was the broker.

Big Co-operative Farm for Jersey.

The Fellowship Farm Association has purchased from the estate of J. C. Letson at Stelton, N. J., 263 acres of land under cultivation.

The purchase was primarily made in connection with a movement for the establishment of small farms. The new colony to be established at Stelton will be in charge of Ernest H. Liebel. Each member will get an acre of land, upon which there is to be built a cottage for him. The Rev. G. E. Littlefield of Weston, Mass., is Director of the organization, which has about 125 members.

New Mountain Lakes Station.

The new Mountain Lakes Station on the Lackawanna Railroad will be opened Sunday and all trains, both local and express, will stop at Mounain Lakes.

A dwelling has just been sold to A. F. Raite, on a plot of ground 100 by 150 feet, and a large plot, directly extending to the water's edge, has been sold to Arthur T. Holton, which will be improved with a residence.

Leases.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co., Inc., have leased for a term of years, for S. Osgood Pell & Co., agents, the large street store facing the Carlton House in the Carlton Chambers, at the northwest corner of Forty-seventh Street and Madison Avenue, to the house of Philip Oriel.

Fighting for William Street Subway

David Rumsey, Vice President of the Continental Insurance Company, is organizing another association of property owners whose interests will be favorably affected by the construction of the so-called William Street subway route. Mr. Rumsey is also Vice President of the Fire Companies Building Corporation, owners of the new twenty-four-story office building known as 80 Maiden Lane. This is the largest building in the district.

The association now being organized will be known as the "Owners Protective Association" and its membership will consist of owners of property located in the area bounded by Nassau, Beekman, Pearl and Wall Streets. The association, while having separate counsel and an independent executive committee, will co-operate in every way with the Downtown Interborough Association which recently passed by unanimous vote resolutions favoring the route. The Downtown Interborough Association under the leadership of Charles A. Schieren represents 150 large property owners in the district north of Beekman Street to Brooklyn Bridge. Edward M. Bassett represents this association and is actively working in its behalf for the speedy legalization and the construction of the route. The Subway Committee of the Downtown Interborough Association consists of Charles A. Schieren, Alexander Gilbert, Albert H. Frankel, Major F. T. Leigh, F. A. M. Burrell, William H. Heller, and H. V. V. Black.

In addition to these two associations a third association is also fighting for the construction of the route. This is the "Abutting Property Owners Association" whose membership consists of the majority of the actual owners along the proposed route. The President of the association is William Jay Schieffelin.

Another Model Tenement.

Plans for a new six-story model tenement which will round out the development of the block bounded by Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets, Avenue A and Exterior Street, with such structures, have been filed by the City and Suburban Homes Company, E. R. L. Gould, President.

The new building will cover a plot, 102.2 by 117.1, at the southwest corner of Seventy-ninth Street and East End Avenue, adjoining the Junior League Residential Club, founded by Dorothy Whitney and other philanthropic women. It will cost approximately $100,000, according to the architect, P. H. Ohm.

Realty Notes.

The buildings at 140 and 148 East Forty-ninth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues, owned by the Maze Realty Company will be torn down this month for a nine-story apartment house. The Maze Realty Company occupies offices there but will move next week to its new building at 2,650 Broadway, between 100th and 101st Streets.

Robert McGill has loaned the Garfield Development Company $30,000 for the improvements to be made at 20 Rutgers Street and 142 Henry Street.

Are You
A Savings Bank Depositor?

THEN YOU ARE thrifty, you look out for the Future and have Common Sense.

BUT WHY get only 3½ or 4% interest on your money?

STATISTICS show that purchasers at auction sales along the northerly growth of the city have made during the last 20 years from 25% to 200% interest per annum on the actual money invested.

THIS LOOKS like a surprising statement. We can prove it.

WE WILL SHOW you what the lots sold for at auction and what they sell for to-day, and the tremendous increase in value and profit to the buyers.

THE NORTHWARD GROWTH of the city is doing it.

THE REASON WHY
These properties must be sold:

MR. FORSTER has been ordered to another climate on account of ill health.

He was formerly of Hackett Carhart & Co. Inc. now in the hands of a receiver.

MR. JOHN WHALEN is trustee for various banks, creditors of Mr. Schmitt. The property is being sold for the benefit of these creditors.

GO LOOK AT THE FORSTER-SCHMITT PROPERTIES AND ATTEND THE AUCTION SALE

A TYPICAL NEPONSIT HOME.

Here Is Home
Here is room. Here are opportunities. Here is a place to live all-the-year-round that mere adjectives cannot describe.
Here are refined and cultured people—neighbors worth while. Here are distinctive homes which any man would be proud to own. Here is the ocean on one side and Jamaica Bay on the other with all the pleasures they suggest.

Here is a Winter temperature averaging 10 degrees warmer than in the city—and in Summer 10 degrees cooler.

NEPONSIT
The Last Ocean Home Site in New York City.

Just 40 minutes' ride from your New York or Brooklyn office, on clean, speedy electric trains.
You, your tired wife and children will have refreshed nerves, renewed strength, keen appetites, and nights of restful sleep. And with it all, the comforts and conveniences of city life.
How do we know this? Because the folks who live here are proving it.
Visit Neponsit now. It was never more beautiful.
Here are cosy cottages and picturesque villas waiting for you—or you can build to suit yourself. Payments like rent. Build NOW and your home will be ready by Spring.
Be our guest at the Property Owners' $30,000 Club House. How about to-morrow or Sunday? Write or telephone to-day for tickets and descriptive booklet.

NEVINS, JULIE F. H.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Henry C. Nevins' Home for the Aged and Incurable, a Massachusetts corporation, Margaret Young, Ida Mason, Charles Strauss, and to all persons interested in the estate of JULIE F. H. NEVINS, late of the County of New York, deceased, as creditors, legatees, next of kin or otherwise, send greeting.

You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said county, held at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 20th day of December, 1912, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Jeane S. Neuscheler, Robert E. Rutherford and Joab H. Banton, as executors under the last will and testament of John Neuscheler, deceased, one of the executors and trustees under the last will and testament of said deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County, at the County of New York, the 4th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve. [L. S.]

DANIEL J. DOWDNEY,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

Referees' Notices

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF New York.—THE GREENWICH SAVINGS BANK, Plaintiff, against CLARA O. BARCLAY BAYNE AND ANOTHER, Defendants.

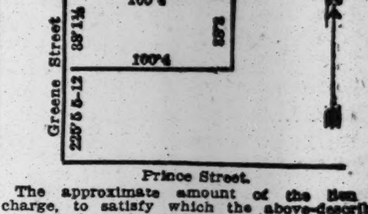
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 24th day of September, 1912, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 21st day of October, 1912, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Bryan L. Kennelly, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Eighth Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, and which, taken together, are bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point on the Easterly side of Greene Street, distant two hundred and twenty-five feet five and five-twelfth inches Northerly from the Northeasterly corner of Prince and Greene Streets, and running thence Northerly along said Easterly side of Greene Street, thirty-eight feet one and one-third inches to the centre of a party wall between the premises hereby conveyed and the premises next Northerly adjoining; thence Easterly along the centre of said party wall and on a line parallel or nearly so with Prince Street, one hundred feet four inches; thence Southerly, parallel with Greene Street, thirty-eight feet, three inches, to land of Louis Schoolherr, thence Westerly on a line parallel or nearly so with Prince Street, through another party wall and along land of said Louis Schoolherr, one hundred feet four inches to the Easterly side of Greene Street at the point or place of beginning, be said several distances and dimensions more or less.

Dated New York, September 26th, 1912.
LOUIS B. HASBROUCK, Referee.
B. AYMAR SANDS, Attorney for Plaintiff, No. 31 Nassau Street, Manhattan, New York, N. Y.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street numbers are 138 and 140 Greene Street:—



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is $32,311.34, with interest thereon from the 17th day of September, 1912, together with costs and allowance amounting to $343.63, with interest from September 24th, 1912, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is $664.50 and interest. Said premises will be sold subject to rights of tenants under yearly leases made by the receiver in the above-entitled action, and to party wall agreement recorded in the Register's Office of New York County, in Liber 1,174 of Conveyances, Page 30, and to any state of facts which an accurate survey would show.

Dated New York, September 26th, 1912.
LOUIS B. HASBROUCK, Referee.

The sale in the above-entitled action is hereby adjourned to Tuesday, November 12th, 1912, at the same hour and place.
LOUIS B. HASBROUCK, Referee.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, NEW York County.—AUGUSTUS VAN CORTLANDT, JR., Plaintiff, against AUGUSTUS VAN CORTLANDT and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, bearing date the 10th day of May, 1912, and entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on the 14th day of May, 1912, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction on the said premises, in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, on the 8th day of November, 1912, at 12 o'clock noon of that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, that portion of the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, described as follows:

All those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, which on a certain map entitled "Map of Property of the Van Cortlandt Estate, situated between Broadway and Sedgwick Avenue south of Van Cortlandt Park, in the Twenty-fourth Ward, Borough of the Bronx, New York City, surveyed by Earl B. Lovell, Civil Engineer and City Surveyor, April 26, 1912," and filed in the office of the Register of the County of New York as Map No. 1628, are known and designated as lots Numbers 205, 209, 321 and 322.

Said premises will be sold in separate lots as shown on the annexed diagram and as provided by said interlocutory judgment.

Dated, New York, October 17th, 1912.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The disturbance that was over Southeast Kansas Tuesday night has moved to Lake Erie, and in connection with a secondary disturbance on the Middle Gulf Coast that developed during Wednesday, has caused general rains over the South and the central valleys.

The disturbance over the North Pacific States was attended by general rains that extended into Northern Utah, Idaho, and Western Montana.

Over the remainder of the country the weather was fair.

Temperatures continued to rise in the Upper Ohio Valley, the Atlantic States, and are considerably above the seasonal average over the Northern districts. It is also warmer in the Rocky Mountain region.

There will be rain Thursday in the Atlantic States, followed by fair and somewhat colder weather Thursday night and Friday.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate southwest, becoming brisk over extreme south portion; Middle Atlantic Coast moderate south and southwest, shifting to northwest Thursday night; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk and shifting.

Steamers departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate south and southwest winds with unsettled weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Rain Thursday and colder in western portion; Friday colder and probably fair; moderate to brisk southwesterly winds, shifting to northwesterly.

New Jersey—Rain Thursday or Thursday night; Friday colder and probably fair; moderate southerly winds, shifting to northwesterly by Friday.

New England—Rain Thursday or Thursday night; Friday colder; probably fair; moderate to brisk southerly winds, shifting to northwesterly.

Western New York—Rain and colder Thursday, with brisk southwesterly to northwesterly winds; Friday fair.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain Thursday; Friday fair and colder; light to moderate southerly winds, shifting to northwesterly.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

EDUCATION NOTES.

There was to have been a hearing yesterday morning by the Municipal Civil Service Commission on the proposed amendment of the classification by including in the non-competitive class, under the heading "Positions in the Department of Education," two physicians for the examination of mentally defective children, the salary to be $1,800 a year, without maintenance. The Board of Education was asked to have a representative present, but none appeared, and the hearing went over to await action by the Board of Education.

Application has been received by the Board of Superintendents, through Superintendent Burns of the Skin and Cancer Hospital, for the appointment of a teacher from the public schools to instruct the twenty or more children in that institution. These children will be obliged to remain in the hospital for from one to three years. The Board of Superintendents will nominate a teacher for this work who will probably be appointed at the next meeting of the Board of Education.

A written examination of women applicants for license as assistant inspector of ungraded classes will be held by the Board of Examiners on Dec. 18 at 9 A. M. The oral examination of the applicants, including classroom tests in teaching and expression, will be given at the call of the Board of Examiners. The necessary qualifications are eligibility for License No. 1 and three years' experience in teaching classes of atypical children. The written examination will be upon (a) psychology and principles of education, with special reference to mentally defective children, and (b) methods of teaching and of class management. The oral examination will include practical tests in vocal music, elementary musical science, piano and manual and physical training for mentally defective children. The minimum salary for this position is $1,800 a year, and there is an annual increase of $100 until the maximum salary of $2,200 is reached. The list of eligibles will hold good for four years. It is proposed to appoint as soon as possible two persons to this position.

It was said yesterday that new Public School 47, Randolph Street, Lawrence and Hammond Avenues, the Bronx, would be opened on Monday next. The building has thirty-eight classrooms. The Principal is T. Adrian Curtis, formerly Principal of Public School 5, Webster Avenue and 189th Street.

The communication from R. P. Green, published in THE TIMES yesterday, stating that there are schools in this city conducted under the name of Ferrer or Modern Schools, where doctrines of disloyalty to the American flag are taught openly, was the subject of comment at the Board of Education Hall. Associate City Superintendent Stevens said:

> If there are such schools, let us find out more about them. Where are they located? Modernism, however, is entirely different from Ferrerism. The latter places Socialism above the State, and is anarchism. But, as a matter of fact are there such schools?

Owing to the continued illness of District Superintendent Seth T. Stewart, who has supervision of School Districts 41 and 42 in Queens Borough, Dr. John P. Conroy, recently appointed a district superintendent, has been instructed to perform Mr. Stewart's duties as well as his own until the latter's health is sufficiently restored to enable him to return to his work. For some time past District Superintendent Cornelius E. Franklin of Districts 13 and 15, Manhattan, has been doing Mr. Stewart's work as well as his own. He will now be able to devote his time solely to his own territory.

The Committee on High Schools and Training Schools, of which Commissioner Cornelius J. Sullivan is Chairman, held a meeting yesterday to consider recommendations for high school licenses. This matter has hung fire since last Spring. It is probable that the committee will make its report on this subject to the Board of Education in the near future.

The special committee which is investigating the methods of the Board of Examiners will hold another meeting next Wednesday evening. It is expected that, at that meeting, it will draw up the report, which it intends to present to the Board of Education.

The first regular meeting for 1912-13 of the High School Teachers' Association will be held on Saturday at the High School of Commerce. The department meetings will begin at 10 A. M., and the general meeting at 11 A. M. The topic will be, "More Efficient Organization of Our High Schools." The main address and announcement of new policy will be made by City Associate Superintendent Edward L. Stevens. Other addresses are expected from Dr. James Sullivan, Principal of the Boys' High School, on "How a Principal May Increase the Efficiency of His School," by Dr. Alfred C. Bryan, High School of Commerce, and President of the Association of High School First Assistants; by Miss Elizabeth Seelman, grade adviser, Girls' High School; by Miss Lina E. Gano, Wadleigh High School, President of the Women's High School Teachers' Association, and by Robert H. Keener, Bushwick High School, President of the Men's High School Teachers' Association.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved the following reports of Examiner Murray:

Recommending that the request of Richard J. Barrett, Jr., for a special examination for promotion to second grade clerk in the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, be denied for reasons given.

Recommending that the following examinations be ordered for the office of the President of the Bronx: Promotion to rodman, Grade C, to be open to all rodmen, Grade B, and to all axemen, Grade C, who are eligible; promotion to transitman, Grade C, to be open to all rodmen, Grade C, who are eligible.

Recommending that the request of Lieutenants in the Fire Department, who obtained between 75 and 79 per cent. in the examination for Captain, held June 21, 1910, that their names be placed on the list, be denied for lack of power.

Recommending that the request of the Commissioner of Street Cleaning that eligibility for entrance to the examination ordered for promotion to second grade clerk, be extended so as to include the position of telephone switchboard operator, be granted.

Relative to the letter from the Medical Superintendent of Bellevue Hospital to the effect that the position of laundry manager in his department could not be filled by promotion from the position of laundryman. Mr. Murray recommends that an open competitive examination be held for laundry manager.

The commission has also approved the report of Chief Examiner Ireland relative to the letter of George Kingsley, a candidate for Assistant Engineer. Mr. Ireland states that as the examination is not yet completed it is impossible to identify the candidate's papers and that there is a statement in the report of the examination that one of the candidates offered two sheets of answers after his return from luncheon. He recommends that the letter be sent to the Compiling Bureau with instructions to submit it to him with the papers of the candidate when the examination is completed.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for men only at the New York Custom House on Nov. 20 to fill a vacancy in the position of inspector of hardware, $900 per annum, in the office of the Purchasing Commissary, War Department, St. Louis, Mo., and vacancies as they may occur requiring similar qualifications. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Spelling (twenty simple words in ordinary use,) 5; arithmetic, (simple tests in addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division of whole numbers, and of United States money,) 10; letter writing (a letter of not less than 100 words on some subject of general interest. Competitors may select one of two subjects given,) 10; penmanship (the legibility, rapidity, neatness, general appearance, &c., of the competitor's handwriting in the subject of copying from plain copy,) 5; copying from plain copy (a simple test in copying accurately, in the competitor's handwriting, a few printed lines,) 10; training, experience, and fitness, 60.

Applicants must be qualified by reason of their special experience, to distinguish the difference between metals, such as wrought iron, cast iron, malleable iron, steel, &c., and be able to determine the quality of the manufacture of articles of hardware. Each applicant must submit with his application recommendations from at least three persons (preferably previous employers,) who have a practical and personal knowledge of the applicant's special experience and fitness for the position of inspector of hardware. The value of these recommendations will necessarily depend upon the extent of the recommender's acquaintance with the applicant and his work, which should be fully stated. Age, 18 years or over on the date of the examination, which is open to all male citizens of the United States who meet the requirements.

Censored Want Advertisements

"Only advertisements that are fit to print."

There are three questions every successful advertiser must ask about a newspaper—

(1)—How many people read it?
(2)—What sort of people read it?
(3)—Do people believe what they read in it?

ANSWERS

The daily city sale of The New York Times exceeds that of the three other morning papers popularly classed with it as to quality of circulation.

Times readers have confidence in Times advertisers because The Times prints only news and advertisements that "are fit to print." Telephone 1000 Bryant.

The type used for "Wants" is called agate. By counting seven words to the line in small type, or four words if set in capitals, you may readily estimate what your advertisement will cost by consulting the following table:

SURROGATE NOTICES.

HOENIG, PHILIP.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Sarah Hoenig, Ignatz Hoenig, and Sigmund Hoenig, the heirs and next of kin of said PHILIP HOENIG, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Hannah Hoenig of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of said Philip Hoenig, late of the County of New York, deceased; therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 29th day of November, 1912, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogate's Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 18th day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve.
DANIEL J. DOWDNEY,
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.

HUPPUCH HAS QUIT SERVICE COMMISSION

Governor's Partner Gives Up $15,000 Job and ex-Senator Douglas Is Named.

SIX COMMISSIONS TO FILL

Appointments Will Be Made by Incoming Governor—Two for New York City.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 6.—Gov. Dix announced late this afternoon that he had received and accepted the resignation of Winfield A. Huppuch as Public Service Commissioner, and that he had appointed former Senator Curtis N. Douglas to fill the office, which carries $15,000 a year salary.

The Governor said that Mr. Huppuch gave no reasons in his letter of resignation, but, in his former resignation last Spring, he stated that business required all his attention.

Mr. Huppuch was Gov. Dix's business partner, and in making known his choice of Senator Douglas as Mr. Huppuch's successor, the Governor stated that the appointment was carrying out his intention to have a practical business man on the Public Service Board. The appointment is for the term which expires Feb. 1, 1916, and must be confirmed by the incoming Senate. That body failing to confirm in one year, the designation by the Governor is automatically confirmed under the law.

Senator Douglas was born in Watertown May 28, 1856, and was graduated from Rochester in 1873. He then read law. Then he went into the lumbering busines in Jefferson County, and later established a classical school at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, New York, in 1881. Five years later he married Nancy Sherman Thomson, the younger daughter of Lemon Thomson, the Albany and Adirondack lumberman, and the sister of Mrs. John A. Dix.

Senator Douglas is a member of the St. Andrew's Society, the Fort Orange, University, and Albany Clubs of this city, and the Transportation Club of New York.

Gov. Sulzer will have the appointment of six Public Service Commissioners, four for the up-State commission and two for the New York City commission. The terms of William R. Willcox of New York and Frank W. Stevens of Jamestown, the Chairman of the two commissions, will expire on Feb. 1 next, while those of Commissioners John E. Eustis of New York and James E. Sague of New Hamburg expire on Feb. 1, 1914.

Other State offices which may be filled in the next two years, through expiration of terms, are:

Four State Fair Commissioners; salary, $1,000 a year each.

State Superintendent of Banks, 1914; salary, $7,500.

State Conservation Commissioner, 1914; salary, $10,000.

State Commissioner of Health; salary, $5,000.

State Commissioner of Labor; salary, $5,500.

Six members of the State Prison Commission; salary, $10 a day each while engaged.

Member of the State Board of Parole; salary, $10 a day while employed.

Superintendent of Public Buildings; salary, $5,000.

State Superintendent of Weights and Measures; salary, $3,500.

CODGER NUTT MAY COME IN.

Secretary Nagel Lifts Bar Against Young Drury Lane Comedian.

Codger Nutt, the little comedian from Drury Lane Theatre, London, who was sent to Ellis Island on Wednesday when he arrived on the Oceanic and ordered deported on the ground that he was feeble-minded, was released yesterday on a bond given by Morris Gest of the Manhattan Theatre. The permit, which was granted by Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagle, allows Nutt to appear in "The Whip" as the lost boy in the waxwork show, but he must leave the United States within twelve months.

When asked yesterday at the Ellis Island pier how he had fared at the immigration men's hands Codger replied tersely "Rough." All they gave him in the way of refreshing drinks was sour milk, he said, and Codger suffered because he was one accustomed to his "'arf pint of four 'alf" regularly in Covent Garden Market.

"What did they ask you at the Immigration Bureau?"

"First, if I knew the difference between a 'orse and a cow. I told 'em that an 'orse could be driven, but ye couldn't drive a cow.

"Then they asked me what I'd do if I see a gent in the road cut up into a 'undred pieces? And I sez that I'd report to someone."

Codger Nutt will share a flat with two of the other coster boys from Covent Garden Market who are going to take part in "The Whip." His lines in the waxwork show are: "Has anybody 'ere seen Crippen—C-r-i-p-p-e-n. Has anybody 'ere seen Crippen, Crippen with the dark-blue eye?"

When asked where he lived in London Nutt replied: "Kingsway, where that Hoscar 'Ammerstein built 'is hopera 'ouse."

WON AS NON-PARTISAN.

Max May Elected Judge Under Ohio Plan of Unidentified Ballot.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Max B. May, who was a Democratic candidate for a place on the Common Pleas Court bench of Hamilton County, was elected by a large plurality, according to returns from more than two-thirds of the precincts of the county heard from to-night.

He was a candidate with a large number of others, whose names appeared on a separate non-partisan judicial ballot, bearing neither party emblem or any other marks of identification. In the precincts so far heard from, May has polled 29,910, a majority of several thousand.

Left $10,000 to Stony Wold.

Melinda Hasbrouck, who died on Oct. 25 last at 237 Central Park West, left $10,000 to the Stony Wold Sanitarium. Her will was filed for probate yesterday. She also left $5,000 each to St. Luke's Home for Aged Women, the West Side Exchange and Industrial Union, and St. Matthew's Church. She left $200 to Reuben M. Mick, who was her guide in the Adirondacks, and bequests of $500 and $100 respectively to two servants, Augustine Dujour and Sarah Neving. The remainder of the estate went to brothers, sisters, nephews, and nieces.

ATLANTIC FRUIT REFINANCING

Share and Bond Holders Vote for Transfer to New Corporation.

Following various rumors which have been in circulation in shipping circles in the last three months regarding changes to be made in the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, Leventritt, Cook & Nathan, lawyers for the company, issued a statement last night which read:

"At special meetings of the stockholders and bondholders of the Atlantic Fruit and Steamship Company, held at their New York offices to-day, the Directors were given authority to transfer all the property and good will of the company to a new corporation, pursuant to a refinancing plan under which the present bondholders are to be offered in exchange for the bonds of the present company, 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock at par, with a bonus of 25 per cent. in common stock of the new company, the stockholders of the present company to receive one share of the common stock of the new company for every five shares of stock of the present company owned by them. The action of the stockholders and bondholders was unanimous. The entire meeting was harmonious, and the only incident out of the ordinary was a protest made by an attorney addressed to the wording of the resolution, which he thought vested too much discretion in the Board of Directors. No one, however, seconded the protest, and no dissenting vote was cast.

The persons having the reorganization in charge expect a speedy effectuation of the plan, and believe that the new company will soon be in operation, with a good working capital.

LUXURY FOR TURTLES NOW.

British Society Enforces Rules for Their Comfort at Sea.

Capt. S. W. Plunkett of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Thames, which arrived yesterday from Southampton via the West Indies and Panama, said the ship was eight hours late through the storm she encountered off the coast of Florida, in which several coasting craft went ashore. The Thames sailed from Antilla, Cuba, on Saturday night when it was dead calm and the heat was stifling. On Sunday morning the storm broke without any warning, the wind reaching a velocity of seventy-five miles an hour. On the forward deck the Thames carried forty-two turtles, weighing 300 pounds each. They were carried along the decks by the sailors and put down below aft.

According to a regulation made by the Board of Trade in London at the instigation of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Captains of all vessels carrying live turtles must see that they are put below in cold or stormy weather. On the Thames the bo'sun's yeoman was nurse to the turtles on the voyage up from Kingston, Jamaica.

BRIDE 57, BRIDEGROOM 29.

Mrs. L. A. Coe, Wealthy Widow, Married to Harold M. Sussman.

Mrs. Lillie Annette Coe of New Haven, Conn., 57 years old, and Harold Magnus Sussman, 29, of this city, were married yesterday by Alderman John McCann at the City Hall without even their intimate friends being aware of the ceremony. Shortly after obtaining the marriage license from the clerk at the City Hall, the ceremony was performed and the couple were off on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Sussman was the widow of Edward T. Coe, Treasurer of the American Brass Company, who left an estate estimated as close to $1,000,000. She is the daughter of Amos Wheeler of Torrington, Conn.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Sussman of 308 West Eighty-seventh Street, New York City. After graduating from Columbia University he acted as private secretary to William Faversham. He has written for magazines of late and is a correspondent for the Reuter Telegram Company.

AIDS CLOTHING SALES.

Lower Temperature Increases Call for Heavyweight Merchandise.

The coming of more seasonable weather has renewed activity in the clothing trade, and the demand for heavy-weight merchandise for immediate delivery has increased perceptibly. Overcoats in rough effects and fancy backs are selling well, and there are few left on the market. Blue chinchilla overcoats are especially strong, and practically all the mills making chinchilla have contracted ahead for deliveries as late as the clothiers will accept the goods.

Spring orders show a moderate and healthy increase. There is little speculative buying and small likelihood of a shortage. Business for Spring is a trifle more spotty than usual, with a strong tendency toward serges and gray suitings.

The men's wear fabrics market is steady and firm. Staple and semi-staple woolens are selling well for Spring, and semi-staples are expected to be strong for the Fall of 1913. The demand for worsteds is increasing.

HELD AS CORAL SMUGGLERS.

Importer, His Clerk, and Two Steamer Stewards Arrested Here.

Michel de Selectis, an importer and dealer in corals at 13 Maiden Lane, was arrested yesterday on a charge of smuggling by Customs Agent Ranalli and Inspector Hohenson, who seized corals valued at $10,000 out of his stock, which was stated to be worth $100,000.

It was charged before United States Commissioner Benedict in Brooklyn that $2,000 worth of the goods seized were smuggled into the country last May from the Italian steamship San Guglielmo by de Selectis, his clerk, Vincenzo Cacace of 238 Second Street, Brooklyn, and two stewards, Antonio Vitiello and Giuseppe Ruggiero, who were arrested on Saturday night.

The customs officials said that an investigation was under way to determine how much of the coral had been smuggled into the country. Commissioner Benedict held the importer for examination in $5,000 bail, his clerk in $3,000, and the two stewards in $1,000 each.

JURYMEN FAVORED WOMAN.

Many Admitted Bias for Mother Accused by Husband.

It was difficult to get a jury yesterday to hear the divorce suit of Isaac Dorflinger, a leather manufacturer, of 81 Fulton Street, against his wife, Mary Dorflinger. The case came to trial before Justice Gavegan in the Supreme Court. After Abraham Levy, counsel for the husband, had explained to the jury that Mrs. Dorflinger was the mother of two babies he found it hard to pick twelve men who felt that they would not be prejudiced in favor of the defendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorflinger were married in 1904. The husband names two co-respondents, whose names will not be disclosed in the trial. The defense of the wife will be that she is the victim of a conspiracy at the hands of her husband.

Federal Grand Jury for November.

This is the Grand Jury list for the Criminal Branch of the Federal District Court in the November term:

James A. Milligan, No. 2,741 Creston Avenue, the Bronx, foreman; John A. Kingsbury, Assistant Secretary, 105 East Twenty-second Street; Edward F. Sweeney, real estate, 626 Union Avenue; Edmund Maccaffil, tobacco, 175 Pearl Street; Franklin Johnston, Treasurer; 135 William Street; Edgar R. Lincoln, cigars, 22 Laight Street; John A. Hadden, Jr., 379 Fifth Avenue; Edwin H. Koehler, brewer, 505 First Avenue; Abraham Samberg, 345 Bleecker Street; H. Koch, hats, 76 Madison Avenue; W. A. Hall, President, 1 Madison Avenue; Isaac Livingston, woolens, 303 Church Street; Frederick Boland, 354 West 169th Street; John M. Kenny, Secretary, 215 West 125th Street; Alfred J. Cropsey, 48 Perry Street; Arthur L. Cahn, banker, 27 Pine Street; Arthur C. Kaufman, Secretary, 124 Fifth Avenue; William Jacot, seeds, 1 Water Street; Barnett Kennedy, 23 East 125th Street; Sidney T. Durham, retired, The Grenoble, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street; John L. Evans, real estate, 3,219 Third Avenue; Lorne A. Scott, real estate, 45 Pine Street, and John W. Smyth, liquor, 26 East Forty-second Street.

The Grand Jurors were sworn in yesterday by Judge Hough.

3-Pound Woodrow Wilson Burke.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 6.—Woodrow Wilson Burke is the name of a three-pound baby who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burke of St. Mary's Avenue, just after midnight this morning, at the Muhlenberg Hospital in this city. The baby is perfectly formed and appears to be healthy.

A Real Treat for Good Dressers

$30 Chinchilla Overcoats, at $20

Plain or Plaid Back—Satin Lined

Look where you will, in custom tailor or ready-made shops, you cannot duplicate these Overcoats for less than $30.

We bought these goods early in the Spring when all the trade "pooh-poohed" the idea of chinchilla becoming popular. But the trade was wrong; chinchilla is the most popular fabric this season and we are ready with the entire output of a mammoth mill that we bought at lowest opening price.

While others are raising their prices, because they have not enough goods to supply the demand, we are underselling the market owing to our tremendous purchase.

All colors—Black, Blue, Oxford, Brown, Golden Blue, Blue Gray, Beaver and Mole. All Wool Guaranteed.

Made box or belt back, single or double breasted. Worth every cent of $30.

Mail orders promptly filled. Send for samples. Open Until 9 P. M.
